Action Demanded On Queen Threats

TOO-TILTY TOWER is causing consternation among the citizens of Pisa, Italy, who have asked the Italian government to spend more than a million dollars to save it. Famed Leaning Tower of Pisa has increased its tilt by a quarter of an inch in last 45 years, and experts say it might not last another 100 years without falling down unless it is pushed back just a little. The 51 men and one lucky woman of our Legislative Assembly are hard-working people. On Wednesday they arranged to spend $47,759,505, a sum which includes Premier Bennett's $17,500 salary and a $400 bite for arrears of dyking assessments on lands reverted to the Crown.

But lawmakers are also human, and with our unlegislated Victoria spring invading the bloodstream, parliament at times relaxes its decorum to a remarkable degree.

Members, and even ministers, start on a round of deskhopping. They drop in on a friend down the line for a chat.

To illustrate, let us follow the progress of Highways Minister Gaglardi, one of a captive audience listening while red-tie NDP Leo Nimsick expands on the subject of rural electrification.

Mr. Gaglardi slips into the seat vacated for the moment by Public Works Minister Chant, a cabinet member known to keep an iron ration of goodies—the edible kind—in his desk.

Stealthy Paw

Up a cautious few inches rises the desk top, and in steals the Gaglardi paw. It rummages out a cellophane bag of what looks like caramel popcorn, but could be shelled walnuts or crumbled church-bazaar fudge.

Mr. Gaglardi helps himself to a handful. He shares his loot with Socred A. W. Lundell of Revelstoke.

They munch contentedly while Mr. Nimsick lists Kootenay towns forced to depend upon an Idaho power outlet for their electricity.

Presently highways liberates another fistful of public works' popcorn or whatever, and wanders down the government back row to share the treat with facts-and-figures specialist Ralph Loffmark, Vancouver-Point Grey.

"Then there is Grasmere," Mr. Nimsick informs the House, "and also, Yahk . . ."

Back Bench Giggles

Across the way, Mr. Gaglardi starts, swallows, and turns.

"What," he demands, "is the name of that place?"

"Yahk," replies the interrupted member. "Yahk, Yahk . . . and if the minister wishes me to answer his questions, he had better be in his seat!"

That started it: a climate of silliness which set the back benches — always easily amused—to giggling until committee of supply chairman William Speare rapped for order.

Then on we went, Yahk, Yahk, Yahk, through an afternoon surely strayed from April, to vote Mr. Bennett his salary and office expenses, and to pass finance estimates.

These are good days under parliament's dome. A surprisingly mild and easy session has left tempers so far unfrayed. The formal debate of Throne Speech and budget has given place to the give-and-take of estimates, where a dozen members of all parties may be heard from in half an hour.

Throne Empty

With the House in committee of supply under a chairman, the speaker's throne is empty.

This doesn't mean that Speaker William Murray of Prince Rupert can nap in idleness, though. He is parliament's business manager as well as its referee, and must see that its ponderous wheels run easy.

Herridge Alleges:

U.S. WAS 'DUPED' ON COLUMBIA

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A New Democratic Party MP claims he has evidence showing that the federal and B.C. governments "duped" the U.S. into paying an unrealistically high price for Columbia River downstream benefits.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) says he has a copy of a letter written by Jack Davis, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, which admits to the tactic.

The letter, says Mr. Herridge, was written in reply to Richard Deane, an electrical engineer of Trail. Mr. Deane had queried Mr. Davis concerning cost estimates of High Arrow Dam, one of three dams to be built under the Canada-U.S. Columbia River treaty.

Said Mr. Davis to Mr. Deane, according to the document Mr. Herridge holds:

"You mention a cost estimate of $157 million for the High

'STUPID' STATEMENT WRONG

By FRANK RUTTER

B.C. Resouces Minister Ray Williston today emphatically denied the U.S. was duped into paying too much for Columbia River power.

The charge, made by Kootenay West MP Bert Herridge in Ottawa today is "bad for Canada" and "pretty stupid," Mr. Williston said.

Mr. Herridge produced a letter he said was from Jack Davis, parilamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, to Richard Deane, an engineer for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd., at Trail.

The letter said cost estimates for Columbia dams to be built in B.C. were deliberately inflated to influence negotiations with the U.S.

Mr. Herridge said the letter was dated Feb. 4, 1964.

It referred to two cost esti-

B.C. Wins Curling

EDMONTON (CP) — The British Columbia rink from Kimberley, skipped by Ina Hansen, clinched its second Canadian women's curling championship in three years today with a 13-8 victory over Manitoba. (See earlier story, Page 15.)

Train Dynamited

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) —An explosion, apparently triggered by saboteurs, today derailed five diesel locomotives and 27 cars of a freight train operated by the strike-plagued Florida East Coast Railway.

20 Killed on Airliner

TOKYO (AP)—A two-engine, propeller-driven Japanese airliner crashed while coming in for landing at Oita, southern Japan, today killing 20 persons and injuring 22.

IN PARK

Mine Claims Granted

The B.C. cabinet today authorized two mining claims in a Class A provincial park—the first since a new policy to allow industry into the parks was announced in the legislature.

A cabinet order approved a lease on two claims in Kokanee Glacier Park, near Nelson.

It was awarded to two Edmonton men, Garnet Norris and Morris McLeod Stevenson.

Mines and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan could not be immediately reached for an explanation.

However, it was reported the two claims were originally staked before the park was established under crown reserve.

The cabinet order said the claims had reverted to the crown because of non-payment of taxes.

It did not say when the crown took back the claims.

However, it did say mining operation will not "interfere" with use of the park.

Kokanee is a small wilderness park.

Mr. Kiernan earlier announced the government would allow mining and logging in wilderness parks.

He said industry would provide access roads where the public cannot now get into wilderness areas.

OTTAWA KEEPS PARKS PURE

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government feels that the harvesting of resources above or below the surface in national parks is not consistent "at all" with the way in which the parks should be maintained.

With these words, Resources Minister Laing assured the Commons today that Ottawa is sticking with its long-time policy of "maintaining our national parks in a nature state, which means the preservation of the wilderness aspect of the parks."

ASTRONAUT GROUNDED ON BATHROOM RUG

COLUMBUS (AP) — Former astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., whose official entrance into politics may be delayed because of a "mild" concussion, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Grant Hospital.

Attaches said Glenn, injured Wednesday in a fall inside his apartment bathroom, was resting fairly comfortably.

Glenn, who was set to launch his bid for the Ohio Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate on Monday, was injured when he slipped on a bathroom rug. He fell—breaking a detached medicine cabinet mirror he had been trying to put back into place—and struck his head on the bathtub.

The marine lieutenant-colonel, scheduled to be released from active duty this weekend, suffered a cut on the forehead and a bruise behind the left ear.

New Storm In House

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Guy Favreau said today he intends to communicate with Ontario and Quebec attorneys-general once he receives the text of statements by separatist Dr. Marcel Chaput about the fall visit of the Queen.

Mr. Favreau, pressed in the Commons by opposition MPs asking whether charges will be laid against Dr. Chaput, replied that he expected to receive the text of Dr. Chaput's remarks shortly and when he did, he planned to communicate with the provincial authorities.

Opposition MPs, continuing their pressure of the government over Dr. Chaput's Monday night speech in Toronto, again placed on the Commons record these words attributed to the separatist leader:

"Some of my own people are ready to let her (the Queen) know—and brutally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) described them as clearly "calculated to disturb the tranquility of the state."

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) argued that the words showed a criminal intent on the part of Dr. Chaput and that it was Mr. Favreau's responsibility to take legal steps.

Mr. Nielsen and Mr. Woolliams are lawyers.

SHOUTED PROTESTS

Mr. Nielsen said, over shouted protests from government supporters, that Attorney-General Fred Cass of Ontario has said he does not know whether the question of legal action against Dr. Chaput is within his jurisdiction.

Mr. Favreau replied that Mr. Cass has said he is looking into the matter.

Mr. Nielsen also contended that legal action would have to be taken within six days of the statements being made. That limit would expire Friday. Would the government begin action before then?

Mr. Favreau said he is "well aware" of the limitations and restrictions spelled out in the Criminal Code. His own concern about the matter is "at least as deep" as that of any MP who felt it his duty to raise the question in the Commons.

He intended to discharge his duties as minister in a manner consistent with provincial administration of justice.

Donald McInnis (PC—Cape Breton South) asked why, if the minister is so concerned, he hasn't obtained Dr. Chaput's remarks before now.

DOES NOT REPLY

There was no reply.

Mr. Woolliams ran afoul of the Speaker in pressing Mr. Favreau for legal action and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker challenged Mr. Favreau to say whether he had been in touch with the provincial authorities to suggest action.

Mr. Favreau replied that he still was awaiting the text of Dr. Chaput's remarks. When he received it, he would get in touch with them.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette fired the parting shot, at least for the time being.

He asked why Ontario officials haven't arrested Dr. Chaput to satisfy the Conservatives in the Commons.

New B.C. Bank Backers Began On Shoestring

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Hungarian-born financiers, who parlayed a capital investment of $500 each into a multi-million-dollar international firm, have announced plans for Canada's third new chartered bank.

Peter Paul Saunders and Andrew Elliot Saxton said Wednesday they have applied to Parliament for a federal charter to form the Laurentide Bank of Canada.

Mr. Saunders is president of Laurentide Financial Corporation and Mr. Saxton vice-president.

Mr. Saunders said the bank will have at least $10,000,000 authorized capital. This compares with the $10,000,000 authorized capital in the proposed Bank of Western Canada. B.C. Premier Bennett said capitalization for the proposed Bank of British Columbia would be "many times more than $50,000,000."

"If our application is accepted, the bank will be national in character with its head office in Vancouver and it will operate across the country," Mr. Saunders said.

It would launch operations simultaneously across Canada in the 85 branch offices of the existing loan company. The bank may function as a subsidiary to the loan company or Laurentide shareholders could be given a preferred opportunity to subscribe the required capital.

The company had about 5,800 shareholders — some 2,000 in B.C.

The Bank of British Columbia is expected to operate within B.C. during initial stages and the Bank of Western Canada in the four western provinces.

Notice of intention of the new bank will appear in the Canada Gazette Friday and for three successive weeks, he said, before the petition naming the bank, its provincial directors and head office location, is filed with Parliament.

Laurentide is the outgrowth of astute manipulation of shares and capital that transformed

'Un-Texan' To Convict Jack Ruby?

DALLAS (UPI)—Jack Ruby's lawyers jolted the courtroom today with the suggestion that killing a Communist may not deserve the death penalty.

As the trial entered its 10th day with chances good for the quick filling of the last four places on the jury, defence attorney Joe H. Tonahill put this question to the 99th prospect:

"Would you consider it un-Texan to be a member of the first jury in America to give the death penalty for shooting a Communist?"

Lee Harvey Oswald was an avowed Marxist.

Panelist C. B. Perkins was not allowed to answer. The three prosecutors leaped up with objections and were sustained. Perkins was then removed for having an opinion.

BOGGED DOWN

The effort to complete a jury, bogged down again today when the first six prospective jurors were all disqualified.

The total jury candidates called reached 101 in the first hour of the morning session.

Eight men and women have been chosen as jurors, leaving four to be found.

Courtroom pricipals still believe the jury will be completed by Friday. Testimony could start immediately.

New Bank Welcomed, Gov't Plan Unchanged

The B.C. government's plan to promote a bank will not be affected by announcement of another new bank by a finance company, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday.

The Laurentide Finance Co. announced it plans a new chartered bank with a capital of $10,000,000 and head offices in Vancouver.

"This is no relation to the Bank of B.C.," the premier told Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in the legislature.

"I've held no talks with them."

Outside the House, Mr. Bennett told reporters he had heard rumors about the Laurentide plan.

But it will not be large enough to take the place of the government's plan, he said.

"It will be a private enterprise bank—so will be the Bank of B.C."

The government plans to buy up to 25 per cent of the Bank of B.C. shares.

Mr. Bennett recalled that Attorney-General Robert Bonner only Tuesday predicted there will be other new banks.

Mr. Bonner declined to answer when asked if he had known then about Laurentide.

However, he said the new venture was "very welcome" and reflected a general move to make western Canada a financial centre.

'BOOTLEG FEEDING' REPORTED

Bird Lovers' Feathers Ruffled By Campaign to Curb Pigeons

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A long-standing battle over pigeons and starlings in communities across New York state has ruffled far more feathers among the human population than among the birds.

For their part, the pigeons and starlings seem content to roost on buildings with the inevitable result, exist on handouts, tidbits at dumps and railway sidings. When the enemy appears, they vacate less hospitable locations—for a time at least.

An Associated Press survey revealed that more than a score of urban communities across New York state are aware of or doing something about the so-called "dirty-bird nuisance." However, the pigeons and starlings have powerful allies in humane societies and pigeon fanciers.

Estimates on the cost of cleaning up after pigeons and starlings range into the millions of dollars each year. This does not include the private cleaning bills.

LIVE 35 YEARS

Pigeons raise an average of six to seven broods of two squabs each every year and can attain a life span of 35 years.

Syracuse, urged by the city's newspapers and residents, recently began a full-scale attack on the problem.

The city imposes a $100 fine on persons convicted of feeding pigeons on public property. It sets traps which have snared about 2,000 pigeons and 10,000 starlings.

But there have been reports of secret, "bootleg" feeding of the pigeons and complaints about the trapping operation.

DISAGREEMENT RIFE

Disagreement is rife concerning the "pigeon problem." Health departments in several cities have declared the pigeon a health menace. The birds are given a clean bill of health in other urban areas.

Schemes to eliminate or discourage pigeons and starlings are diverse.

Hunters armed with shotguns are used and traps are set. These methods guarantee the birds won't return. Poison is avoided because of the danger to other wildlife and humans.

In the field of discouraging pigeons man's ingenuity reaches its peak—only to be frustrated by inability to convince the birds of their enduring unpopularity.

Electric wires, gooey chemicals that give the bird a hot foot, stuffed owls and crows, tacks, roofing nails, jagged glass, wire mesh and ash-can drumming have been tried, mostly with limited success.

The birds fly away, roost elsewhere and return when the heat is off.

Gibson: B.C. Can Be Rich Bennett: Tell Me More

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Logging tycoon Gordon Gibson Wednesday offered the B.C. government a plan he said would bring $600,000,000 a year revenue from forests.

Mr. Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, said B.C. timber resources total 2,000 billion feet. At $10 per thousand feet, they are worth $10,000 to every person in the province.

If the timber were properly harvested, he said, the annual cut would be worth $6,000,000,000 a year.

His idea was to persuade 20 companies of the size and efficiency of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River to build conversion plants over the next 10 years at a cost of $3,000,000,000.

These companies would share profits equally with the provincial government, possibly on a 99-year contract.

The government would also take 5 per cent of the end selling price of the timber products as a stumpage fee.

The profits and stumpage would each bring $300,000,000 a year revenue, Mr. Gibson said.

"We would be the richest place in the world."

Last year the B.C. government got only $40,000,000 from the forest industry, Mr. Gibson said. It could have been at least $200,000,000.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the government would consider any plan for forest development.

But he disagreed with Mr. Gibson's proposals for fixed assessments and taxes on a long term basis. The present system of forest management licensing allows annual changes in fees, he said.

The government now collects royalties, a 10 per cent profits tax, and a share of employees' and corporation income taxes.

BRISTOL, England—Mrs. Gladys Maud Wickham, 72, left court yesterday after being banned from driving for eight years and declared: "Will I drive again? You bet your life I will."

Then she added, "But I may have wings by then."

Mrs. Wickham, who was fined £75 was convicted of drunken driving. Tests showed she had consumed the equivalent of six single whiskies or four pints of beer.

Police hauled her into headquarters when the car she was driving struck another.

She pleaded not guilty and denied that she had to be helped into the police station.

"I went there under my own steam," she said. "I was struggling because I did not want them to help me. I was very nervous at the time. These things worry a woman of my age."

BIRMINGHAM, England—Lizzie Brookes, 91, has been awarded £140 for being the "longest regular customer" of the giant Ansells Brewery Company.

A brewery statistician calculated that she has downed 53,290 pints of beer in her local pub in 73 years.

LOS ANGELES—Beware of the tattooed man.

That's the conclusion of a University of Southern California psychiatrist who studied more than 400 men in a Veterans Administration Hospital, 65 of them with decorated skins.

Dr. Joe Yamamoto says he found the tattooed man had many behavior deviations, including:

1. He is more frequently divorced or single; indicating he was much more likely to have difficulty making adjustments with women.

2. With a record of court-martial and service-connected disabilities, he appears to be something of a liability for the armed forces.

Compared with an equal number of untattooed men, the school said in a press release on the study, more of the 65 came from homes marked by separation or divorce, more were truants, more were arrested as youngsters. Their records showed more arrests for drinking than for any other cause.

Why did they get tattooed?

"An impulse," was the most frequent answer, along with a desire to belong, or to impress girl friends.

Despite all this, the study showed, tattooed men attained equal rank and achieved as much educationally and vocationally as their fellows in service.

PORT MORESBY—A Papuan whose wife taunted him during an argument by saying "if you were a real man you would kill me" was sentenced Wednesday to seven years imprisonment after stabbing her to death.

PHILALELPHIA—William B. Hill, 22, of Toronto made a wrong turn while looking for the Schuylkill Expressway Wedneeday and ended up in a subway streetcar tunnel.

Before he realized all that bumping and jolting was caused by the track ties and not just potholes, his small auto was hung up. He couldn't back out.

A witness reported seeing the auto enter the tunnel and Patrolman James Campbell went to investigate. He found Hill and a companion, Don Crawfield, 32, of Mendham, N.J., trying to jack up the car.

"How did you get here?" the policeman asked.

"It was easy, I made a left-hand turn," Hill replied.

At this point a streetcar operated by Mrs. Evelyn Lynch, 40, approached the tunnel. She stopped when she saw the auto. After a conference Mrs. Lynch told the men to hook a cable to the back of the car and to the front of her streetcar. She put it in reverse and pulled the auto out.

The policeman gave two tickets to Hill, who left to find a repairman for his damaged car.

the Vancouver venture into an international financial complex with assets now valued at $300,000,000.

Fresh from the University of B.C., they started in 1950, Mr. Saunders then 22, and Mr. Saxton 21, opening Imperial Investment Corporation Limited.

The pair and three others had risked $500 each to open the firm. They set up a desk in the anteroom of a law office and were in business.

DRAW $100 A MONTH

Mr. Saunders became the company's first full-time employee in 1951 when their venture was 10 months old. Mr. Saxton joined the company later the same year. They took $100 a month from the firm as salary.

The firm became a public company in 1954 with a $75,000 offering of convertible preferred shares. In 1956, faced with tight money and a desire for expansion, they sold their voting shares to Power Corporation, a Montreal - based holding company.

But they took a management contract for the operation of the firm.

With 14 branches in Western Canada and Ontario, the firm bought Laurentide Acceptance Corporation Limited of Quebec in 1957 for an additional 14 branches in French-Canada.

Three years later they entered banking by purchasing the two-branch Commonwealth Industrial Bank of the Bahamas. Three years ago they moved into the United States, buying the controlling interest in Mercantile Acceptance Corporation of California with $43,000,000 in assets.

The name of the operation was changed to Laurentide in 1961 and the company reorganized last year when voting and non - voting shares were converted into one-class common shares.

mates for the Arrow Lakes dam — $157,000,000 and $124,000,000.

Mr. Williston said the latest correct estimate is $129,600,000—highest he has ever seen.

"No artificially high figures have ever been used either in negotiations or at any other time," Mr. Williston said.

Mr. Davis was never a party to the negotiations and was not officially involved in any way, he added.

ADJUSTED UP

"Time has shown that with increased costs the general figures were low and have had to be adjusted upward in every case," Mr. Williston said.

The biggest jump was for Arrow, he conceded, but that was mainly because it was decided to build a special lock to allow the passage of timber through the dam.

It will cost about $12,000,000.

Actual costs of the dam, and calculations for the sale of downstream benefits, were worked out on U.S. computers, Mr. Williston said.

KNEW MORE

"They knew more about the situation than we did — they have been working on the Columbia for 20 years.

"You can't leak figures to engineers of the stature of the U.S. team."

The negotiations were based on providing a service to the U.S. — extra power and flood control — and not on the B.C. construction costs, he added.

Arrow project. This is a new figure as far as I am concerned.

"High figures have purposely been 'leaked out' by the Canadian and B.C. governments with a view to influencing our negotiations with the United States.

"Now that the lump sum price settlement has been arrived at we are in a position to produce more realistic figures insofar as the High Arrow project is concerned.

"You will undoubtedly find that, of the latest figure of $124 million, a very substantial sum has been set aside for expropriation. It is doubtful whether all these monies will be required and therefore the cost estimate of the High Arrow project may be materially reduced."

The photostat of the Davis letter bears the letterhead, "Office of the Prime Minister," and is dated Feb. 5, 1964.

Mr. Herridge says he plans to raise the question in a speech he will make during the Commons' Throne Speech debate.

He says he will cite it as an "example of the immorality of the way the federal and B.C. governments have handled the whole Columbia issue."

"They have apparently not been honest with the Americans, despite all their protestations of international goodwill, nor have they been honest with the people of Canada," Mr. Herridge states.

"How can we believe anything they now say about what they call 'the fact'?"

The Davis letter was sent to Mr. Deane apparently in reply to a letter Mr. Deane had written seeking information about the Columbia Treaty and the external affairs committee hearings which will examine the treaty before it is ratified.

APPOINTED 1964 campaign chairman for the B.C. division, Canadian Red Cross Society, is Peter Stanley, of Vancouver. Quota for B.C. this year is $700,300. Mr. Stanley is provincial vice-president of the Red Cross Society's B.C. division.

Native Son Of Sidney Buried Today

Funeral services were being held today at Sidney for pioneer resident and native son, Roy Bedford Brethour.

Mr. Brethour, who was born in Sidney in 1885, died last Saturday in Rest Haven Hospital.

He was the fifth of seven children born to early settlers Henry and Emma Brethour. Henry Brethour was the first school teacher in North Saanich and with his brothers donated the townsite of Sidney.

STEAMSHIPS

Roy Brethour in his youth worked on the steamships Mystery and Iroquois in the Gulf Islands service. Later he was a partner in a general store and with his brother-in-law J. J. White, formed the Saanich Canning Company.

When the Victoria and Sidney Railway began operations, the partners operated the station at Sidney.

Two pioneer families were linked in 1914 when Mr. Brethour wed Pearl Neva Harrison, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harrison. They would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this year.

RETIRED IN 1943

In 1919 when the railway ceased operations, Mr. Brethour and Herman Slade formed Sidney Freight Service, a business which still serves the area. Mr. Brethour retired in 1943 to a small farm.

He was a member of St. Andrew's Church, Sidney; Saanich Pioneer Society, the Laurier Club and the Liberal party. At one time he served as clerk of North Saanich municipality. He served on Sidney School Board and in recent years was acting chairman of Sidney Water Board.

Mr. Brethour is survived by his wife at home; one son Gordon, of Victoria; one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Sluggett of Brentwood; four grandchildren, two brothers in Vancouver and Glendale, Cal., and a sister, Mrs. Redvers Smith at Brentwood.

Liberal Gov't Faces Double Test Tonight

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—The delicate life of the minority Liberal government goes on the line again tonight in the Commons—twice.

This time the Opposition will be gunning for the Liberals on the issue of increased family allowances.

Liberal MPs are outnumbered 136 to 129 by the combined Opposition of 95 Conservatives, 17 New Democrats, 13 Creditistes and 11 Social Credit members. To survive a confidence test the government needs backing from one of the opposing groups.

Since a government defeat would force another election, the real question facing members of the pivotal splinter parties boils down to this: Do they want an election now or later?

Tuesday night the government came close to defeat and drew support from only five opposition MPs as a Conservative non-confidence motion scoring sales taxes was turned back 128 to 120.

At Wednesday's sitting, the Conservatives bounced back with another non-confidence motion "regretting" that the government has not extended family allowance payments to youths aged 16 to 18 who continue studies.

Theogene Ricard (PC—St. Hyacinthe-Bagot) said in introducing the motion that the Liberals promised such a measure in the 1962 and 1963 election campaigns, but had failed to act since taking office last April.

It was only one of many broken Liberal promises, he said.

Raymond Langlois (Creditiste—Megantic) then introduced an amending motion regretting the government's failure to boost family allowances in line with increases in the cost of living.

The Creditistes brought in three different versions of this motion Monday and Tuesday, but the chair ruled them out of order because the subject matter bore no relation to the sales tax, the subject of the main motion then before the Commons.

The latest Creditiste motion is expected to be accepted by the chair today since it seeks an expansion of the family allowance program mentioned in Mr. Ricard's motion. It would be voted on first tonight.

The new tests of confidence will be the third and fourth in the 1964 session. The Liberals survived nine similar votes in the 1963 session but the eight-vote margin Tuesday night was the slimmest of all.

The throne speech debate ranged Wednesday all the way from family allowances to closer contacts with Communist China.

Gerard Chapdelaine (SC—Sherbrooke) said it is "diplomatic nonsense" for Canada to refuse to recognize a nation of 700,000,000 inhabitants that was exerting an ever-increasing influence in world affairs.

COAST TO COAST NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST

New Law Hits 'Thumbscrew' Moneylenders

By FRANK RUTTER

The B.C. government Wednesday took action to curb exorbitant credit terms and interest rates.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner introduced a new law called an Act Respecting Relief with Regard to Certain Contracts.

It gives the B.C. Supreme Court power to declare rates or terms are excessive and to force creditors to reduce them or to wipe them out.

"The fellow in the business of applying thumbscrews will realize someone can catch him up," Mr. Bonner said.

ONTARIO LAW

The new law is based on an Ontario statute upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada last fall.

"The intention is to give the right of review and court relief to someone who feels himself injuriously affected," Mr Bonner said.

He said the action follows the government's undertaking at last year's session "to do something about exorbitant interest rates."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan has been demanding a law like this for several years.

CREDIT, TOO

Mr. Bonner said the law affects not only interest rates, but terms of credit as well.

The government had considered forcing firms to disclose their terms, but decided against the move, Mr. Bonner said.

People would still be stuck with high rates if "their judgment were led astray," he said.

"It is a better approach to give a person remedy rather than adopt a variation of the principle of caveat emptor—buyer beware," he added.

SALUTORY

Mr. Bonner admitted the courts might have some difficulty in adjudicating a flood of disputes once the law is in effect at the end of this session, but he said he believes it will have "a salutory effect."

The new law allows the court control of "money lent," and "cost of the loan."

Money lent is defined as money advanced on account of any person in any transaction that, whatever its form may be, is substantially one of money lending or securing the repayment of money so advanced and includes a mortgage.

CAN REOPEN

Cost of the loan includes interest, discount, subscription, premium, dues, bonus, commission, brokerage fees and charges.

The court has the power to reopen the transaction, relieve the debtor of any excessive payments, deal with past accounts, order the creditor to repay any excessive amounts, set aside or alter any security or agreement made.

The court can step in even when a creditor is suing a debtor for payments.

NEW PLAN

Senators Offered Pension

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will propose legislation to Parliament for the retirement of senators at age 75 but present senators will not be affected.

First details of the proposed legislation, forecast in the throne speech at the opening of Parliament Feb. 18, were outlined in the Senate Wednesday by Senator J. J. Connolly, new government leader in the upper house.

Senator Connolly said in the throne speech debate that senators appointed after the legislation is approved would be retired automatically at 75 and would receive a pension to which they would contribute during their years in office.

The pension would be comparable with the pension now available to a retired member of the House of Commons. Maximum pension payable to a member of the House of Commons is $9,000 annually.

Senator Connolly said present senators would have an option to retire from their $15,000-a-year lifetime appointments on or after reaching 75. He said they would receive an "appropriate pension" but gave no further details.

This provision is expected to avoid the strong protests expressed at previous sessions of Parliament over any move to retire senators who have been appointed for life. Senators argued that such a move would be breaking a contract with persons appointed for life terms.

WELFARE CHEATING BRINGS JAIL

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Cheating the social welfare department brought a man 60 days' jail in magistrate's court Tuesday.

Peter Morgan received 60 days each on charges of conspiracy and forgery. The sentences will be served concurrently.

Morgan was charged with conspiracy for selling a $10 welfare lodging voucher to Mrs. Lucille Mossman for $5.

Mrs. Mossman also was charged with conspiracy Tuesday and remanded without plea.

Morgan was charged with forgery for altering and signing a second welfare voucher he obtained from a friend. The court was told he changed the $2 chit to $20 and, after signing it, sold it to Mrs. Mossman for $7.

'Deputy' Hate Play Nazi Pickets Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—The appearance of 14 uniformed members of the American Nazi party led to the only scuffle as about 150 persons demonstrated outside the Brooks Atkinson Theatre where The Deputy opened Wednesday night.

Police were prepared for any outbreaks, such as occurred when the controversial play was performed in Europe. More than 100 patrolmen, some on horseback, kept people moving.

The followers of George Lincoln Rockwell, the American Nazi leader, wore the swastika insignia on their brown uniforms.

Paul Sternberg, a salesman, raced into the Nazi pickets, who carried signs reading: "Deputy is hate . . . this is a hate play . . . this play is anti-Catholic . . . Jews mock Pius XII."

Police grabbed Sternberg as he tried to punch one of the Nazi pickets. Others who tried to join in were shoved back by officers.

Sternberg later told reporters he was not for or against the play, adding:

"The swastika should not be allowed on the streets of New York. I went over there and punched one of those guys and a cop hit me on the hand with his billy. What are they protecting those crumbs for?"

LAID NO CHARGE

Police did not make any charge against Sternberg.

Rockwell didn't show up. New York City police have a warrant for his arrest, charging that his remarks about Negroes and Jews at a rally a year ago tended to incite a riot.

An hour after the play started, the Nazis left.

The controversial play attacks Pope Pius XII for allegedly failing to condemn Hitler's mass murder of Jews during the Second World War.

Other groups picketing included members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; the Ad Hoc Committee to Protest The Deputy; Citizens for Mutual Respect, whose members handed out anti-Semitic leaflets; and eight "individualists" who said freedom should not be impaired, and carried signs saying "hurray for freedom of speech . . . only totalitarians would ban The Deputy."

A spokesman for the VFW said the play deals with hate and "this is the kind of hate that killed president Kennedy."

Housewife Raped

Hormone 'Fountain Of Youth'?

LONDON (AP) — A London doctor reported Wednesday he has successfully tested a hormone pill to restore vigor and virility in middle - aged and older men.

Dr. Tiberius Reiter, 61, member of the Royal Society of Medicine, told a meeting of the society and the British Endocrinological Society the hormone is testosterone. He now has about 40 private patients under treatment.

The hormone has been known for some time—and has been widely used as an aphrodisiac and restorative. The secret of Reiter's treatment is in the dosage.

Tests showed that the amount of testosterone in the blood almost six months after treatment was greater than that found in healthy men in their 20s.

He said evidence of the physiological effects of the hormone is available from increased thyroid activity, disappearance of urinary complaints, general increase in vitality and a measurable increase of the level of the hormone in the bloodstream.

New Pat Bay Terminal Ready 5 Months Late

Patricia Bay airport's new terminal should be completed some time next month—five months behind schedule but right in step with tradition.

One of the supervising architects today denied there was any substantial increase in the original contract of $631,300 awarded to Sorenson Construction Co. Ltd. of Vancouver in October of 1962.

"There have been the usual deletions and additions as work progressed bu the overall increase is only $20,000," he said.

Sorenson originally announced last October as the target for completion of the new terminal, on the south side of the field near Willingdon Road, and the new control tower, on the east side of the field near the present terminal.

It subsequently was pushed back this month but now is likely to be about mid-March. In the meantime, tenders have been called by Ottawa for equipping the new buildings.

Specifications available at the department of transport's regional construction office in Vancouver.

A long history of delays has dogged the airport project since it was first announced in 1957.

Originally it was planned as a $2,000,000 modernization but this was scaled down drastically by the Diefenbaker government's emergency austerity program during the exchange crisis. Plans for the terminal had to be drawn three times as a result of the delays and changes.

ARMY GOES GUNNING

MPs Up in Arms At Rifle Caper

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The great small arms caper had at least three cabinet ministers tearing their hair Wednesday.

External Affairs Minister Martin lodged a strong protest with the defence department about removal of rifles from a Windsor, Ont., high school's sharpshooting champion cadet corps. Mr. Martin represents a Windsor riding in Parliament.

Defence Minister Hellyer and Associate Defence Minister Cardin were reported to have chewed out the military for listing Windsor as a "sensitive area" from which militia small arms should be removed.

NOT UNIFORM

In the Commons, Mr. Hellyer said his Friday order calling in small arms to prevent them from falling into the hands of the self-styled Quebec liberation army had not been applied uniformly.

Bravely trying to swim over the tide of opposition laughter, the minister said an "obvious anomaly" was the Windsor incident.

Another, he said, was failure to remove small arms from three college cadet corps in Quebec while rifles were being taken from exclusive Ashbury College for boys in exclusive Rockcliffe, an Ottawa suburb.

Mr. Hellyer said the "sensitive areas" included in his Friday order are Quebec and adjacent regions of Ontario and New Brunswick. (Windsor is about 550 road miles from Montreal.)

Officials declined to say why Windsor had been included in the "sensitive areas" but informants said this was apparently decided by the chiefs of staff because of a French-speaking element there. Mr. Martin himself is French-speaking.

One source said the "sensitive areas" outside Quebec likely will be redefined.

The opposition in the Commons continued its drumfire of questions, especially concerning the army's removal of rifles from Ashbury at 12:45 a.m. Saturday.

Justice Minister Favreau said in reply to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the army did not have a warrant and that the RCMP did not intervene.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked by what authority the army entered the school at midnight "or is this simply lawlessness gone wild?"

Mr. Hellyer then reviewed the circumstances in detail and said action taken by the armed forces "was aimed at ensuring the security of all arms and ammunition in the minimum time possible."

An army unit from Kingston, Ont., was supposed to arrive at Ashbury at 9:30 p.m. but the truck broke down. Some of the vehicles acquired by the former Conservative government were not as reliable as they should be, he said.

Mr. Hellyer described as "ridiculous" the assertion of Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) that the soldiers were trespassing at Ashbury.

PRICE-FIX BILL HITS OPPOSITION

LONDON (CP)—The sharpest opposition to Trade Minister Edward Heath's bill for abolition of fixed prices came from within his own party and from trade associations Wednesday.

A group of rebellious Tory parliamentarians opened a drive aimed at killing the measure and one retail organization, the National Chamber of Trade, described as "political chicanery of the worst kind."

The concensus was that the bill to end resale price maintenance—the system by which manufacturers set prices for retailers—will have little or no actual effect before the election.

Sound Judgment Needed

MR. PEARSON HAS SOMETIMES been criticized as being too much of an academician to be a good politician, too much of a contemplative logician to be a party leader. He has been accused of giving too much thought to both sides of a question to produce the off-the-cuff action that can be necessary in political fighting.

These characteristics may be liabilities in some phases of the parliamentary world. But just as Mr. Pearson's scholarly, judicial abilities in world affairs won plaudits for Canada in the Suez crisis and a Nobel Peace Prize for himself, so today his typical approach to a problem through calm appraisal and careful weighing may be a godsend to Canada in facing our vital national crisis.

The Canadian bicultural problem is by its nature one to engender heat and temperament. Involving as it does race, language, historic heritage and even religion it is a natural field for rigid assertion and extremism. It is equally an open invitation to prejudice, intolerance and provocative rhetoric. On no topic can the rabble rouser more easily assemble an audience; no subject lends itself more readily to superficial thinking and loud appeals.

The dangers of poor national leadership under such conditions need no stressing. A politician might try to take personal advantage of the situation and both he and the country would become victims. A statesman would take a longer view, with a sense of history and an appreciation of the tremendous forces involved. He would give careful study to all opinions, subjecting them to more important criteria than expediency or popularity or party interest.

It is Canada's good fortune that at this critical point in our history we have a man of such judgment to lead us. Here is an issue in which only the calm, judicial approach can succeed. There can be heat and emotion, but only on the side of ideals, not in support of partisan preference. The stakes are too big, the cost of error too great, the responsibility too heavy, for any judgment or policy to be based on minor considerations. The survival of Canada as a nation after a century of struggle is too vital an issue to be decided on personal, party or political lines.

In Parliament a few days ago Mr. Pearson quoted the epitaph on the grave of a Canadian Victoria Cross winner in France: "How blessed it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." That emerges now as the country's chief need. And to meet it, Mr. Pearson charted his course: "To overcome rather than create misunderstandings at this time, to avoid rather than engender resentments, and to repair rather than tear."

On that basis, Canada will be well served.

Big League Fishing

A DRAMATIC TABLE PRODUCED recently by a news agency sets the world haul of fish in 1962 at 44.7 million metric tons.

About one-third of the total catch was made by Japan and Peru combined. Their harvests were almost equal, with Japan slightly in the lead at 6.86 million. Red China was third with an estimated 5 million, the U.S.S.R. fourth with 3.6 million, the U.S.A. fifth with 2.9 million, and Norway sixth with 1.3 million.

Canada ranks seventh with 1.1 million — one-sixth that of Japan and Peru individually, one-fifth that of Red China, one-third that of Russia and considerably less than one-half that of the United States.

There are many factors not disclosed by the table. It does not detail species. Nor does it break down into catches per fishing unit the amount taken by the different nations. Lacking, also, is any statistic on domestic consumption or the amount used for export.

But one feature does stand out. We run far behind five other nations in this industry, although our conservation measures for salmon and for halibut have stood, along with those of the United States, as models.

This summer we Canadians hope to establish jurisdiction for fisheries purposes over an area extending 12 miles out to sea. We look hopefully, also, for the approval of a new North Pacific salmon treaty which will provide protection against the invasion by foreign fishermen of salmon fisheries we consider our own on the high seas.

While our fisheries minister speaks optimistically of these possible developments, it seems realistic to draw attention to the statistics for the world catch in 1962. It is realistic because three at least of the top fishing nations of the world are nations with a direct interest in North Pacific fishing — Japan, Russia and the United States. Also to be considered are the Chinese and perhaps, at some future time, the Peruvians.

It is Canada's intention to establish a fence 12 miles to sea excluding alien fishermen except those with historic rights. It is Canada's wish to preserve in any new North Pacific multi-nation agreement the abstention principle which held Japanese fishermen away from "our" fish on the high seas.

There are impressive arguments for both protective devices. They are largely justified by Canadian and United States research and conservation measures conducted over a long period of time at great expense.

But since both would restrict the activities of at least three of the world's five top fish-catching nations, we, as Canadians, should appreciate the league in which we are playing and not expect easy acceptance of our proposals.

Fast Off the Mark

A NEW COMPANY JUST INcorporated and registered in the province by a Vancouver lawyer raises suspicions that the government's decision to allow private exploiters into the provincial parks has already attracted the attention of promoters. In fact the promoters seemed almost to be awaiting the signal.

The principals of the company were not named in the registration nor was the proposed area of operation. However, will anyone be surprised if the aim of this group is to get in on the ground floor when the parks are formally opened to development by private interests?

The object of this particular group, as listed, is to operate tramways, ski tows, places of entertainment and amusement, lunch counters and restaurants. Where have we heard that list, Mr. Kiernan?

The Old Swimming Hole

ALDERMAN GEOFFREY EDGElow furbishes a treasure of yesteryear when he throws out the suggestion that a service club here might consider restoring the old Gorge Park as a swimming hole.

It is a pity, he says, "that the place where we have the warmest salt water for swimming has no facilities."

Mention of the location will bring cheerful memories to a host of old Victorians—the "regulars" of the "Free" when that was the centre of this community's swimming fraternity.

The "Free" languished when the waters of the Gorge were condemned—and when the automobile made other, fresh water areas more easily accessible. Since that time Saanich has undertaken sewer work which has reduced the pollution to a point below the danger mark, according to health authorities. If the old swimming hole could be re-established the city would have gained an excellent and historic attraction.

Careful In the Woods

DEPUTY FOREST MINISTER R. G. McKee has paid an encouraging compliment to outdoors people in this part of the world.

He reports that while 100,000 persons used private access roads to recreational areas in the province last summer they avoided causing fires except in four instances—and these were small outbreaks quickly controlled.

"The record shows," says the deputy, "that people were not very careless."

They should not have been careless at all, but it is apparent that public education has advanced to the point where almost everyone recognizes the need to avoid carelessness with fire and cigarettes in the woods.

Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

FROM WASHINGTON

A Rule-Changing Look at Viet Nam

By JOSEPH ALSOP

BEFORE many days have passed, Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara will lead another mission to Saigon, to make still another on-the-spot survey of the situation in South Viet Nam. There will be a crucial difference, however, between this new survey mission and its numerous predecessors. For this mission will have to answer a question never before discussed or even seriously asked—the question whether it is necessary now, or will become necessary later on, "To change the rules of the game."

Alsop

As the rules now stand, the North Vietnamese Communists can inflict untold damage on South Viet Nam, by providing logistical support and secretly infiltrated leadership and day to day direction for the civil war there, without a moment's fear that North Viet Nam will suffer any damage in return.

President's Hint

A change in these singular rules was hinted by the president in Los Angeles, when he warned that North Viet Nam's thinly concealed aggression might prove "deeply dangerous." As already reported in this space, a sea and air blockade is the kind of expedient likely to be adopted, if it is decided that the North Vietnamese must be made to understand the danger by deeds as well as words.

A good many Washington cynics are shrugging off the policy-makers' current unprecedentedly grave review of the Vietnamese problem, on the ground that the president "can't do anything anyway, until after election day." But the one event most likely to hurt the president fatally in the election, is a real disaster in Viet Nam.

Object of Mission

The president will therefore do whatever he needs to do, in order to avert a disaster—provided he has been convinced, in good time, that a disaster really threatens. Just this, in fact, is what the new McNamara mission will be charged with finding out.

In the policy makers' discussions of the matter to date, it may be added, domestic politics has hardly been mentioned. No doubt this is because the problem works out in precisely the same way, even if you forget domestic politics entirely. Every foreign political argument favors continuing to fight the war in Viet Nam on the old rules, if it is safe to do so; but if this is not safe, every argument favors "changing the rules" forthwith.

The key argument is the deepening split in the Communist camp. With each month that passes, the division grows more profound and more incurable between the Soviet Union on the one hand and the Chinese and the North Vietnamese on the other hand.

Just conceivably, however, this splitting process can still be reversed by premature American action to "change the rules"—by a sea and air blockade of North Viet Nam for instance. Hence common sense calls for deferring any such action just as long as possible, to allow the split to become just as deep as possible.

Common sense equally calls for taking such action, if it be necessary, with a clear understanding that this is no light thing to do. The Chinese Communist armed forces are in full decay, because of the Soviet cut-off of weapons deliveries. The North Vietnamese are also suffering from internal difficulties. But if America has to act, the Walls of Jericho cannot be expected to tumble down at the first blast of the trumpet.

Such, then, are the main factors favoring delay. Secretary McNamara is going to Saigon to find out how much weight must be given to the factors favoring swift action. In other words, he will have to make a judgment about whether the new military leader of South Viet Nam, General Nguyen Khanh, can regain control of the situation on the ground and reverse the present trend of the civil war, without any assist from a "change in the rules."

Known Elements

Some of the elements in the equation are already known. The Communists, who had been half-holding their fire in the last months of President Diem's regime, have gone over to a maximum offensive effort since the coup d'etat against Diem. This offensive, plus the disorganization unavoidably caused by two successive coups d'etat, have caused a marked deterioration in Viet Nam.

The French, whose intelligence services still have a great deal of very squalid wiring left behind in Viet Nam, are pulling every wire to promote a third, "neutralist" coup d'etat. Communist infiltration and supply deliveries are also increasing. In short, there is certainly some danger that prolonged inaction will invite disaster. A third report will examine the odds on this danger being great enough to drive the U.S. to act.

FROM LONDON

Sir Alec's Honeymoon Is Over

By RICHARD PURSER

SIR Alec Douglas-Home's honeymoon is over. He is no longer being looked at by his own party or the opposition with the quizzical deference due a little-known beginner in the House of Commons. He is regarded by the toughest criteria of practical politics. He has been found wanting. He is a gentleman in the British sense of the word and despite the occassional flat-footed remark manages to be one even in the presence of lower classes. Everyone who meets him agrees he is a "nice" man—the word of faint praise used to dam him.

Purser

Beyond that his deficiencies are showing up more and more. Some of his major Parliamentary performances have been dismal, including his first one and also his most recent one. Some of his public speeches have been just as bad. His worst failures have been due to the worst cause: apparent ignorance of his subject matter. Some Tories, although a small minority, wonder whether he is after all the man to lead them into battle.

This is the uninspiring picture gleaned in London. But is the picture realistic? Politicians, journalists, diplomats, economists and the like in London live in an atmosphere of their own creation, one is almost tempted to write. The voter-at-large viewing Sir Alec in another perspective may see him differently and—who knows?—perhaps correctly.

Tendency to Flounder

He is by background better informed in international than domestic affairs and he is largely at sea in economics. He tends to flounder before all but the most partisan public audiences. But the width and depth of intellectual capacities are not the only criteria for judging prime ministers. Good sense, the ability to lead a team, the ability to ask for and listen to advice and to make decisions from it may be more important.

Sir Alec has become a standing joke rather early in his prime ministerial career; it took Mr. Macmillan years to become such a figure of fun. But it may be just a bit too easy for the cartoonists to label him as the anachronistic epitome of the British cult of the amateur in an age of the professional.

He is in truth bright, able, quick to grasp essentials, and capable of being decisive. For instance, in the controversial decision to abolish resale price maintenance he was not merely sold a bill of goods by the economically knowledgeable Mr. Edward Heath. When he accepted Mr. Heath's long-shelved proposal he was convinced on the basis of all the best advice he could summon that it was the best step for the country. He is not going to be pushed from that decision. On sticky issues like Cuban trade and Soviet credits he stood up against the United States for his beliefs.

Most Britons do not see Sir Alec's often ineffectual performances in Parliament and on the platform; they only read about them in the press. What they see is the sensible, plain talking, straight shooting man on the television screen. This may be the real Sir Alec, the Sir Alec that shines forth in the quiet privacy of a television studio.

It is the same Sir Alec seen by those who meet him in close working quarters. His easy-going affability may at times undo him in the rough-and-tumble of politics, but in the practical running of government it is nicely matched with his inner toughness.

He deserves to be taken seriously. This may be obvious to Canadians and Americans, who during his recent visit saw him practising in international affairs, his own field of expertise. But it needs to be brought home to many Britons, especially to a number of Labor politicians.

There is too much emphasis on his purely political shortcomings and not enough on the strength of his guiding hand in Whitehall. He is not what the political writers and cartoonists see him to be. He has the makings of a fine prime minister—if he is given a chance.

The people sense this increasingly. So does Mr. Harold Wilson, who is busy warning his dimmer colleagues to continue treating Sir Alec as a joke at their own peril.

Community Planning

"Men become what they behold."—William Blake.

It is because we appreciate this maxim that Mr. Chant "took a second look" at placing the new museum in Beacon Hill Park.

In the industrialized countries of the world, space is becoming the scarcest of all commodities—space to work in, space to play in, space to live in. Every year, as the homes and activities of men cover a greater area of the earth's surface, the need to plan the available space becomes more urgent.

In response to this need, the Capital Region Branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada is devoting itself to several areas which require public interest and action:

1. James Bay, with its link with our past.

2. The Blanshard Renewal Plan, which was approved by the Victoria City Council in 1958, and which still remains to be implemented.

3. The Saanich Peninsula. It is encouraging that we are becoming aware of developments here that, if allowed to proceed apace, will destroy one of the loveliest districts in Canada. In order to inform ourselves on the developments taking place, our Branch is arranging, in co-operation with every group and person who is interested, a day-long conference in April. I would suggest that a leisurely drive through the Saanich Peninsula is an exellent preparation for this conference.

Protests Radio Towers

The fact that one of our radio stations has made application to the minister of transport to erect towers on Trial Island should be brought to the notice of the public.

This Island is one of the beauty spots on the widely-known scenic drive and should not be marred by radio towers. This Island is also a bird sanctuary where thousands of our feathered friends find rest. The supporting wires for these towers spread over a wide area will endanger many valuable birds, some of which even now are becoming extinct due to man's thoughtless progress.

Who wants to stop at a lookout to view beautiful Victoria's waterfront including the charms of Trial Island and see radio towers? I am sure those who love Victoria will raise their voices in objection to this unnecessary distraction and claim their rights to keep the true attraction which our city gives to us freely and continuously.

JOSEPH GARNHAM.

Centennial Square Tenders

It is difficult to believe that an elected alderman can have so little knowledge of the principles of public tenders that he can state, "some of our contractors look upon municipal-government contracts as an easy mark." Private projects may in some cases be limited to a chosen few contractors at the discretion of the owner but public tenders are thrown wide open to all contractors who can qualify.

As no contractor knows all the other contractors who may bid and does not know the amounts they will tender, how in heaven's name can any one contractor assume he will get the job and in the confidence of this assumption lay on heavy profits? It is absurd.

The exact truth is just the opposite. All contractors know the public jobs are the least likely to yield even a fair profit in view of the fierce and open competition. Will Mr. Toone please tell us in detail how he arrived at these fantastic and insulting conclusions. How is it done?

A contractor's estimate is arrived at with much skill, labor and cost. It doesn't spring whole in a legendary way from his head. Every bit of material which goes into the constructions is measured and counted from the plan. Competitive prices are obtained from all suppliers of all materials. Labor is carefully broken down and calculated on each item of work.

Only by this long, laborious way may a contractor make an intelligent bid. If he has calculated $1.00 higher than his competitors, all the time and money he has spent on the job goes down the drain. Is it likely he will stupidly assume he has no competition, lay on an exorbitant profit and thus lose all his time and labor?

It is appalling to contemplate the sheer ignorance of people in charge of spending our money that they don't have the rudiments of the principle of open tender, whereby in every case the lowest possible cost is obtained by the city or government.

Reason for Parade Change

In your report of the recent general meeting of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, it was stated that the new route for the Grand Parade has been altered to provide a special vantage point for the television cameras. It is unfortunate that the reporter should have obtained that impression, as it is entirely false. It has always been this association's view that the interests of the attending public, and participants, should come first, and that television viewing should be secondary.

Our reasons for preferring the route along Douglas to Yates, thence along Government, to the straighter route directly along Douglas, are concerned with maintaining worthwhile traditions and with meeting the convenience of the public. It has, for instance, been the tradition in our city that major parades should pass over the Causeway and past the Cenotaph.

The alternative route along lower Douglas Street would have the added disadvantage of putting the bus depot out of action for some three or four hours on a public holiday, an unnecessary inconvenience to some of our citizens and visitors.

The new route, which has now been approved, has been carefully considered and we feel that it will be a great improvement over that used in the past, as the number of corners will be reduced from six to two.

In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation for the interest you have shown regarding the Grand Parade, and thank the Victoria Daily Times for the help extended over a period of many years.

J. D. WATTS, Chairman,
Greater Victoria Celebrations Assn.

Gerald Waring ... REPORTING

OTTAWA—There's been a stiffening of the Pearson government lately to the push-push-push from Quebec, suggesting that an equilibrium, a power balance, is jelling between Ottawa and Quebec City.

It is significant that the Pearson government, allegedly "soft on Quebec," has rejected Quebec's objections to the Canada Pension Plan and to federal loans to university students.

It is significant that Quebec Liberal MPs are losing their reluctance to support Prime Minister Pearson in his differences with Lesage.

And last week there was another manifestation of Ottawa's new don't-push-me-around attitude towards Quebec, when three federal ministers gave Rene Levesque a comeuppance over his demand that Ottawa surrender administration of Ungava Eskimos to Quebec.

★ ★ ★

Levesque, minister of natural resources in the Lesage cabinet, has made it a political objective to oust federal administrators from the Eskimo areas of Northern Quebec. In Levesque's thinking the federals must go not because the Eskimos would be better off for their departure, but because their presence is an affront to the "masters in our own house" shibboleth of the Lesage-Levesque government.

But the federals are in the Eskimo areas strictly in accordance with Ottawa's constitutional responsibility for the natives as confirmed by the Supreme Court of Canada. As Northern Affairs Minister Laing pointedly recalled to Mr. Levesque last week, "In 1939 this tribunal ruled that Eskimos were Indians within the meaning of the British North America Act and, hence, the exclusive authority to make laws regarding Indians and Eskimos was declared to be vested in the federal government."

Laing told Levesque Ottawa will not surrender its basic constitutional responsibility for the Quebec Eskimos. It will, with certain conditions and safeguards, "make an agreement which will enable Quebec gradually to take over the provision of the services, which the federal government is now providing, as a part of its general administrative responsibilities in the province."

★ ★ ★

The conditions make Levesque writhe. They are (1) Quebec must not operate Eskimo schools to force Catholicism and French onto the Anglican Eskimos whose second language is English. (2) If Quebec takes over, it will have to pay the costs. Federal cost participation will be phased out over a period of years. (3) The Eskimos must be consulted before Ottawa will agree to a transfer.

"Phoney democracy!" Levesque raged during his five-hour meeting with Laing, Justice Minister Favreau and Immigration Minister Tremblay. "The Eskimos don't known what's good for them," Levesque charged, apparently referring to Eskimo threats to quit Quebec if the transfer were made.

Laing, chief of the federal group, was firm and unflappable. No, he corrected Levesque, consultation would not give the Eskimos a veto. But, on the other hand, Ottawa would not "impose" a transfer on the Eskimos.

Last summer Levesque arrogantly demanded; he thought he had the minority Pearson government over a barrel. For months Laing said nothing, but cannily let Levesque talk himself over the barrel where Laing now has him. Levesque's prestige cannot stand failure; he must now buy on Laing's terms or risk ridicule by his political foes.

Caouette's Crew Turns Separatist

OTTAWA (CP)—The current throne speech debate in the Commons is pointing up a rapid transformation in the political thinking of Real Caouette's Ralliement Creditiste.

Creditiste speakers are sounding more and more like Quebec separatists. Day after day, they are warning that unless "radical" changes are made soon Quebec will break away from Confederation.

At the same time, the Creditistes are gradually moving away from Social Credit monetary theories on the "creation of capital" and stressing social welfare programs instead.

Mr. Caouette first began talking about a possible alliance between his Ralliement and the separatist movement last August, and his group's drift toward separatism began picking up speed a month ago.

WANT CHANGES MADE

A private meeting of 400 Creditiste leaders in Montreal Jan. 25-26 passed a resolution favoring the formation of a provincial Creditiste party with a separatist program in two years unless four key changes were made in the constitution of Canada in the meantime.

The Creditistes called for "absolute control" by the Quebec government over currency, trade, immigration and all direct and indirect taxes collected in the province.

Many political observers commented that if all four changes were made, Quebec would become practically independent in any case.

Mr. Caouette told a press conference after the Montreal meeting:

"That's the ultimatum. If we don't get that, it's definite. Bang! It's all over. We get out of Confederation."

The Rouyn, Que., car dealer followed the same line in the Commons last Friday. He said Quebec should get 100 per cent of all direct taxes levied in the province and criticized Premier Jean Lesage for not going as far.

ISSUES WARNING

"We . . . shall not be a party to the enslavement of Quebec by the central authority," he said.

In a Commons speech Monday, Creditiste House Leader Gilles Gregoire went further. He said the present federal-provincial relationship "can no longer operate."

Most federal laws discriminated against Quebec and the province needed "self-government." He called for "two independent nations" in one country.

Gerard Perron (Beauce) continued the theme, calling for radical and daring constitutional reforms. "We are the white Negroes of America," he said.

Gilbert Rondeau (Shefford) said Tuesday that "a national divorce" threatens Confederation.

"The union of the two nations in 1867 is on the verge of collapse . . . it is now time for action and for achievements before 1967, otherwise Canada will bring about its own downfall."

Raymond Langlois (Magentic) said Wednesday that the strain on national unity is primarily caused by economic factors. Rural Quebec was a depressed area and the federal government was doing nothing to correct the situation.

Quebec MPs belonging to other parties have accused the Creditisites of extremism, dangerous irresponsibility and demagoguery. They generally agreed that the great majority of Quebec residents oppose separatism.

LUCKY MAN, SAYS ACE NIPPON PILOT

Zeros Almost 'Got' LBJ

TOKYO (AP)—Subaro Sakai says Lyndon B. Johnson is a lucky man.

Sakai bases his judgment on the fact the U.S. president as a reserve navy commander in the Second World War, emerged unscathed from an air battle over Lae, New Guinea, June 9, 1942.

"We could not have missed his plane if our Zero fighter formation and attack had been normal and well organized," he said in an interview Wednesday.

Sakai, 47, is a former lieutenant of the Japanese navy and Zero fighter pilot who ended the war with 64 kills.

A copyrighted story in the current issue of the magazine Saga by two American aviation writers, Martin Caidin and Ed Hymoff, identified him as the pilot who came close to shooting down the U.S. Army B-26 Marauder bomber on which Johnson was an observer. Japanese war records were the basis of that finding.

Sakai said he had only recently come to a similar conclusion, "judging from my wartime memory and diary."

Sakai said he flew one of 25 Zeros in the fight.

Two B-26s went down and two Zeros were lost, Sakai said.

But Johnson's plane, with its right engine crippled, got away.

Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur awarded Johnson a silver star medal for his part in the action.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Tremor of the Hands

A recent article by Dr. Lewis J. Doshay said that, partly because of the increasing average age of people — which results in more men and women living into their 70s and 80s, more and more persons are getting a tremulous hand.

Alvarez

Often this senile tremor is mistaken for that of Parkinson's disease, or "shaking palsy." The differential diagnosis should be easy, because with a purely senile tremor there is no rigidity of the muscles; they do not feel as if "full of glue"; there are no shuffling small steps; there is no lack of swinging arms; no drooping forward of the body; no difficulty in getting up from a chair, and no "poker face."

Important is the fact that the hand tremor of Parkinson's disease becomes most marked when the person's arm is at rest, and it disappears temporarily when he uses his hand. This is just the reverse with a senile tremor, which comes when the person tries to use his hand, or when he is trying to hold his head straight up. When the head is rested on a pillow, the tremor ceases.

The person with a senile tremor is much less likely to become depressed over his predicament than is the person with Parkinson's disease.

★ ★ ★

There is also a familial or hereditary type of tremor, which comes with effort, much as does the senile tremor. The difference is that the familial tremor often begins in youth, and even in childhood, as when the youngster first tries to write. Usually the physician can learn of others in the family who have the tremor. Some may not think that they have it, but just let them try to pick up a pin from the glass top of a desk—and there it is.

Multiple sclerosis is another ailment in which there may be an "effort tremor," but this usually comes too early in life to be of the senile type, and usually there are a number of symptoms of weakness of muscles, numbness, odd movements of the eyeballs, or occasional impairment of vision which will tell the physician that he is dealing with a disease which is damaging many small parts of the nervous system.

MISSILE DESTROYER

U.S. Test Runs Mixed Ship Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary McNamara Wednesday night assigned the U.S. navy's guided missile destroyer Biddle to a unique multinational experiment in which six other NATO countries will contribute crew members.

President Johnson approved the experiment, forerunner of a possible NATO force of Polaris missile-launching surface ships.

The United States will furnish 50 per cent of the crew for the 18-month test of mixed manning of a warship.

Also providing officers and men for the 334-man crew will be West Germany, Britain, Greece, Italy, The Netherlands and Turkey. None will be allowed more than 20 per cent.

The ship will be under U.S. command. It will serve with the 2nd Fleet in the Atlantic and the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

A Pentagon spokesman said agreement to take part in the experiment does not commit any country to joining in a subsequent Polaris missile fleet of 25 ships mounting 200 missiles. The fleet will be owned and operated by NATO.

Golf Course Rezoning Nets Profit

Rezoning Oak Bay golf courses last year to "golf club use only" benefited the clubs to the tune of $37,290.

Previously both Uplands and Victoria Golf Clubs were in areas zoned for residential use. A year ago the zoning and planning committee for Oak Bay recommended that the area be rezoned for golf club use only.

No objections were made at a public hearing and in July the bylaw was passed.

This year the assessment of the 120-acre Uplands Club was reduced from $169,300 to $151,150 and the 95-acre Victoria Club from $191,340 to $172,200.

Reason for the slightly higher reduction in the Uplands assessment is because there is already a restrictive covenant on the property, effective until 1974.

New Jericho School

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new $500,000 Jericho Hill School for deaf and blind students will be officially opened Saturday by Education Minister Peterson. The new building includes a swimming pool, bowling alley, handicraft rooms, classrooms and dormitories to house 62 students living in. Ground has been broken for a similar building for girls.

Labor 'Ignored' In Resource Development

Labor has been excluded from any effective participation in British Columbia's resource development, an official of the Canadian Labor Congress said here Wednesday afternoon.

"The views of organized labor on this subject have been largely ignored by managements and by governments past and present," E. C. Sims, regional vice-president of the CLC, told the 15th B.C. Natural Resources Conference at the Empress Hotel.

"In general there is a lack of any sense of purpose in this province. For some years now we have lacked governments with any meaningful political philosophy or social ideology.

"We can never hope to achieve truly great things, in spite of our great resources, until we have government leadership with a sense of purpose and the ability to convey that sense of purpose to all our people."

Mr. Sims was speaking during a panel discussion on "what should be the objectives of our resource development?"

"Our government is fond of referring to B.C.'s economy as buoyant, and in some respects this is true. But ours is an uncontrolled and unplanned economy. While a summary of this economy gives a picture of buoyancy, a closer examination reveals geographic pockets of poverty or depressed areas.

"In addition, our high unemployment rate means that for a substantial number of our people this buoyancy is non-existent."

Protect Future Generations

Mr. Sims called for far-sighted development programs which would ensure that B.C.'s resources are available for generations to come. But resources which are not renewable, such as many mineral resources, should be carefully conserved.

"In the past," he said, "British Columbia has been guilty of permitting—even abetting—private interests to rape our natural resources."

Earlier, the conference was told that high labor costs are retarding the growth of the province.

John R. Bradfield, Toronto, president of Noranda Mines Ltd., said B.C. workers have the highest hourly earnings in Canada and are working the fewest hours.

"Average wages in B.C. are a substantial $7 above the national average and further costly wage settlements have been made only recently. One contract granted an increase of 21.6 cents per hour per annum for five years.

"This simply cannot go on indefinitely. The prosperity it creates is false and of short duration. Increased productivity cannot absorb all these increased costs and prices are bound to rise, so that we will be right back where we started.

"In fact we will be worse off than before if our foreign competitors exercise restraint with their wages and taxes."

P. R. Purcell, Vancouver, chief engineer to the B.C. Energy Board, said economic pressures in B.C. are increasing at a rate dictated by world conditions.

Amazing Growth of Science

"This is due to the pace of industrialization in under-developed countries, the widespread demand for improvement in living standards and the amazing growth of science and technology."

Mr. Purcell said one of the incentives in resource development should be to increase the extent to which raw materials are processed before leaving the province.

Increased attention to developing export markets would provide additional economic incentive, he said.

Glen Smith, Cranbrook, regional biologist in the B.C. recreation and conservation department, said preservation of a natural environment should be a major objective of resource development.

"Particularly for the sake of children, the natural environment should be available to people as part of their daily lives. Nature should not be an island in urban area, or a shrine visited only on annual holidays."

Rev. R. M. Goodall, New Westminster, said the world's population is growing at the rate of 5,000 an hour, so that resource development is needed to produce more food, more minerals, more homes and more recreation areas.

'One of the Bravest' British Agents Dies

PARIS (Reuters)—RAF Wing-Cmdr. Forest Yeo-Thomas, 62, one of the bravest and most famous of Britain's Second World War secret agents, died in his home here Tuesday, it was announced last night.

Yeo-Thomas lived in Paris before the war and parachuted into France three times, the first to help organize the resistance under his code name White Rabbit.

This name became the title of a 1952 best-selling book about his exploits.

Friends said he died from complications of injuries he suffered at the hands of the Gestapo. After his third secret jump into France, he was betrayed in Paris early in 1944.

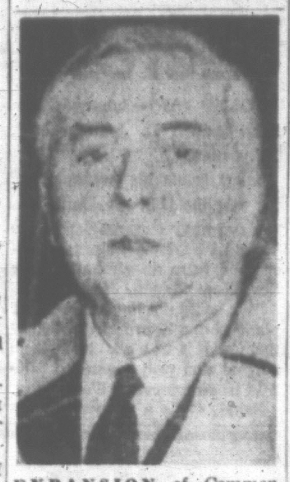

For four days he was continually beaten, whipped, kicked and held in ice-cold water with arms and legs chained. For two months he was questioned daily. For four months he was in pitch-black solitary confinement.

Finally, Yeo-Thomas was sent to Buchenwald death camp "to be exterminated."

A German overseer marked him dead in exchange for a promise to testify on the German's behalf after the war. Yeo-Thomas took a Frenchman's identity and was sent to a Jewish death camp as a corpse-carrying assistant.

He and 20 others tried to escape; he and nine others made it.

Yeo-Thomas won many honors, including the George Cross, Military Cross and Croix de Guerre. He settled after the war in the city he loved best but had suffered greatly for 18 months until death came.

EXPANSION of Commonwealth trade is expected to be the main object of visits to Canada and United States by British Labor Party leader Harold Wilson, who left by air today. Wilson will make a major policy speech Friday night in Montreal.

MLA Proposes Government Insurance

A government fire insurance agency for homeowners was advocated in the legislature Wednesday.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver-East) said it should be complementary to existing private insurance firms, and not supplant them.

For every dollar's worth of fire insurance bought by the public, 58 cents goes to meet claims and 42 cents for profits and administration costs, Mr. Macdonald said.

"There is no excuse for the homeowner to pay 42 cents of each fire insurance dollar for administration and profits," Mr. Macdonald said.

In Saskatchewan, he said the margin of a government plan is only 10 cents.

In 1962, fire insurance companies, mostly U.S.-owned, collected $20,000,000 worth of premiums, in B.C., he said.

5 PER CENT TAX TO STAY ON MEALS

There will be no easing of the 5 per cent sales tax on meals, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday.

Both Opposition and government members have complained at the current session.

They suggested increasing the exemption from tax above the present $1 limit.

When Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) renewed the plea in the legislature, Mr. Bennett replied: "The answer is no."

CRITICS DISAGREE

'Hamlet Undone' By Liz' Friend?

(Times News Services)

TORONTO — A critic gave Richard Burton raves for his "masterpiece" performance in Hamlet but otherwise the Shakespearean classic was unenthusiastically received in its opening here Wednesday night.

Ron Evans of the Toronto Telegram saluted Burton as "magnificent" but said his performance was "the only thing of consequence" in Sir John Gielgud's production of Hamlet.

"We've seen in Toronto only two other such brilliant displays, Sir Laurence Olivier's Beckett in 1961 and Sir Alec Guiness' Dylan two months ago," Evans said of Burton.

Nathan Cohen, drama critic of the Toronto Daily Star, said in a harsh review entitled "Hamlet Undone" that the pre-Broadway opening was "unmitigated disaster."

Said Cohen:

"Richard Burton must share a large part of the blame for this, saying his lines in a singsong intonation hampered by a persistent rasp. Occasional clear bits of natural delivery of his lines alternated with furious, unintelligible eruptions. He lacked any substantial quality."

He described the other performers also as "inferior."

MIXES HIS PRAISE

Evans mixed his praise for Burton with criticism of most of the rest of the cast.

He said Alfred Drake offers virtually nothing as Claudius: "he has not presence, character or voice . . . Ophelia, as projected by young Linda Marsh, is equally ineffective.

"Horatio Robert Milli, Laertes John Cullum, Rosencrantz Clement Fowler, Guilderstern William Redfield and Fortinbras Michael Ebert are a cluster of sallow, featureless fobs, fugitives all from a men's hairdressing salon."

He said Hume Cronyn was an exception: "His Polonius is superbly shaped, a rigidly dignified, garrulous, crotchety statesman . . ." George Rose as the gravedigger and George Voskovec as a player king were praised for contributing "guts to their efforts."

Of Burton, Evans said: "It was a magnificent re-entry to the theatre for the wayward Welshman," Evans wrote.

"Burton's performance is a masterpiece. He is the closest we shall come in this generation to the complete Hamlet. He is the whole complex man: Authentic prince, poet, scholar, swordsman, philosopher and lover."

The Boston and Broadway-bound Hamlet opened a four-week run at the O'Keefe Centre Wednesday night and received only polite applause from the audience and a lukewarm response from another critic, Herbert Whittaker in The Globe and Mail.

A major disappointment for the mink-and-dinner jacket crowd of 3,200 first-nighters was that the offstage star of the event, Elizabeth Taylor, stayed offstage.

AVOIDS THE CROWD

Burton's companion slipped in the stage door with two bodyguards and watched from the wings, avoiding the crowd which waited vainly for her arrival in the spacious O'Keefe Centre lobby until curtain time.

Whittaker wrote that "Burton's Hamlet has gusts of greatness, flashes of intensity and occasional depths of thought, but there were other passages that seemed loosely related to the central concept.

"His is a relaxed figure, driven to tension in certain odd scenes, but never mirroring a being gnawed by a pervasive sorrow or disgust with his state."

This Gielgud-directed Hamlet, marking the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth and bound for Boston and Broadway after four weeks in Toronto, is done in "rehearsal clothes" against space scenery.

A rough-hewn platform, chairs and a table; lounge suits for the king and his coutiers; long, plain dresses for the women; slacks, sweaters and windbreakers for non-courtiers are used in an effort to let Shakespeare's language emerge unalloyed.

SCHOOL BEST PLACE

Students Favor Sex Instruction

Children in their mid-teens should have sex instruction before they start to try things themselves," an 18-year-old student said Wednesday in a survey taken at two secondary schools.

Eight pupils were asked what they thought about school board plans to introduce a pilot sex education program in Greater Victoria schools this year.

Gary Kelly, 18-year-old Victoria High pupil said:

"I think sex education should be given in school, beginning at the junior secondary level.

"They should have instruction at about 16 years, or they start to try things for themselves. That's when they get into trouble."

ONE DISSENTER

All but one of those polled agreed with sex education in the schools. The dissenter held out for sex instruction at home, but felt school was second best place for it.

"It's a little late for us," said Agnes Howard, 17, Victoria High.

"The public health nurse has given us lectures in home economics on birth, but she is not permitted to touch on sex.

"I think it would be good to have sex instruction at about grade seven (12-14 years). It could easily be put into their guidance classes," the girl said.

Sex instruction at school is "a fairly good idea. It shouldn't be left too long," said Tom Antonson, 16, Victoria High.

'GOT TO LEARN'

"You've got to learn sometime and not too many get it at home."

Donna Hudson, 16, of Lansdowne Junior Secondary, said grade nine and 10 (15-16 years) is the best time to give sex instruction at school.

Barbara Burghardt, 13, Lansdowne: "It's all right if the child is old enough to understand."

Dennis Goddard, 16, Lansdowne: "Sixteen-year-olds in grade 10 understand more about it." They should get instruction when they are on the threshold of maturity," he suggested.

Barry Hobbis, 15, Lansdowne: "If parents go for it, the schools should, and the schools should decide if it is to be taught."

Two of the younger pupils admitted they could still benefit by a sex education program.

A 17-year-old at Lansdowne said the program should be introduced as soon as possible. "Students are completely ignorant of the facts of life, even up to grade 7," he said.

Co-Chairmen Meet Bennett on Monday

The co-chairmen of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism will meet here with Premier Bennett Monday.

A telegram from the commission, headed by A. Davidson Duntan and Andre Laurendeau, said the co-chairmen do not expect to have any special announcements to make following the meeting.

The commission is to hold hearings on the coast in early March.

BUSINESS VIEWS

B.C. T in Exposed Position

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

With the socialization of the B.C. Electric by Premier Bennett, the British Columbia Telephone Co. has been left as the largest single, investor-owned public utility operation in the province.

Gordon Bell

As such it is very much in the public eye, a handy target for the NDP and others who believe all utilities should be owned and operated by the government, and always in an exposed position when the time comes to publish its annual report as it did this week.

There can be no doubt but that the B.C. Tel management has developed a heightened awareness of its position as a whipping boy for the socialists since the demise of the B.C. Electric.

This awareness is evident in the report for 1963. Without being apologetic about increased earnings—which would be foolish for any company set up for the purpose of making a profit for the shareholders—the report makes an intelligent effort to relate the increase to the increased general prosperity of the province as a whole and to the company's progressive record in utilizing technological advances in both communications and business methods.

★ ★ ★

Aside from the financial results, which have already been published, probably the most interesting feature of the report is a statement on "public responsibility and the earnings requirement" given by J. Ernest Richardson, recently-named president of the B.C. Tel.

"The successful operation of an investor-owned regulated utility . . . is governed by factors that do not arise in any other type of business," he notes.

"Such a utility can prosper only by providing a consistently high standard of service to the public as a whole. This is a considerably heavier commitment than that of satisfying a percentage of voluntary customers in a completely free market. The responsbiility . . . is immense and unrelenting. The ability to meet this public responsibility is dependent upon reasonable earnings."

★ ★ ★

"Reasonable earnings are needed for the continual extension and improvement of telephone facilities and to attract and retain the right kind of people to operate those facilities. The company's established policy is to concentrate upon seeking employees with the best possible personal qualifications, to remunerate them well and to offer them every incentive for advancement on merit."

"Reasonable earnings are also required to attract, in the investment market, a continual flow of fresh investment capital at reasonable cost and to assure present and prospective investors of a fair return on their investment. Net income sufficient for the payment of bond interest and dividends at competitive rates with a reasonable balance for retained earnings can alone guarantee the above objectives and discharge the responsibility imposed on the company."

★ ★ ★

Fireworks were expected at the annual meeting of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Co. Ltd., both on the question of president Ralph K. Farris's indictment for perjury concerning statements made in an investigation of franchises and the expectation that a large minority group might make a try for control of the company.

However, the only mention made of franchise acquisitions was when Mr. Farris, in reply to a shareholder's question, said that no franchise had ever cost NONG a cent.

So far as the minority group was concerned, they didn't even turn up a vote at the meeting and their failure to do so brought a blast from Mr. Farris.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Farris said the minority group (believed headed by the N. B. Keevil mining interests) holds 313,000 NONG shares representing an investment of about $6 million. It was "not usual" he said for such a group not to go near management to discuss the company.

He also noted that the group's investment in NONG represeented about the sum it had received from the federal government as aid under the Gold Mining Assistance Act and suggested that the government had not expected that funds to assist gold mines would be drained away to Toronto to be invested in a company that did not need them.

Canadair Biggest In Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadair Limited of Montreal, wholly-owned subsidiary of General Dynamics Corporation of New York, is the biggest defence contractor in Canada for the fourth straight year.

The public accounts show that Canadair was paid $52,331,402 in the 1962-63 fiscal year, about $16,000,000 less than in 1961-62 and $35,000,000 less than in 1960-61.

Canadair's defence contract earnings were more than twice as big as those of the No. 2 contractor, Hawker-Siddeley Canada Limited, Toronto, which was paid $24,595,409. Hawker was in second place in the previous year as well.

Imperial Oil Limited, Toronto, was third at $18,921,272 and Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, Burbank, Calif., fourth at $13,349,617. Canadian Westinghouse Limited, Hamilton, third the previous year, was fifth in 1962-63 with federal payments of $10,820,009 compared with $16,642,385.

The thousands of contracts by the defence department reflected less spending on new equipment and more on services.

Portage Dam Costs Down —Dr. Shrum

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Work on the Portage Mountain dam already under contract has cost $33,000,000 less than original estimates, Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said Tuesday.

Dr. Shrum attributed the savings to a good labor contract, good rock where three half-mile tunnels were being driven and suitable gravel only 3½ miles from the construction site.

Dr. Shrum said further savings will be made by building the power house underground and that with improvements in high-voltage lines, only two transmission lines instead of three will be required.

He said the savings will be passed on to consumers, estimating power from the Peace River will cost less than four mills when delivered in Vancouver. Original estimates placed it at 4.2 mills.

U.K. Boosts Bank Rate

LONDON (CP)—The British government raised the Bank of England interest rate today to five per cent—an increase of one per cent—following signs of strain on the country's economy.

A Bank of England spokesman said the main purpose of the increase is to steady the pace of economic expansion.

In recent months there have been signs that expansion has been proceeding too fast for the eceonomy to bear with comfort. One indication of strain was the balance sheet for Britain's international trade in January, which showed the biggest excess of imports over exports ever recorded.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home attributed this to the buildup of stocks of raw materials for fast-expanding British manufacturing industries. Both Douglas-Home and Reginald Maudling, the chancellor of the exchequer, warned recently that the government would not hesitate to slow the expansion rate if necessary.

The bank or discount rate had been four per cent since January, 1963.

SEVENTH SINCE 1961

Today's change was the seventh since July, 1961; when it was increased to seven per cent from five.

The official bank rate is technically the minimum rate at which the Bank of England, the government banker, will discount approved bills of exchange.

In practice, it is the key to the general rate of interest charges on loans in Britain.

Prices sagged on the London Stock Exchange as soon as the news was announced. Shares were marked down as a precaution against selling, bringing drops of up to a shilling (15 cents).

Earnings Higher By 31 Per Cent

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Earnings of the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., second-largest brewery in the U.S., jumped 31 per cent in 1963 as the company marked its second straight record sales year, President Robert A. Uihlein Jr. announced Monday.

Gross sales reached $295,600,000, up 15 per cent over the $255,900,000 in 1962, Uihlein said, while net earnings were $12,900,000 compared with $9,800,000 in 1962.

Production for 1963 was 7,834,253 barrels of beer.

Power Line Permit

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority has been given authority by the National Energy Board to build a $2,300,000 transmission line capable of carrying 500,000 volts from a substation in suburban Surrey to the U.S. border.

The 13.4 miles link will provide a high capacity link for the exchange of power with the Bonneville power administration. This will allow both companies to exchange power to the other system during peak power use periods.

Craigmont Net Profit $3,322,605

VANCOUVER (CP) — Craigmont Mines Ltd. earned a net profit of $3,332,605 in the first quarter of this fiscal year, equivalent to 66 cents a share, president John D. Simpson said in a report to shareholders.

The earnings were $783,725 higher than for the same quarter ended Jan. 31 in 1963 and represented more than half the total net earnings for the full previous year when the total was $6,585,595.

The report indicated the increase in earnings resulted from treating higher grade ore during the period.

The president also reported that during the first quarter the company redeemed $2,100,000 in preferred shares, leaving a balance of $2,012,000 outstanding.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Before he surrendered the microphone Tuesday, Richard Batey, the radio-journalist, cautioned listeners not to go out and feed the hogs right away. Or something like that. By his tone you could guess something special was coming. Like "Municipal Report" or a world heavyweight championship bout.

The hogs were kicking it up "pruty good" but this hog-feeder froze. Ain't nothing he gets more kick out of than a sizzling "Municipal Report." Next to a heavyweight championship bout, of course.

Which would it be?

"In just a few minutes," Mr. Batey was saying, "you will hear the world heavyweight championship fight from Miami Beach." Pause.

"In order to bring you this match (sigh) . . . we have had to cancel the program, Municipal Report" (heavy sigh).

The Batey Broadcasting System obviously went to a lot of trouble to bring hog-feeders the "most important, most significant" event of Feb. 25, 1964.

Pity.

Little Violence But a Beautiful Stare

Almost every family has had louder, bloodier, more active fights than the one y'r agent saw on the closed-circuit one-eye at Memorial Arena.

For six rounds the screen was scanned for violence. The closest thing to it was a stare Mr. Charles Liston gave Mr. Cassius Clay before the first bell.

It was a malevolent look Liston fixed on Clay, a dark, thunderous, murderous, spit-in-your-eye thing.

In the Arena it evoked breath-sucking "aaaahhhs!" from viewers. It made you wonder if Clay, who thinks of everything, had prepared his will and picked his pallbearers.

Few productions equalled this one for farce, futility, forensics.

After the traditional hoary introductions of a few bona fide fighters, never-was-beens and never-will-bes, Arthur Godfrey and George Jessel were hailed. But not Sophie Tucker or Sally Rand. Maybe they are being saved for the rematch.

Finally announcer Dick Ellis had Liston walking toward the ring.

"There he is, the champion!" screamed Ellis. "He's walking through the $20 section, no, he's in the $50 section now. Pretty soon he'll be in the $100 rows, the $150, the $200, and THEN, he will be in the GOLDEN CIRCLE!"

Those last two words sounded like heaven. At $250 per seat, the Golden Circle admittedly was high.

You Became Distinguished for $250—

Before the fight promoter Bill McDonald said $250 seats would be sold to "distinguished sportsmen only."

To qualify, a ticket holder learned, you had only to walk to the ticket seller's window and say, "I want one of those Golden Circle seats." The seller asks, 'Are you a distinguished sportsman?' 'Here's the $250,' you say. 'You are indeed a distinguished sportsman,' the seller says. 'Here is your ticket.'"

Liston eventually made it to the ring. To the surprise of many people Clay was already there. There had been a suspicion that he might have tripped over his tongue before fight time and cancelled out. Regrettably, of course.

Clay appeared somewhat meditative before the first gong. He may have been rehearsing, just in case, a classic line Kingfish Levinsky tossed off after taking a merciless pounding from Max Baer.

Quote: "He hit me when I was saying hello to a friend."

Then the moment arrived. Distinguished Sportsmen and poverty-stricken peoples hunched forward, waiting for the carnage to commence.

Hardly a fist was thrown in fury. Two cream puffs colliding would have created more of an impact. Liston shed some skin under his eyes, but that kind of "wound" comes from a jab. Not a blockbuster.

Watch Where Walking, How You Talk

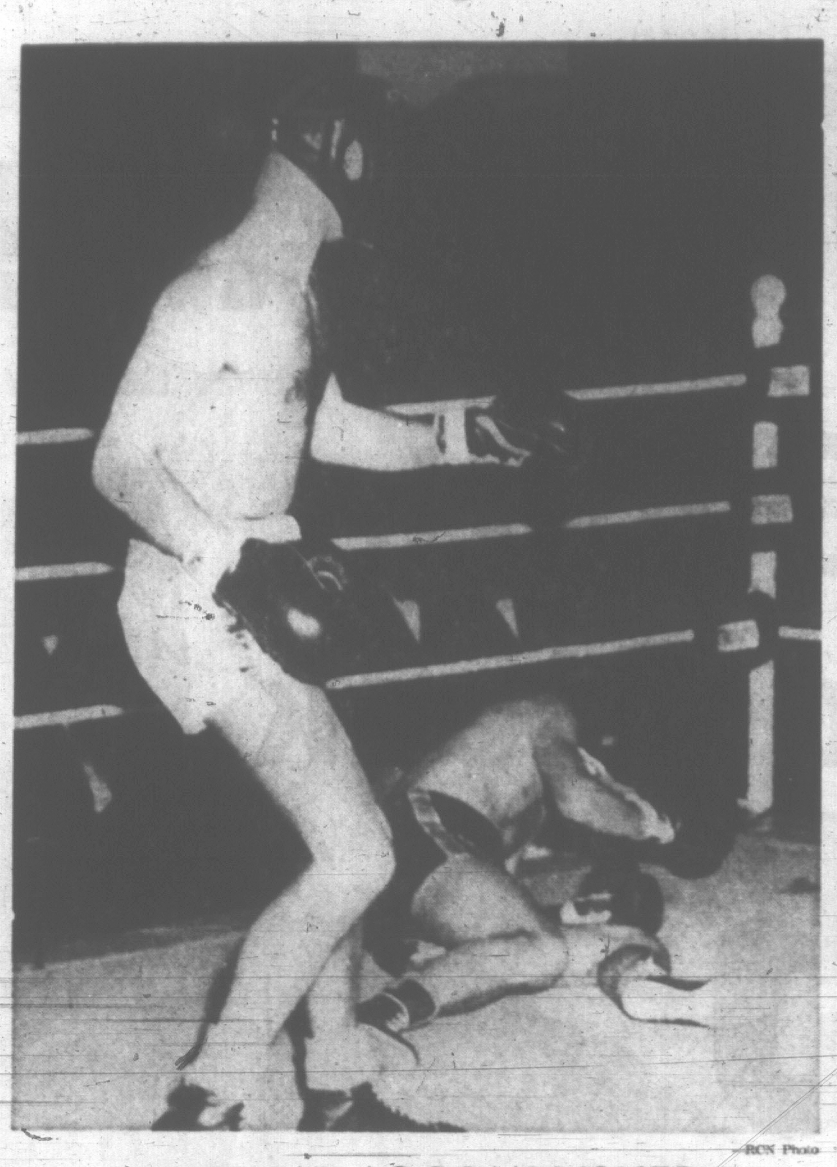

When it was over, unbelievably, and Liston sat there with his ever-present baleful stare, the warm feeling engendered by Clay's success turned to annoyance and then compassion.

Within most souls there was empathy for Clay. He threw the jive. He made reality out of fantasy. But who didn't believe his zaniness was a calculated ingredient?

Clay ran. Liston pursued. Nobody had his head severed. This allows Clay to claim immortality? You listen to so much of "I am the king! I am the greatest! I upset the world!" and you wish you had a shovel.

You know how it must be at 22 to have a crown and a good hold on a million dollars.

But you hope when Cassius Clay takes a walk he doesn't stroll too close to certain institutions. Too much of "I am king of the world!" and "I am the greatest" and they'll make room inside for one more . . .

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED

Only Victorian and lone Navy cadet in Wednesday night's inter-flight boxing finals at Royal Roads Services College, Mel Spotswood accomplished mission in a hurry. He dropped Don Mockdale of Willowdale, Ont., for full count at 25 seconds of first round. (See story on this page.)

Clay's Head Spins With Visions of $

Liston Cleared By Commission, Gets His Purse

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Visions of million-dollar purses dance in Cassius Clay's head as he looks to a bright fistic future and more chances to upset the alleged experts.

The newly crowned heavyweight champion has an army hitch in view and possibly title fights with the dethroned Sonny Liston, Doug Jones, Eddie Machen and Floyd Patterson, among others.

Despite his all-conquering record and his conquest of Liston on a seventh-round technical knockout Tuesday night, the chances are Clay wouldn't rate better than even money with any of them. He was a 7-to-1 long shot against Liston.

Thus there were possibilities of huge live gates as well as multi-million-dollar closed-circuit telecasts for his future fights.

EXPLAINS SITUATION

These depend, of course, on his service status. Bill Faversham, the manager of record for the 11-man Kentucky syndicate of businessmen that controls Clay, explained the situation:

"The selective service people deferred Cassius until after the fight and until he has sufficient time to put his affairs in order," he said. "After he takes a vacation, he and I will sit down and talk about whether it would be advisable to go into the reserves and serve six months with periodic service or go into the army for two years."

In either case, Clay's title would be put on the ice for him until his return.

Meanwhile Liston, his injured left arm in a sling, prepared to leave for his home in Denver.

CLEARS THE FIGHT

Liston, 30, and the fight itself were cleared by the Miami Beach Boxing Commission Wednesday.

Eight doctors, including Dr. Lester Rassin, a prominent orthopedic specialist, said Liston had suffered a torn muscle in his left shoulder and would not have been able to defend himself if he had continued after the sixth round.

Morris Klein, chairman of the commission, said that in view of the report the commissioners were satisfied there was "no wrong doing" and advised the promoters that Liston's $370,000 gate purse could be released.

"The people got a good run for their money and a good fight," he said.

He said the commission would turn over the medical reports as requested by Richard Gerstein, state attorney in Dade County.

TELLS OF INJURY

Liston, wearing dark glasses to cover puffed eyes and the cut under his left eye, said he suffered his shoulder injury in the first round.

"I felt something snap when I missed a punch," he said. "From the first round on I fought with one hand. When I threw my left the whole glove felt like it was full of water. When I raised my arm it felt like I had lead in my glove.

Liston said he wanted to continue after the sixth round although "my arm felt dead" but was overruled by trainer Willie Reddish and adviser Jack Nilon.

Liston, who suffered the second defeat of his career, his first loss in nearly nine years, and his first knockout, indicated he wanted a return fight.

He'll most likely get it because Inter-Continental Sports, of which Liston is president, has the rights to Clay's next title fight. Bob Nilon, an officer of ICS and a brother of Jack Nilon, said the outfit had paid Clay $50,000 several months ago for the right to promote the next fight.

European Press Not Unanimous On Title Scrap

LONDON (AP)—Surprise and suspicion were the two most general feelings in Europe Wednesday over Cassius Clay's seventh round TKO Tuesday night in the heavyweight title fight with Sonny Liston.

"Cassius licks the lot of us," was the headline in the London Evening Standard.

A French writer wrote in France Soir:

"Cassius Marcellus Clay, la grande gueule (the big mouth) did just what he said he would—float like a butterfly and sting like a bee."

IS IT A PLOT?

Paris-Presse, another big Paris daily, gave the fight a banner line which read: "The strange victory of the boxer poet."

A sub-head said: "Clay went into the ring a 7-1 underdog and America is asking: 'Is this a plot of the ring gangsters?'"

Reg Gutteridge of the London Evening News talked about the way trainer Angelo Dundee pushed Clay back into the fight for the fifth round — one in which Clay claims he was half-blinded by liniment from Liston's gloves — and added that Clay produced "the most incredible, walking-pace round ever witnessed in a championship affair.

"Clay looked as though inviting an end to his misery by patting Liston's head and lolling carelessly on the rope. Yet the Kentucky kid was only three minutes away from capturing the richest crown in sport."

In Italy, the Milan Corriee d'Informaziones headline over the entire front page read "Clay won: A scandal?"

La Notte, also in Milan, was more explicit. It termed the fight "a farce" and added:

"We refuse in the most absolute way to believe that there has not been a 'pastetta' Italian slang for fix.

"We must really become convinced, unfortunately, that in the United States, boxing is only business and nothing more."

Peter Wilson of the London Daily Mirror was among those who gave Clay full marks.

"Cassius Clay was right—he is the greatest. At the Convention Hall he stopped talking, started fighting and did what he has been screaming for months he would do—become the new heavyweight champion of the world."

In Denmark, boxing writers hailed Clay's victory as one of the biggest sensations in boxing history.

Toronto Needs Hodge— Out of Montreal Twine

Canadian Press

Wonder what Toronto would give up for Charlie Hodge?

The Maple Leafs traded away five players to acquire Andy Bathgate and Don McKenney from New York and they might be persuaded to part with several more valuables for Hodge.

Although the Leafs don't urgently need a goaltender, the fact that durable Charlie would be removed from the Montreal Canadiens nets could justify such a deal.

Hodge has been Toronto's nemesis this season and if the downfall of the Leafs in the second half of the National Hockey League schedule could be blamed on one player it would be little Charlie. Sounds far-fetched, but he's been that good.

Hodge shutout the Leafs on 29 saves in the only NHL game played Wednesday night as the Canadiens moved into sole possession of first place with a 1-0 victory on Bernie Geoffrion's second-period goal.

BLANKS LEAFS AGAIN

It marked the third straight game that the economy-size netminder has blanked the Leafs and the fourth time in five games. The Leafs haven't beat him since Jan. 29—or 217 minutes and 55 seconds ago, to be exact.

He couldn't have made it, however, without the help of the Leafs, who missed open nets, shot wide and bounced pucks off the goalposts three times to keep the scoring draught intact. Hodge admitted as much in the dressing room.

"I'm lucky too," he conceded.

Coach Toe Blake, whose team now is two points in front of Chicago and still holds a game in hand, was elated: "It was a hell of a game."

But Geoffrion, whose 17th goal of the season (despite missing 5 games with injuries) turned out to be his eighth winning marker of the campaign, was pale and morose. A severe throat injury suffered in January and influenza was bothering him.

"I don't feel very good," said the Boomer, taken out momentarily in the second period when Blake feared he'd faint with nausea.

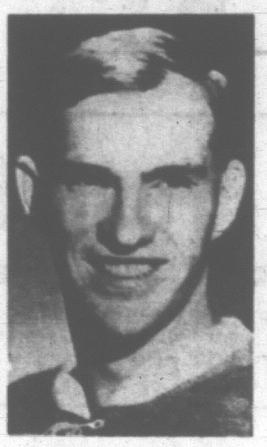

CAN'T HIT TARGET

Geoffrion's tally spiked an uprising by the Leafs, who were badly outplayed in the first period but came on with a rush early in the second, just missing when both Ron Stewart and George Armstrong hit the post—Armstrong for the second time.

Jean Beliveau set up the goal, passing out from behind the net. It was the only one of 41 shots that beleaguered Leaf goalie Johnny Bower missed.

Leaf coach Punch Imlach, who put Bathgate on a line with Billy Harris and Eddie Shack in a desperation move to score in the third period just shrugged: "That's life."

The Canadiens may have to surrender a share of the top spot tonight. Montreal and Toronto are idle while the Hawks host the red-hot Detroit Red Wings and New York visits Boston.

Petra Burke Third In Blade Singles

DORTMUND (AP) — Hollands' Sjoukje Dijkstra seemed headed toward certain victory today in ladies singles at the 1964 figure skating championships in this West German city.

The two-time world and 1964 Olympic champion scored 347.6 points on the first two of six compulsory school figures to lead her nearest rival by almost 20 points.

Regine Heitzer of Austria scored 328.8 points and Canada's Petra Burka of Toronto had 303.6 points for second and third places respectively, keeping at this early stage of the competition the same order in which they finished the Innsbruck Olympics.

Wendy Griner of Toronto had 292.8 for ninth and Albertina Noyes of the U.S. and Shirra Kenworthy of Vancouver were tied on points for 10th with 287.2.

Meanwhile, West Germany seeks its second gold medal when Manfred Schnelldorfer tries tonight to wrap up the men's singles.

The 20-year-old Munich student, who captured the Olympic title earlier this month at Innsbruck, carries a substantial lead from the compulsory figures into the free skating finals.

TIGHT FINISH

West Germany won the first gold medal of the competition Wednesday night when Marika Kilius and Hans-Juergen Baeumler defeated their Soviet rivals for the pairs crown by a spectacular performance.

It was the second world title for the veteran German couple but they lost the Olympic title this month to Mudmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov of the Soviet Union, who placed second here.

The nine judges gave the 20-year-old Miss Kilius and the 22-year-old Baeumler the decision on a 5-4 split.

The Germans had 13 ordinals and 314.5 points to 14 ordinals and 313.7 points for the Russians.

CANADIANS THIRD

Third were the Canadian pair of Debbie Wilkes, 17, of Unionville, Ont., and Guy Revell, 22, of Newmarket, Ont., who also finished third in the Olympics.

The Canadian couple had 301.5 points and 28 ordinals.

Earlier in the evening, Czechoslovakia's Eva and Pavel Roman moved toward their third straight ice dance championship with a unanimous victory in the compulsory ice dancing event which counts 60 per cent toward the title.

British dance champions Janet Seabridge and David Hickinbottom and Canadian champions Paulette Doan and Ken Ormsby of Toronto were second and third, respectively, after the compulsory dances, but were rated only a slender chance to overhaul the Czech pair.

Clay Was Hot Over Caustic Substance

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The new heavyweight champion of the world, Cassius Clay, said Wednesday he almost quit the fight because of part blindness two rounds before scoring a spectacular seven-round technical knockout over Sonny Liston.

CHARGES 'TRICK'

The brash youngster, the self-proclaimed greatest fighter in the world, openly charged the enemy camp with employing "some kind of a trick" which caused him intense pain and impaired vision throughout the fifth round Tuesday night.

"It happened in the middle of the fourth round," Clay said at a press conference held at Convention Hall. "I felt something burn my eyes and my face. It came off Liston's glove or head, I don't know which."

"I couldn't see. My eyes were on fire. My face was burning. When I got to my corner, I couldn't see nothing. I started out of the ring. I wanted Angelo Dundee, my trainer, to cut the gloves off me. But when the bell rang, he pushed me out into the middle of the ring."

Clay, blinking throughout and constantly wiping his eyes with the back of his gloves, kept out of Liston's way during the fifth round. He held off his heavier and harder swinging opponent with a long left arm, which he held out stretched, using it somewhat like a long pole, instead of as a weapon.

"It was some kind of a trick they had planned. It had to be. On any other fighter but me it would have worked.

"I couldn't see anything and I knew if he hit me he could knock me out. I'm human.

"I'd rather quit then so that the people would know the reason. If I went out there and got knocked out, they would think it was an alibi."

Liston and his adviser, Jack Nilon, disclaimed the use of any foreign substance.

"I didn't know he couldn't see," said Liston, who wore dark glasses while holding his own press conference several hours later. "Apparently he could see very good. He stayed away from me."

Troops Had a Battle Before Tripping Tars

Army was supposed to be an overwhelming favorite but Navy made the Pacific Coast tri-services hockey final anything but a waltz Wednesday.

The Tars pushed the Troops to the very edge before going down 6-5 in a harem-scarem battle at Esquimalt Sports Arena.

George Eade, a marksman earlier, scored the winning goal at 10:10 of the final period.

The game was tied four times as Navy battled furiously to pull a major upset.

Stu Kubb added two goals for Army with Dave Stone and Lou Desjardins getting the rest.

Ken Maxwell and Jack McAvoy had a pair each for the Tars, the fifth going to Dave Davidson.

Elston In Fold

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — New York Yankees brought one of their star performers into the fold Wednesday when Elston Howard, 34, the American League's most valuable player last season, agreed to sign a $60,000 contract.

FIVE DRIVERS CLEARED . . . . . . AFTER PHOTO HOAX

No Race . . . No Suspensions

TORONTO (CP)—Licences of five leading Canadian racing drivers were restored by the Canadian Automobile Sport Club Wednesday after the drivers were cleared of taking part in a race that wasn't held.

The CASC imposed the suspensions last week pending a hearing on charges the drivers had taken part in an authorized race in mid-town High Park, as described in the February issue of Canada Track and Traffic magazine.

The event, depicted in a pictorial feature article showing racing cars and skid marks on some of the park roads, was a magazine publicity stunt and did not take place.

The CASC, with no prior knowledge of the event, suspended the drivers for taking part in an unsanctioned race.

Dick Shelton, chairman of the CASC national competition board, said investigation confirmed the race had not taken place and that the drivers were unaware that a story would be written as a factual account of a race.

The editors of Canada Track and Traffic in the March issue describe the episode as a hoax under the heading The Grand Prix That Wasn't.

The story says all pictures were posed. The cars were pushed or towed into position and the skid marks were added to the photographs later.

The story named Eppie Wietzes, Don Kindree, Gord Brown, Grant Clark and Al Pease as the drivers.

Mel Packed Burden With Zest, Aplomb

Mel Spotswood carried a heavy "burden of responsibility" Wednesday as if it was a feather.

The lone Victorian and sole Navy officer cadet in the inter-flight service boxing finals at Royal Roads College, Spotswood discharged his duties with aplomb and zest.

He was responsible for the only knockout in the finals, disposing of Don Mockford, Willowdale, Ont., in 25 seconds of the first round of their middleweight match.

Welterweight Andre Boudreau of Sidney, N.S., won the Michael Phillips Memorial trophy as best boxer. It was the second time he was so honored.

Results:

Light middleweight — Walter Staples, Porcupine, Ont., decisioned Barry Struthers, Camp Petawa, Ont.

Heavyweight—Doug Hall, St. Catharines, Ont., decisioned Joe Wenkoff, Major, Sask.

Light welterweight—Jim Peacock, Barrie, Ont., decisioned Bob Perry, Edmonton.

Middleweight—Mel Spotswood, Victoria, knocked out Don Mockford, Willowdale, Ont., first round.

Lightfeight—Jim Addicott, Glace Bay, N.S., decisioned David Baase, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Light-heavyweight—Paul Rowe, Cobourg, Ont., decisioned Omar Van Rooyen, Sarnia, Ont.

Welterweight—Andre Boudreau, Sidney, N.S., decisioned Pete Needra, Sudbury, Ont.

Hansen Crew One Step From Canadian Crown

EDMONTON (CP) — Four confident housewives from Kimberley, B.C., needed only one victory in their two remaining matches today to win their second Canadian women's curling championship in three years.

Manitoba, one of three rinks with an outside chance of catching Ina Hansen's unbeaten B.C. crew, faced the leaders in the day's first round in a match that could sew up the title then and there.

If Myrtle McGregor's Carman foursome succeeded in snapping B.C.'s seven - game winning streak, Mrs. Hansen still had a chance to wrap it up against New Brunswick in the windup of the round-robin competition later.

The other rinks with a faint hope of forcing a playoff Friday by tying B.C. for first place were Alberta and Nova Scotia, whose 5-2 won - lost records matched Manitoba's.

Well out of the running with 3-4 records were New Brunswick, Ontario and Saskatchewan. Prince Edward Island and Quebec had two victories to show for seven starts while Newfoundland was winless.

RUNS INTO FIGHT

Mrs. Hansen, with vice-skip Ada Calles, second Isabel Leith and lead May Shaw, ran into her first real competition of the week Thursday. After drubbing the P.E.I. rink 12-4, she needed three in the last end to nip Saskatchewan 9-7 and a timely double takeout to subdue Alberta 6-4.

Mickey Down's Dawson Creek, B.C., rink, which represents Alberta, held its share of second place by bombing Saskatchewan 15-2 and topping New Brunswick 10-6 before losing to Mrs. Hansen.

ONTARIO PLAYS N.B.

Apart from B.C.'s closing engagements, today's draw pitted New Brunswick against Ontario, Alberta against Newfoundland, Nova Scotia against Saskatchewan and Quebec against P.E.I. in the eighth round and Alberta against Ontario, Nova Scotia against P.E.I., Quebec against Manitoba and Newfoundland against Saskatchewan in the ninth.

TIME OUT

By Jeff Keate

"No matter how bad a shot he hits, George always seems to get a good lie!"

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

Following a player behind his net when he has the puck generally isn't very smart hockey for a couple of reasons. However, there are rare occasions when such an extra effort will pay off, but they are the exception.

First of all, as a right winger, if I chase a player behind the net, I'm pulling out of position and probably pulling my centre and left wing out of position as well.

Secondly, the puck carrier generally has a little head start. Go in behind the net and you're actually behind the play.

He can cut you off at the corner of the net by coming out sharp. That'll leave you out of the play and usually leave one of the wingmen open, because your centre probably is in there, too.

That'll give you a rough time getting back, and they may get a three-on-two breakaway against you.

★ ★ ★

The smart play is to pull up in front of the net and play a little chess game with the puck carrier.

Staying out may make him stop, if he figures you may intercept him on the other side in the initial sweep.

If you make him stop and stall, you're giving your wingmen, as well as your defencemen time to pull up into proper position to make it rough for them coming out.

★ ★ ★

In a recent game with Boston, I hooked a defenceman a little as he started behind the net with the puck, slowing him up.

Another defenceman already was behind the net. The puck carrier evidently was certain I wasn't coming behind the net.

He carried almost to the other side of the net, then dropped the puck for the second defenceman. I had followed in and had the advantage of surprise.

The second defenceman tried to flip the puck back to the first defenceman. Instead, I got it and was lucky enough to get by both and surprise goalie Ed Johnston with a shot between his skates for my 51st unassisted goal.

CANADIANS DID IT

That Shutout Was Deserved

If any team was to collect a shutout in the Victoria Hockey League, Safeway Canadians deserved it most.

They have been the most consistent, the stingiest (in goals allowed) and have the second-best team scoring record.

Their diligence was rewarded Wednesday when offence and defence meshed to provide a 2-0 gem over Suburban Mercuries as the regular schedule wound up at Memorial Arena. It was the first shutout recorded in league play this season.

Canadians now meet Mercurys in league semifinal playoffs next Wednesday.

Dorman Cavaliers, powerful tenants of the league's basement, came alive Wednesday. They whomped second-place Arena Cougars, their adversaries in the other playoff series, 7-3, in Wednesday's other game.

HIGH SCHOOL RUGBY

Claremont Squad Blanked by Views

Claremont, which suffered a demoralizing thumping at the hands of University School last week, doesn't appear to have recovered from the beating.

Mount View made it look that way Wednesday by blanking the Claremont crew 6-0 in an Inter-High School Senior Rugby League match at Mount View as Ron Sallis took care of the scoring with a pair of penalty goals.

League-trailing Mount Douglas missed a chance to move up when Oak Bay visited the Mount Douglas grounds and handed the host club a 13-3 defeat.

Oak Bay's Harold Sutton and John Upward each scored a try. Bob Panton converted both and added a penalty goal.

Mount Doug's points came on a penalty boot by Bob Zapotichny.

University School, the prep rugby power, stepped out of league play this week after playing each rival team once. The University squad is slated to leave on a trip to England on March 13 and would be unable to complete a full schedule.

TRAFALGARS SEEKING COAST CROWN

Victoria Trafalgars, Vancouver Island senior "B" women's basketball champions, will try to nail down the coast crown this weekend.

Trafalgars are heading for Vancouver and a two-game, total-points series with Grandview Legion. The winner will advance to the provincial final in Kelowna.

Grandview and Trafalgars open their series at 8:30 p.m. Friday at Marpole Community Centre, wind it up Saturday at 12 noon in Grandview Community Centre.

Zephyrs Breeze To Series Lead

A strong 16-point scoring burst by Roger Skillings powered Victoria Zephyrs to a 35-16 victory over St. Andrews Wednesday in the first game of their total point city midget boys' basketball final.

Zephyrs—Roger Skillings 16, Chris Hall 8, Tom Holmes 4, Greg Schroeder 4, Brent Mullins 2, Darryl Wakelyn 4, Norm Smith. Total—35.

St. Andrews—Lewis, Dodsworth, Moen 9, Pendray, Rimmer, Schoeman 3, Miller, McColl 2, Mitchell 2, Culham. Total —16.

Fine three-game series of 570 has earned Betty Manson women's tenpin award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition. She fired games of 178, 186, and 206 in Women's Senior League at Mayfair Lanes. Employed by department of national defence, Betty has been bowling for five years.

Mickey Signs For 100 Gs

FORT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Mantle signed his 1964 baseball contract with New York Yankees today for $100,000, the same salary he received last season.

Mantle is the second highest paid major leaguer. Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants signed for an estimated $105,000 last month.

Injuries sidelined Mantle most of last season. He played in only 55 games, hitting .314 with 15 homers and 35 runs batted in.

Don Drysdale Hits Jackpot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale, 27, signed a contract with Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday and was reported to have become the highest paid player in club history.

A club spokesman said Drysdale received a $25,000 increase over his 1963 salary of $45,000.

The righthander has won 123 games and lost 90 in his career. Last season he won 19 and lost 17 but recorded his best earned run average of 2.63.

Celts Edge Czechs

GLASGOW (AP) — Glasgow Celtic of Scotland defeated Slovan Bratislava of Czechoslovakia 1-0 Wednesday night in the first leg of a European Cup Winner's Soccer Cup quarter-final.

CALGARY PROSPECT

CALGARY (CP) — Duane Cook, a 220-pound tackle from Oklahoma, has been signed by Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference.

Island Hockey Stars To Face Strong Side

Veterans of international competition promise to make it a strenuous Sunday afternoon for representatives of the Vancouver Island Ladies' Field Hockey League.

The Island reps step into fast company on the Victoria High School pitch Sunday at 1:30, when they tackle the Western Canadian team, comprised of players who were with the national side at the world tournament in Baltimore last October.

Of the 15 players selected for the Island squad, seven are from Cowichan. Mariners and Greyhounds each have three on the team and University of Victoria and Grasshoppers each have one.

Lining up with the visiting all-stars will be Meredith Adshead, Gerry Gillmoor (vice-captain), Allison Gourlay, Joyce Harris, Barbara Hart (captain), Barbara Lindberg, Pat Nichols, Moira Rerrie, Shirley Rushton, Jill Scott-Muncrief and Judy Seivell.

LEAGUE MATCHES

Three league matches and a friendly game are slated Saturday at 2 p.m. for Island League clubs.

First division contests will send Cowichan against University at the University grounds and Mariners against Grasshoppers at Central Junior High.

In a second division league match, Cowichan and University clash at Cowichan while Mariners play a friendly game at Norfolk House.

History will decide whether this mighty spectacle was worth all the time and money spent on it. Certainly it ranks with "Lawrence of Arabia" as one of the great films of our time and the superb historical settings, filmed in Rome, Italy and Egypt, are an inspiration in themselves.

There is some fine acting, too, but frankly I did not find the depth of characterization in "Cleopatra" that I found in "Lawrence," allowing for the fact that he is a supremely enigmatic figure who compels interest.

Much farther back in history, Julius Caesar may have been just as enigmatic.

As Rex Harrison plays him, he is suavely charming, a droll philosopher and something of a wit. Yet there were times when I was irresistably reminded of an Oxford or Cambridge professor giving an animated lecture recital on the great Roman general.

★ ★ ★

This may not be quite fair, since Harrison reveals deep feeling in his love scenes with Cleopatra and soul-searching introspections over his campaigns. And since he isn't talking Caesar's native Latin, there can be no valid objection to a crisp, professorly English accent.

As to Cleopatra herself, Elizabeth Taylor is as beautifully venomous and sweetly amorous as any Cleopatra could be. At times her petulance suggests a bad-tempered schoolgirl, but this could be in character so far as history is concerned. Furthermore, she is still one of the world's greatest screen beauties.

No one can doubt that after seeing her lying in the strong arms of Caesar, murmuring: "My breasts are large and full of love; my hips are round and far apart. Such women usually bear sons."

Caesar, of course, is desperate for a son and Cleopatra gives him one, directing that the boy shall be presented to him in the presence of his soldiers.

★ ★ ★

Now as to Marc Antony. Richard Burton is well cast as the Roman whose love for Cleopatra leads him to desert his fleet in battle. He is not a likeable character and Burton avoids making him so. Overall, his portrayal is finely done.

There are other notable characterizations among the international cast. Roddy McDowall is impressive as Octavius Caesar and Richard O'Sullivan is convincingly repellent as the young King Ptolemy, Cleopatra's brother.

But it is the color, spectacle and munificent settings which really make the film, and the many flowing dresses worn by Elizabeth Taylor are vividly alluring.

The script for this latest of several screen Cleopatra's was written by Ronald MacDougall, Sidney Buchman and Joseph L. Mankiewicz, who also directed the film for 20th Century-Fox.

It is actually an amalgam of two classic stories with the same heroine in both. In the first, Julius Caesar proves himself as warrior, politician and successful middle-aged lover before he is assassinated by Brutus (Kenneth Haigh).

In the second, Marc Anthony succeeds him as Cleopatra's lover, but with very different consequences.

Running time of the film has been reduced from four to three hours and 10 minutes, plus an interval. It is too full of incident to be tedious and a powerful musical score, written and conducted by Alex North, harmonizes with the general atmosphere.

B.C. Grant To Symphony $2,500

Victoria Symphony Society will get a provincial grant of $2,500 very shortly, Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced Wednesday.

He was answering Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane's questions in the legislature about the election promises last September of a government cultural grants commission.

Mr. Bennett replied that the government always carries out its programs.

"Already letters have gone out," he said.

"Cheques will go out very shortly."

Victoria will get $2,500 and the Vancouver Symphony $5,000, Mr. Bennett said. The money will assist the orchestras to turn the province.

He said the amounts are more than grants paid last year.

When Mr. Macfarlane asked if there would be any other form of cultural aid, the premier replied: "You've done pretty well."

CANADIAN INDUSTRY

Drug Firms Enter Era of Research

The pharmaceutical industry in Canada is entering a new era in its approach to research, Frank E. Evans told Victoria North Kiwanis Club Tuesday night.

Mr. Evans is the professional service representative of a Montreal Drug company, Smith, Kline and French.

He said most of the major drug breakthroughs occurred in the forties and fifties "but the huge challenges lie ahead of us—notably cancer, heart disease and a host of virus infections."

In previous years, drug researchers had been concerned with discovering new chemical compounds to cure illnesses without knowing how they did it.

LOOK DEEPER

"Now we must look deeper into the make-up of man himself, and seek the cause of an illness as the first step to conquering it," Mr. Evans said.

He added the Canadian drug industry was too young and undeveloped to play a large role in the discoveries of the forties and the fifties.

"But it has an excellent opportunity to be an active member of the team. Several companies have extensive research laboratories. Several others have announced plans to set up new establishments or add to existing laboratories."

He called for more government spending on medical research so Canadians would not be "increasingly dependent on the research and technical skills of others."

Commenting on the cost of prescription drugs, Mr. Evans said the high prices were largely due to the extensive research needed to develop medications.

Tests must be conducted first on animals to eliminate harmful side-effects, followed by controlled studies of the drugs in actual use.

"To cover these costs and make a profit, the manufacturer receives about 40 cents of each dollar you pay for a prescription," he said.

The rest is made up of distribution costs through retail outlets and the federal government's 11 per cent sales tax.

"Canada is the only country with such a sales tax on prescription drugs," he added.

'START THINKING NOW ABOUT BUS SERVICE'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday invited leaders to discuss the fate of B.C. Hydro's bus system.

"The premier would welcome any overture by the cities and municipalities involved with a conference including the Hydro and government," he told the legislature.

He was answering a question from Liberal leader Ray Perrault who said B.C. Hydro bus franchises expire in 1966 in Vancouver and 1967 in Victoria.

Mr. Perrault said the bus system is losing about $3,000,000 a year and the cities would not be able to operate the buses in the future without government aid.

LARGEST IN SIX YEARS

Big CD Class Graduates

Largest class of civil defence auxiliary police to graduate in six years will get certificates at a ceremony Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in CD headquarters, 1840 Blanshard.

Twenty-three candidates from Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Central Saanich and Esquimalt completed 20 weeks of intensive training to qualify.

They will be provided with uniforms and assigned to local police forces for further training and readiness for emergency service.

Victoria police chief J. F. Gregory will make his first appearance at CD headquarters as one of the guests invited to participate in ceremonies.

Other area chiefs, CD co-ordinators, zone co-ordinator, friends and relatives of the graduates will attend.

Three previous members of the auxiliary will be promoted: G. L. Foisy, from corporal to staff sergeant; I. S. Fredin, from constable to corporal, and A. Coye, to corporal.

Those in the seventh graduating class are:

Gov't Seizes Estates

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — British-owned rubber and tea estates seized by their workers in central Java last month are being taken over by the Indonesian government, Antara News Agency has reported. It was the first report of government takeovers since Communists and President Sukarno's regime began a tug-of-war over British-owned enterprises.

FLUOROSCOPE is rolled into position above 10-day-old infant suffering from a congenital heart defect. Doctors and nurses at Royal Jubilee Hospital work as a team every week during diagnostic procedure.

SKILLED TEAM AT ROYAL JUBILEE

Ten-Day Old Patient Snoozes As Tube Probes Faulty Heart

By MARGE GILROY

A 10-day-old baby lay quietly on the X-ray table, opened her eyes, yawned and then went back to sleep unaware that a small plastic catheter was wiggling around inside her heart.

Six days ago this infant, who appeared to be a normal healthy baby at birth, went into heart failure. She was immediately treated with digitalis and after three or four days recovered.

But what caused the heart failure had to be determined. Was it likely to recur? Would surgery be necessary?

Tuesday a nurse carried the wee infant to the X-ray department and there a team of doctors, nurses and technicians proceeded with a heart catheterization to find the answers.

Electrodes were fastened to both ankles and wrists and immediately messages from the heart began dancing across a small television-like screen in the electrocardiograph machine.

Threaded Into Vein

A local anaesthetic was injected in the baby's groin. The doctor picked up his scalpel, bared the thread-like femoral vein and through it slipped a plastic tube, opaque to X-ray.

Overhead a fluoroscope, a type of X-ray machine, rolled into position directly above the baby. There, on a mirror was the image of the tube as it wriggled around through the heart as though it were made of transparent celluloid.

Standing by the electrocardiograph recorder the technician counted "one, two, three, four, one, one . . ."

Each count told the doctor how the heart was responding as he slowly moved the catheter from one chamber to the next. And in each chamber the doctor paused to take a blood sample. Later they were analyzed for oxygen content which would indicate to the doctor if blood was leaking through valves or ducts that should be closed.

Almost immediately after a child is born the duct or canal connecting the pulmonary artery to the aorta closes but when it fails to close the infant's heart will be so overworked that eventually it suffers from heart failure.

Other congenital heart defects are sometimes found but the failure of this duct to close is the most common

The fluososcopic examination was finished. The machine rolled back and another piece of X-Ray equipment was rolled into position.

The doctor picked up a syringe and as he injected 5 cc's of dye into the heart through the catheter a series of 14 X-Ray pictures were taken in rapid succession.

The cardiac catheterization was complete.

Early Answer

Results from the blood tests would have to be studied and the X-Rays examined in detail to make a final diagnosis but within five minutes of the last procedure the doctor knew there was a leakage in the heart.

Each week at Royal Jubilee Hospital the same team of doctors, nurses and technicians follow through this procedure on at least two patients.

The patient may be a day old or 60, but no matter what their age each can look forward to treatment which a few years ago was not possible.

If these diagnostic and treatment facilities are to be expanded more money must be made available through the B.C. Heart Foundation.

Donations may be sent to Heart Fund office, Suite 218, Central Building, 620 View Street, or left at any bank branch.

BENNETT GETS HIS PAY IN 6½ HOURS

Premier W. A. C. Bennett got his $17,500 salary Wednesday evening — after 6½ hours of thrust and parry in the legislature.

(The premier also receives his indemnity of $5,000 plus allowances.)

The House then zipped through $47,689,984 worth of estimated spending for the finance department in the coming budget year in 55 minutes.

Debate on the detailed estimates of the various governments will continue today with the agriculture department.

A sitting is scheduled for tonight.

Death Rate 'Among Worst In World'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — The director of the Skeena Health Unit says the infant mortality rate among Indians in this area of B.C. is one of the world's worst.

Dr. G. P. Evans, director of the health unit at this northern B.C. port, said in his annual report that 25 of 278 native children born during 1963 had died.

"I don't think there's any rate worse in the world," he said.

He said the rate amongst the white population was much lower and that of 842 non-Indian children born last year only 29 died.

Dr. Evans said the deaths could be broken down into four main categories: congenital defects (largely avoidable); accidents; infections and prematurity.

He said "many child deaths occurred in the lower social and economic classes and are a reflection on poor or absent maternal care and general inadequacy of standards."

He said 17 child deaths were directly attributable to prematurity.

Dr. Evans said a study was being conducted to determine causes of infant deaths "to see if ways can be found to reduce them in future."

GRANTED PATENT

The first patent for a system of communications by means of electromagnetic waves was granted to Guglielmo Marconi in 1896.

MOTHER'S BUSINESS AGENT SAYS:

'Oswald Sought Nixon'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Martin, sometime business adviser to Mrs. Marina Oswald, today testifies before the Warren Commission investigating the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

The Houston (Texas) Post Wednesday quoted Martin as saying that Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of killing Kennedy, also plotted to kill former vice-president Richard M. Nixon.

Martin, who served as business manager for Oswald's widow until a few days ago, would not tell the newspaper how he learned of Oswald's alleged intent to kill Nixon. "It's part of the testimony," he said. "I can't comment on it."

Oswald has been implicated in an attempt upon the life of former Maj.-Gen. Edwin A. Walker in Dallas last April.

Martin and Attorney John Throne of Dallas, who had been hired to advise Mrs. Oswald, were dismissed Feb. 14 but both men said at the time they were unwilling to accept the dismissal. Throne said, "I still have a contract with Mrs. Oswald." Martin said Mrs. Oswald and her two children lived in his home for about 2½ months before leaving Feb. 1, the day after she returned from her appearance before the Warren Commission.

Mrs. Oswald has received more than $60,000 since the assassination and is reported to have more funds in prospect for magazine and books about her husband and their life together. It has been reported that she and her family are staying with her brother-in-law, Robert L. Oswald, at his home in Denton, Texas.

Previous witnesses before the commission, charged by President Johnson with uncovering the facts about the assassination, have included Marina Oswald, Robert Oswald and Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, the mother of Robert and Lee Harvey Oswald.

Robert Oswald has maintained a strict public silence about his younger brother and the assassination. Marina Oswald said she was convinced Lee shot the president, but Marguerite Oswald claimed he was innocent.

More Testimony To Be Heard In Rape Case

Magistrate William Ostler ruled Wednesday that additional evidence should be admitted in the preliminary hearing of two charges of rape against Larry Kenneth Kanester.

He made his decision after hearing almost an hour of legal argument between crown prosecutor Ken Murphy and defence counsel Alan Bigelow.

The additional testimony will be heard in closed court next Tuesday afternoon.

The club's first racing of the year will start at 1 p.m. Sunday on a new half-mile course off William Head Road at Metchosin.

COAST GUARD TOWS CRAFT TO VANCOUVER

A coast guard cutter towed the disabled RCMP vessel Little Bow II into Vancouver Harbor at noon today after she broke down off Texada Island.

The Racer was sent out after Little Bow reported she was shipping water and unable to steer effectively.

Search and Rescue officials said the boat and her crew were in no danger.

Little Bow reported a damaged rudder at about 5 a.m., and said she was shipping water but her pumps could handle it.

She was on her way to Vancouver, and was in Sabine Chanel near Texada Island when her rudder apparently struck a submerged object.

Little Bow has a four-man crew.

Police Continue Hunt For Youth's Murderer

Norah entering Tofino Harbor in happier days.

Chief Hopes To Uncover New Evidence

The George Down murder case file — which contains a repudiated confession by a youth — is still open and police still hope to crack it.

This was indicated by a summary of the case in Police Chief J. F. Gregory's annual report released at a police commission meeting this morning.

"Some useful facts may yet be uncovered which will serve to conclude this matter successfully," the chief wrote.

OVER 100 INTERVIEWS

The chief said more than 100 persons were interviewed by the investigation team in the weeks that followed.

On Sept. 25 an unnamed juvenile "admitted to killing George Down, the motive being robbery of the $26 Down had in his wallet," the chief's report said.

"Every possible means of corroborating the confession was explored. Various articles were submitted to both RCMP and Vancouver Police crime laboratories, all to no avail.

"In the meantime, the youth denies his former statement and professed his innocence.

"This story was changed several times and eventually a lengthy brief was submitted to the city prosecutor who stated that there was insufficient evidence upon which to proceed against the youth."

City Traffic Accidents On Increase

A "staggering" increase in traffic accidents last year has brought an intensive traffic enforcement program, Victoria Police Chief J. F. Gregory said today in his first annual report to the police commission.

The chief also reported that the growing crime rate of recent years was stopped and turned down somewhat in 1963.

Chief Gregory said traffic acidents increased by 15 per cent to a total of 1,536 in which nine persons lost their lives.

The number of injured persons jumped by 11 per cent to 500 and property damage reached "the almost unbelieveable amount" of nearly $500,000.

BIGGER DIVISION

"To combat these staggering figures, I have transferred the command of the motorcycle patrolmen to the traffic division and attached two sergeants to assist in supervision," the chief said.

"A request has been submitted for additional members who are vitally needed to extend the preventive work of this division."

The chief revealed that one out of every three cars stopped in the five road checks conducted during 1963 by city police was mechanically defective in a minor or major degree.

He said the road blocks also had netted a large number of hidden violations such as illegal possession of liquor and driving while licence was suspended.

He promised to step up the road block checks this year "to a marked degree" and suggested that the civil defence auxiliary police should be recruited for helping regular police make traffic checks before the Christmas holidays.

RESCUE CO-ORDINATION STAYS AT VANCOUVER HEADQUARTERS

The RCAF Rescue Co-ordination Centre will remain at its present Vancouver headquarters, it was announced at air force headquarters in Ottawa this morning.

It had been speculated in December that the rescue co-ordination centre was slated for a move to Victoria.

Decision to leave rescue headquarters in Vancouver was recommended by a study group headed by Air Commodore Ralph C. Weston, senior air officer, Pacific Coast.

No details for the change in plans were announced.

Reign Ending For Another CPR Princess

It's the end of the line for another "Princess."

This time it is Ss. Princess Norah, one of the best-known of the CPR's long list of coastal Princesses.

Princess Norah ended her career last year, wearing her third name—Canadian Prince, owned by Northland Navigation Company of Vancouver. A new vessel, Northland Prince, replaced her last summer on the tourist run to Alaska ports.

The Princess Norah was built at Glasgow in 1929, especially designed for the CPR's combination freight and passenger service on the west coast of Vancouver Island. To aid her in navigating the narrow, twisting channels which are common on the west coast, her builders added a bow-thrust propeller.

As it turned out, most of Norah's life was spent on the northern B.C. and Alaska run.

In 1955, at a time when the CPR was gradually easing off the activities of the B.C. Coast Service, she became a two-company ship, operated jointly by the CPR and CNR as the Queen of the North.

Northland Navigation bought the ship in 1959 for the Vancouver-Prince Rupert service. She has been laid up since last October.

Now she's up for sale to the highest bidder, with the scrapheap lurking in the background.

Intervention Unlikely In Shipyard Strike

Municipal intervention in a three-week-old major shipyard strike seems unlikely in Victoria and Esquimalt.

"This is not municipal business," declared Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele today when asked if he would join North Vancouver Mayor William Angus in an approach to both parties in the event of negotiating failure next week.

"We are concerned because it affects the community, and we are watching with great interest. But it is not the part of the reeve to interfere in spite of the importance of shipyards to the welfare of the community," Reeve Wurtele said.

He added:

MOSTLY VICTORIA

"Certainly, they affect the economy of the district, but it is mostly Victoria, not so much the surrounding municipalities."

Victoria Machinery Depot's two yards are both in Victoria, while Yarrows Ltd. is the sole yard in Esquimalt.

Mayor R. B. Wilson was hesitant about intervention. Informed of Mayor Angus' proposal, he said:

RELUCTANT

"This is news to me. I would like to think about it before I comment." He implied reluctance to act, but affirmed his concern about the strike situation. He said he thought of it "constantly."

Mayor Angus said if nothing comes of a meeting Wednesday, in which unions put forth reduced contract requests, the city and district may approach the parties "to see if we can expedite matters."

Burrard Drydock Ltd., an associate of Yarrows, is located in North Vancouver.

2,020 IDLE

All told, 2,020 men employed in the four yards are idle while pressing their contract improvements.

Management is expected to reply Monday to the reduced bid, which would provide for a two-year contract, two-15-cent wage hikes on the basic $2.70 an hour, holiday and welfare improvements.

The 22 striking unions' representatives and management delegates met with chief B.C. labor conciliation officer Reg Clements.

Guilty Driver Fined $350 For Hit-Run

A hit-and-run driver pursued at high speed by his enraged victim was fined $350 in city police court today.

Donald A. Penner pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an acident.

He was chased four miles by his victim, city prosecutor Peter Birkett said this morning, and eventually hit a power pole after a wild flight through narrow streets at speeds up to 60 miles an hour.

Penner was driving south on Douglas at about 2 a.m. Feb. 9 when he sideswiped a car travelling in the same direction, the court was told.

GAVE CHASE

His victim gave chase, following him off Douglas through smaller streets until Penner lost control of his car on Crease Avenue and smashed into a power pole, coming to rest in a front yard at 270 Crease.

He told investigating police he had been "trying to shake off" the car following him.

He said he didn't realize he had been in a collision.

A breathalyzer test indicated his blood alcohol level as .13 per cent, said Mr. Birkett.

There was $250 worth of damage to Penner's car, police estimated, and his victim's car cost $75 to repair.

Magistrate William Ostler fined Penner $150 for careless driving, $200 for failure to remain and suspended his driver's licence.

Topics of the Day

Members of the ivy-covered, old world Union Club Wednesday voted overwhelmingly to put $100,000 worth of improvements into their basement.

The venerable gentleman's club is remodelling the ladies' lounge.

It will expand the area from its present seating capacity of about 30 to 100.

Detailed plans are being drawn up.

John David Adams, 1138 McClure, was sentenced in city police court today to eight months for two break-ins.

The 17-year-old pleaded guilty last week to stealing $1,000 worth of clothes after he broke into Bob Tang's Slack Shop, 787 Fort Street, and to breaking into Hickman Tye Hardware, 910 View Street.

"It is impossible not to feel a measure of sympathy for you," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

"Nothing can be done but to send you where you can get discipline and training."

Legislative Trip For NDP Women On Monday

Fifty women supporters of the New Democratic Party, including a group of MLAs' wives, will visit the legislature Monday.

The group will be welcomed at noon by Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood). Mrs. Robert Strachan, wife of the leader of the opposition, will act as hostess.

The visitors will attend the afternoon sitting of the House and at 6 p.m. will be dinner guests of the Lower Island Committee of the NDP at Empress Hotel.

Attending as wives of MLAs will be Mrs. W. L. Hartley, Mrs. Leo Nimsick, Mrs. Gordon Dowding and Mrs. Dave Barrett.

DRUGS, BOOZE, DIVORCES— BEAUTIFUL B.C.

British Columbia has the highest drug addiction rate in Canada and the highest rate of alcohol consumption, Rev. R. M. Goodall of New Westminster told the 15th B.C. Natural Resources Conference Wednesday afternoon.

"More and more people are being treated for mental disturbances, the illegitimacy rate is going up and up and our divorce rate is above the national average.

"Why in this most favored of provinces is the health and happiness of the people in such jeopardy?"

SOMETHING NEW AT WAX MUSEUM

Fiction Folk 'Come to Life'

The art of molding wax figures has taken on a lighter touch as a new $25,000 wax fairyland opens in Victoria, Friday.

No longer is the chamber of horrors likely to be the most memorable part of a visit to the wax museum.

Now characters from Grimm's fairytales and Lewis Carroll's idyll, as they come to life in the new 750-square-foot fairyland will be the highlight for most trippers to the museum.

On Friday and any day thereafter children will be able to walk through "Fairyland" at the Royal London Wax Museum and see Alice as she peers into the looking glass, Hansel and Gretel as they meet the witch, and Jack as he surveys all from the top of his beanstalk.

For those kiddies aged six to 96 who like to think of fairyland as a slightly dangerous place, there is St. George and the dragon who snorts smoke from his nostrils.

"Fairyland" is the first exhibit of its kind to be shown anywhere in North America and possibly the world.

President of the Museum, W. P. Emman said when the museum opens Friday it is expected to remain open the year-round.

Hours of operation will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays.

Other prominent figures who have been added to the collection include Pope Paul VI, Albert Einstein and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

YM-YW Officials To Consider Seven Tenders

Officials meet today to try to choose a bid for construction of a new YM-YWCA building.

Total cost is estimated at about $1,000,000, including furnishings, and deadline for tenders on the building itself closed Wednesday.

At least seven firms were interested in the job.

Building and fund-raising committees were to discuss the bids with architects. To date, there is $942,000 pledged to the campaign, which could rise to $967,000 with a provincial government grant if planners succeed in erecting a debt-free building.

Driver Returned To Accident, Fined Anyway

A man who came back later to the scene of an accident was fined $145 in city police court this morning for careless driving and failing to remain at an accident.

William Francis Pannel, of Mesachie Lake, pleaded guilty to both charges.

Court was told Pannel sideswiped another car at Begbie and Ash about 1 p.m. Dec. 23.

He said he stopped about 200 feet away and looked for the car he had hit but couldn't see it.

He telephoned the police from the home where he was staying, went back to the scene and admitted to the constable there he had been in an accident.

"It's commendable to have gone back, but you should have stopped at the time," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

"If some one had been injured, you could have saved his life by giving him assistance."

Pannel also had his driver's licence suspended.

Three Victorians Win UBC Awards For Achievement

Three Victoria students will receive achievement awards at University of B.C. Thursday during education week recognition by chancellor Dr. Phyllis Ross.

They are science student Kenneth A. Dawson, forester Bruce Weber and nursing student Margaret Lendrum. Twenty-nine others will also be honored, having been selected as outstanding by deans and the heads of UBC schools.

Ask The Times

Q. Will you please tell me the origin and composition of heroin? W.E.S.

A. Heroin is a trade name for diacetylmorphine, a derivative of the drug morphine which is obtained from the opium poppy.

Before it is used commercially, it is dissolved in dilute sulphuric acid and treated with bleaching agents. By this time, morphine has become white, feathery crystals.

Q. Could you please tell me the difference in time between Victoria and New Delhi, India? D. McK.

A. New Delhi is 13½ hours ahead of Victoria.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Boots Aren't To Be Worn But to Enhance Your Home

By PENNY SAVER

"Boots, boots, boots" and "puss in boots" have been the theme song of many fashion editors in the past few months, so Penny has decided to get into the act, too, and tell you about another kind of boot.

These are ornamental ski boots and range upwards in price from $1.95. They are made in Austria and can be used as cigarette, match or toothpick holders. They are an exact replica of the real ski boot and some have a tiny hat and ski pole attached to them.

Ornamental sewing baskets are priced from $4.95. Baskets are made by British Columbia Indians of birch bark, sweet grass and porcupine quills dyed and woven in ornamental flower designs.

Sizes are 4 x 2 and 9 x 4. These could also be used as ornaments or for jewelry.

Also in the ornamental line are B.C. ceramics patterned with west coast Indian designs. Vases and pitchers depicting the killer whale and thunderbird are priced from $4.50 upwards.

Another interesting item is a trio set for playing poker, bridge and cribbage. Sets come in black leather cases and include poker chips, cards, bridge scorer, and two crib boards. Price is $6.95.

Remember the popular bolo bats that have, at various times, intrigued youngsters and adults alike? Well, here is a similar game with just as much challenge. It's the Eskimo bone game and is priced at $3.95. Object is to spear the loop of bone with a small stick.

If you are interested in these items, call Penny at 382-3131.

IODE Chapter Returns Regent for Second Term

Mrs. A. J. T. Laundy was returned as regent for another year at annual meeting of Major John Hebden Gillespie Chapter, IODE, held Tuesday evening in the Humber Road home of Mrs. J. A. Pollard.

Other officers are Mrs. H. L. Woolison, first vice-regent; Mrs. R. H. Spilsbury, second; Mrs. G. H. Dunaway, secretary; Miss J. E. O. French, treasurer; Mrs. J. J. Moffit, assistant secretary; Mrs. B. D Mackwood, education; Mrs. G. M. Welsh, Echoes; Mrs. D. A. Smith, services at home and abroad; Mrs. M. Marquis, standard bearer; Mrs. K. Parsons, publicity, and Mrs. J. Speck, Mrs. C. R. Stein, Mrs. Pollard and Mrs. Parsons, councillors.

Mrs. Laundy conducted the meeting and honor guests were Mrs. P. W. Bell, Municipal regent and provincial second vice-president; Mrs. G. C. Baker, Municipal Chapter organizing secretary, and Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps, honorary vice-regent of the chapter.

Treasurer's report given by Miss French showed receipts for the year as $3,039.49 and disbursements $2,208.69. Special contributions amounted to $829.71.

In her educational report Mrs. Mackwood showed a bursary of $175 presented to Miss Mary Phelps; pictures of the Queen and 34 citizenship certificates presented to Langford Lake School; essay and penmanship prizes given adopted school at Aleza Lake, also books and records and $150 to the University of Victoria for library reference books.

Mrs. H. C. Molyneaux, services at home and abroad secretary, announced that two children were sent to summer camp; 93 magazines given to merchant ships at Chemainus; $110 to national service funds and 16 nursery bags were completed.

Secretary's report, given by Mrs. Dunaway, showed a total of $408.24 used for education and $356.84 on services at home and abroad. The chapter has 30 members.

During the evening three new members were initiated into the chapter by Mrs. Baker. They are Mrs. J. King, Mrs. F. Adams and Mrs. B. E. Hamilton. Brief talks were given by Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Phipps.

He's a 'Humanitarian'!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Demented people, young and old, should be exterminated. Bums, chronically ill and alcoholics likewise. What good is derived from keeping them alive when money is so badly needed for normal people? I have made a study of social misfits and have seen many "rest homes" filled with patients who have been ditched by their families. Nobody cares a hoot about them. Some of these people are completely gone mentally. Why keep them at the taxpayers' expense? All people, physically and mentally incapable of contributing to our society, should be done away with. Mercifully, of course. This may sound hard-hearted, but one day this will have to be done. Sign me— FAR-SIGHTED.

DEAR FAR-SIGHTED: You are not the first to sugar-coat genocide, nor will you be the last. But if you are one of the "normal" people who would survive the exterminations you suggest—God help us.

DEAR ABBY: One of my hamsters got loose and we found her in the piano. She was caught in there and must have gotten pretty beat up because, when we finally got her out, she wouldn't walk or stand up. I think she broke her leg or her back, maybe. I wanted to take her to the vet's, but my big sister, who drives, thinks it is silly and she won't take us. My mother drives, but she doesn't have the time. If this hamster isn't going to get well, maybe she should be put to sleep. What should I do? I am 12.

LOVES ANIMALS.

DEAR LOVES: Call your local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Ask them if they can provide transportation for such a case.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from Gordy's Wife, who said her husband didn't care for the potatoes she had prepared for supper, so he threw them at her. She said he threw a "potato fit." She must have been one of those cool Scandinavian women. I would have thrown a "gravy fit" to go with the potatoes!

Clubwomen's News

Increasing — Miss Marjorie Black, Vancouver, reported that membership in the Consumers' Association of Canada is on the increase when the CAC's British Columbia Branch held an executive meeting in Eaton's dining room. Increase was attributed to publicity resulting from magazine "Canadian Consumer". Representing branches were: Mrs. Roy Schafer, Vancouver; Mrs. C. R. Tudway, Courtenay; Mrs. A. J. Edwards, Nanaimo; Mrs. W. A. Gristan, New Westminster, and Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs, Victoria. Mrs. A. B. Young presided. Also attending were Miss Ruth King. Miss Florence Howden and past president, Mrs. A. W. McGhie, all of Vancouver; Mrs. Arnold Spence, Mrs. R. Glenn and Mrs. F. C. Young, all of Nanaimo; provincial officers, Mrs. H. Summers Clark, Mrs. H. Norbury, Mrs. J. L. Andrews and C. Rutledge, all of Victoria. Mrs. Coombs reported on gasoline brief recently presented to the provincial government. Plans were made for annual meeting, to be held in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room, April 8 and 9.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

YWCA Work Extending Into Northern Canada

By Elizabeth Forbes

When Mrs. M. N. Vuchnich, national president of the YWCA was in Victoria last weekend she talked of the expanding work of the "Y" in fields far distant from the urban centres.

Forbes

"There are exciting developments in northern Canada," she said, "something that a few years ago we would have termed impossible."

These developments were classed by the national leader as "more in the nature of extension work."

Seed is sown, she explained, when former YM-YWCA workers go north to make new homes. "They see the great need for our programs and are immediately stirred with the crusading spirit that makes them eager to organize these programs in their various communities."

Something of this sort is happening right now at Fort Smith in the Northwest Territories.

"There are several former "Y" workers up there. They have found the people eager for the kind of program we can give. They need help with their youth problems and new interests for their adults.

"We can't give them YWCA centres and residences as we know them here — perhaps these will come later—but, with the help of interested people up there, we can give them something in the nature of extension group work."

Mrs. Vuchnich said, that like many other organizations, the YWCA has been making a study in the past few years to test the worth of its aims and objectives under present-day conditions and to decide whether it is fulfilling needs, generated by modern pressures, for leadership, programs, competence in staff workers and in its membership.

"We are gravely concerned today with the girl in residence.

"We want to specialize in the needs of these girls and, to this end, we are reviewing the kind of service we give in our residences. We'd like to increase that service by producing something new and different in programming to cope with the problems of our residence girls."

Help Needed In Smaller Centres

To help with this rehabilitation program, Mrs. Vuchnich says she would like to enlist community groups looking for some form of worthwhile service.

In big cities and the larger "Y" centres, there are case workers on staff and there is not so much need for the help of volunteers. "It's in the smaller places and centres that the problems and the needs are greater."

Today, the YWCA finds itself increasingly faced with problems of girls brought to them by social workers, by the police or from the various transportation depots, Mrs. Vuchnich pointed out 'so we have this to cope with, too."

Her voice was very serious when she added: "Drunkenness is also an increasing problem amongst youth and we must be equipped to deal with it."

In this connection the YWCA, at national level, has sent representatives to several recent conferences on alcoholism and potential drinking.

Headquarters for the national president is in Toronto, but during her four-year term which commenced in 1960, and ends this year, she visits, at least once, the 60 YMCA centres across Canada from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Victoria, B.C.

On this tour of duty she is "dropping in" on "Y" centres in Alberta and British Columbia.

Her decision to come to Victoria last weekend was influenced, she says, by the fact that there was a provincial Y-Teen conference here.

"It gave me an opportunity to see how this work was progressing in your province and to be guest speaker at one of the banquets."

Hana Mares Wed at Port Alberni

Tiny pink roses were at the altar of Holy Family Church in Port Alberni when Hana Jasmina Mares exchanged vows with Harry Robert Dyler. Pink and white carnations decorated the church and pews were marked with white bows.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Mares, 3851 Saul Avenue, Lake Hill, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dyler of Port Alberni were united in marriage by Fr. George Belanger.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of pure silk styled with a scoop neckline, lily point sleeves and a skirt that had a slim front panel and soft fullness at back. Her silk veil misted to floor length from a dainty coronet. She carried a bouquet of tiny pink roses and lily of the valley and, for jewelry, wore a culture pearl necklace and gold bracelet.

Miss Markyta Mares attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a royal blue silk dress and pink accessories. Sprigs of orange blossoms accented her bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Making a charming trio were the three flower girls, Karen, Rose-Mary and Sazanna Feltham. They were dressed in pink frocks and carried miniature bouquets of tiny pink roses and orange blossoms.

A. Autterhoff was best man and ushering guests were U. Chase and L. Wickman, all of Port Alberni.

Wedding music included "Ave Maria," Gounod's "Song of Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Fr. Belanger and Kurt Loebel proposed toasts at a reception in the parish hall. The three-tier wedding cake had been made by the groom's mother. Tiny pink roses, white carnations and candles completed head table decor.

Mrs. P. A. Feltham, Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Jasper of Calgary were among the guests. Messages were received from London, England; Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Burlington, Ont.; Belgium, West Germany and Switzerland.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Banff and Calgary, the bride wore a pink suit, hat and gloves and brown accessories.

Newlyweds will make their home in Port Alberni.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McLaren, 3263 Henderson Road, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, March 8, and will be at home to their relatives and friends from 3 to 7 p.m. They were married in 1914 in Esquimalt by Rev. Thomas Keyworth and left for Lanigan, Sask., where they lived for 15 years before returning to Victoria to live. They have three daughters, Mrs. E. C. (Dorothy) Price, Vancouver; Mrs. W. M. (Joyce) Howlett, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. J. C. (Betty) McDonald, Victoria; also a son, William McLaren, here. Another son, Jack, was killed in the Second World War. There are seven grandchildren. Mrs. McLaren is a native daughter of Victoria and Mr. McLaren came from Souris, Man.

White Velvet Gown Worn by Bride

An elegant gown of white velvet was worn by Dawn Lynette Cumming for her marriage to William Edward Henson in Christ Church Cathedral. It was fashioned on sheath lines, with small puffed sleeves and an empire waistline that was accented with lace, aurora borealis droplets and tiny seed pearls. A full train added back interest. The full-length veil had a centre panel of lace and misted from a Grecian-type tiara of aurora borealis. Mauve cattelya orchids and white freesia were in the bouquet. As jewelry, she wore a crystal drop necklace and matching earrings.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony at which Rev. Roy Hoult officiated. Pews were decked with white markers. Richard Proudman was organist, playing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," Handel's "Water Music" and accompanying the boys' choir as they sang "Praise My Soul" and other music.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cumming and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Henson, all of Victoria. Mr. Cumming gave his daughter in marriage.

Bell-skirted dresses of mauve organza over taffeta were worn by maid of honor, Miss Barbara Henson and bridesmaids, the Misses Lorraine Hett, Joanne Hiquebran and Kathy Hodnett. Their headpieces were of mauve flowers and veiling and bouquets, white orchids. They wore amethyst drop necklaces, gift of the bride.

Flower girl, Suzanne Hiquebran received a culture pearl drop necklace which she wore with a full-skirted frock of white lace and net. Mauve orchids were in the basket she carried.

Bob Henson was best man for his brother and ushers were Pete Fagan, Jim Roach, Bill Boden and Gordie Cumming, the bride's brother. All were in black tuxedos.

Geoffrey Hett proposed the toast to the bride's happiness at the reception in St. Patrick's Hall. Pink wedding bells topped the three-tier wedding cake. Orchid-toned candles, pink and white carnations completed head table decor.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a pastel pink wool suit and matching hat, black accessories and white orchid corsage. Her jewelry was culture pearls, gift of the groom's parents.

After a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs and the United States the newlyweds will make their home at 980 Burnside Road West.

In Vancouver

Mrs. Enid Webster, legislative chairman of the provincial board of the Association for Childhood Education International, will attend a meeting of the Board in Vancouver on Saturday, and also a workshop on literature sponsored by the association.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Wedding Guests

Several out-of-town guests attended last weekend's wedding of Miss Dawn Cumming and Mr. William Henson. They included Mr. Mike Taylor, Kelsey Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Johnson of Royston, Les Jones and Don Dickerson of Nanaimo, Mr. and Mrs. John Cross of Kent, Wash., and Mrs. Jean Arnold, Mr. Lenardo Fiorentino and Mr. and Mrs. Cal Fowler, all of Vancouver.

From Halifax

Mrs. James Fearn and her baby daughter Pamela will arrive by plane from Halifax on March 13 and will stay with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Robert at their King George Terrace home. Her husband will join her in Victoria about the end of April with arrival of HMCS Qu'Appelle.

CARIBBEAN CONVALESCENCE

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, will convalesce from her appendicitis operation next month aboard the royal yacht Britannia in the Caribbean, her household announced Wednesday night.

She will fly to Jamaica via New York by scheduled airliner, arriving March 12, and return to England April 1.

The royal yacht now is steaming from the Fiji Islands to the Caribbean via the Panama Canal. It had been heading for Australia earlier this month to meet the Queen Mother there for an official tour, but the tour was cancelled after her operation Feb. 4.

WHY GROW OLD?

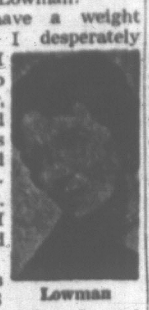

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Overweight Women Need Advice and Encouragement

The following is an interesting letter from a reader.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"Help! I have a weight problem and I desperately need help. I have been to see my doctor, but all he did was shake his head and hand me a 1,000 calorie diet sheet. Since then I have gained six pounds.

Lowman

"I'm 22 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, large-boned and weigh 200 pounds. I know I look awful and none of my clothes fit, but I just can't seem to take that necessary step to start downward.

"I have two children, six months and three years old. After my first baby I weighed 150 pounds. Then I continued to climb when I became pregnant with my second child—and now this! Can you please help me get back to normal? I know it won't be easy, but I seem to need some extra strength besides my own. I have thought about having my husband help by charting my weight but I am ashamed to let him see how much I weigh.

"Please help. I am getting so ashamed of myself that I hardly ever go out any more. My husband is in public life and I know I should get out and meet people more than I do."

The doctor's attitude makes me feel that he doesn't believe this reader will stick to her diet. Her gain of six pounds on a 1,000 a day calorie intake indicates the same. The physician evidently does not feel that there is a glandular deficiency or he would have asked her to have a metabolism test.

This is not an unsympathetic analysis of this letter. I think that every woman who has a lot of weight to lose needs encouragement. This can make the difference. So, I am here with some. Here are a couple of quotes from readers who have won the battle.

"I lost 25 pounds and have discovered that I have hip bones. I had forgotten all about them."

"It takes a pound less butter at our house a week and I take a size 36 instead of a size 42."

"I have a red-haired sister who is 15 years younger than I am. I recently lost my overweight. A friend came to the house the other day and asked what I had done to my pretty red hair. Mine is brown! Guess how that made me feel?"

Women do lose weight successfully, thousands of them. This reader has two special activators. In the first place she realizes that her overweight is damaging her enjoyment of life. Second, if she has the spunk I think she has she will show that doctor how wrong he was. He provided the challenge!

This is the last time I will offer my Beauty Improvement Plan Kit for some time. If you would like to have it, send 25 cents (plus 15 cents for postage and handling) with your name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Vancouver Woman Receives Award

NEW YORK (CP)—Dr. Charlotte Froese of Vancouver has become the first woman scientist to be awarded a basic research grant by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, it was announced today.

Dr. Froese, a 34-year-old native of the Ukraine, is an associate professor of mathematics at the University of British Columbia.

At present she is on leave of absence as a research fellow at the Harvard College Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., where she is doing research in atomic structure theory.

The awards are described as "unrestricted" grants for basic research in chemistry, mathematics, physics and other fields.

Three other Canadians were among the recipients, including Dr. Neil Bartlett, a UBC colleague of Dr. Froese, who will do research in chemistry.

The other two, who also will do chemistry research, are Dr. Richard F. W. Bader of McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont., and Dr. Edgar W. Warnhoff of the University of Western Ontario in London.

Dr. Froese took both her bachelors and masters degrees at UBC and joined the faculty as an assistant lecturer in 1952. She later did post-graduate work at the University of Toronto and at Cambridge.

Fashion Alphabet Begins With 'P'

The Ps have it! Settle for something pink, in patent or femininely pretty and you'll hit the haute couture jackpot this spring.

This was made evident at afternoon and evening showings of "A Symphony of Spring Fashions," sponsored by the Victoria Symphony Society Women's Committee in Club Sirocco, Wednesday.

Pink was No. 1 color favorite, appearing in sports clothes, day wear, after-five dresses and ball gowns.

Patent appeared again and again. Although it was most often seen in accessories, it also went to milady's head in a succession of chapeaux that shone crisply.

Hats also emphasized the swing to prettiness, the majority of them having a breath of veiling for extra excitement.

One outstanding beauty was by Andre of Paris and featured row upon row of finely pleated turquoise tulle, topped with a froth of straw curls.

SUEDE AND LEATHER

From Israel came a classic coat of brown suede that was complemented to perfection with a jaunty snap brim hat of scarlet leather. Also in suede was a russet-toned suit that was the epitome of good tailoring, relying on fine stitching as trim interest.

Another newcomer, heralded as a spring favorite, is the Baby Dress. One shown Wednesday was in geometrical print of rust, black and white and featured long sleeves and deep smocked yoke that gives the nickname.

This is the season of the shift. Again and again, it appeared, in silks and other materials. All dresses come with belts for, as commentator, Helen Beirnes put it, "the faint-hearted." But, she emphasized, "if you're the least fashion-conscious, the belts should be left in wrapping paper!"

Victoria's rainy weather was taken into consideration. Biggest repellant to rain-day blues was a swingy coat in cotton nylon. It flared in a flattering A line and had a huge cross-over collar that sang with an edging of chocolate leather.

Looking as if she'd just flown in from Madrid, one model won an accolade as she stepped on the runway in a white textured wool suit that was demurely smart with oversized braided buttons and false pocket flaps. A scarlet toreador-styled hat of glossy lacquered straw accented the Latin look.

For the young set, there was fun in a beach shift that could have stepped out of the flapper era. The low, low waistline slipped almost to the knees, being edged with a frivolous frill that featured two oversized pockets, emblazoned with anchors. Top was a "steal" from a French "matelot," being of horizontal red, white and blue stripes.

Another show-stopper was an after-five dress that had a Loretta Young trademark. A subtle, slender black sheath, it came alive with two ballooning sleeves of white organdy ruffles.

Other pointers stressed at the show . . . pink and rose are the cosmetic darlings . . . shoes should be cut-outs to be "in" . . . hair-dos are sleek . . . throw away that teasing comb!

Modelling the fashions from the T. Eaton Company were Joan Thompson, Beryl Davidson, Linda Gower, Maude Parks, Rosalie Wright, Amber Massey and Penny Tisdale. Background music was provided by organist, May Landwer.

Mrs. Gerald Neely convened the all-day affair.

Assisting her with refreshments were Mrs. H. Thirlwall, Mrs. A. Benn, Mrs. T. Mayne, Mrs. J. Gayfer, Mrs. A. Laundy, Mrs. R. Webster and Miss Madge Compton.

Proceeds of $300 were realized.

TODAY'S RECIPE

FISH FRY WITH MINT PINEAPPLE

Two pounds salmon or halibut steaks, or halibut fillets, ½ cup evaporated milk, salt, paprika, 1 can (15 ozs.) pineapple chunks, ½ cup biscuit mix or flour, pepper, butter, salad oil, or cooking fat, chopped parsley, lemon or lime wedges, chopped mint.

Dip fish in milk. Sprinkle well with seasonings. Coat with biscuit mix or flour. In skillet, heat enough fat to cover bottom well, but do not let fat smoke. Quickly fry fish over moderate heat until underside has crisp, golden crust—about 2 or three minutes more. (If skillet won't hold all fish, use 2 skillets or wash skillet between batches). Lift onto heated platter and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Garnish with lime or lemon wedges, and pineapple chunks rolled in chopped mint. Serves 4 to 6.

Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lumsden have returned to their home on Tudor Road. They have spent the past five weeks vacationing at the Hawaiianna Hotel at Waikiki Beach in the Hawaiian Islands.

Under Umbrella

Mrs. R. Veness and her daughter Mavis were co-hostesses at a shower party in honor of Miss Virginia Lane, in their Albina Street home. A pink rose corsage was presented to the honor guest with the gifts, arranged under a pink and white decorated umbrella. Carnation corsages were given to the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. G. M. Lane and her grandmother, Mrs. F. Strongman. A pink and white shower cake was cut. Other invited guests were Mrs. R. Foster, Mrs. F. Smith, Mrs. J. Veness, Mrs. J. Hirst, Mrs. D. Bissett, Mrs. H. Simpson, Mrs. C. Ross, Mrs. G. Clark, Mrs. F. Patterson, Mrs. J. Neff, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. A. E. Munroe, Mrs. R. Foster, Mrs. L. Adams, Mrs. D. Munroe, Mrs. H. Symons, Mrs. H. Neaves, Mrs. H. Thornber, Mrs. H. Sinden, Mrs. F. Garcia, Mrs. H. Kempton, Mrs. L. Ponsford and the Misses Barbara Foster, Pamela Lane, Lynne Simpson, Cherrie and Donna Ross, Patricia Veness, Carol Hirst, Leanna Bissett, Gail Neaves, Jerry Ponsford, Diana Munroe and Lynda Neff.

Members of the Cerebral Palsy Auxiliary busy arranging a smorgasbord luncheon for next Wednesday, from 11:30 a.m., to 1:30 p.m., in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room, include from the left: Mrs. L. F. Dunn, Mrs. P. W. Boorer, Mrs. A. E. Pistell, Mrs. A. Broadfoot and Mrs. G. A. Spring. Proceeds will assist in work with 68 handicapped children at the Cerebral Palsy Clinic.

Watch Your Back View; Others Do

If a woman will always remember that the art of grooming, dressing and beautifying is tuned to create a complete unit of beauty, she will never disregard her back view, which she seldom sees, says an internationally-famed beauty authority. A full-length, three-way mirror is the ideal way to view this dimension, and a three-quarter mirror with a large hand mirror is the next.

Check the back of your coiffure. Does it balance with your figure and give your shoulders and back the correct line? Hair that is overly long, short, flat or overly teased often distorts the length of the neck, the posture, and the height when viewing it from the back or from the sides.

Does your make-up end at your jawline? Unless you carefully blend make-up foundation down over the neck and diminish it toward the back of the neck, a definite line of demarcation often results. When backless gowns are worn, or those cut semi-low, the skin should be of one color by blending the make-up over all exposed areas.

Do you clutter the back of your neck with ungainly jewelry clasps, labels that show through sheer blouses, broken zippers and twisted hooks-and-eyes? Unless the back neckline is neat and artistically arranged, the well-groomed effect is lost.

Groom your legs, heels, elbows and shoulders. Wherever rough spots occur on the skin, keep it silky with hand creme. A pat of face powder will augment the smooth silky appearance.

Posture is of prime importance when you are being viewed from the back. The way you walk, stoop and climb stairs makes awkward or graceful impressions. Exercises tuned to keeping your hips in their correct proportion, clothing that looks smart from the back, and a concentrated effort to walk with grace will win you many compliments for your all-over beauty.

Group Undertakes Welfare Study

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Conservative Women's Association is undertaking a social welfare study, Mrs. A. H. Bayne of West Vancouver has been appointed social welfare chairman.

An announcement made by association president Lyn Morrow said: "Mrs. Bayne will chart the various fields of social welfare work. Her study will be based on the organization of our provincial welfare department. Then she will assign one phase of welfare work to each of our 14 branches for study in depth."

Miss Morrow said the study would be valuable to provincial Conservative leader Davie Fulton in planning welfare policy.

Plan Leaves Deserted Children In Own Homes

WINNIPEG (CP)—An experimental project to train homemakers for the care of children deserted by their parents has been started by the Children's Aid Society of Winnipeg.

Previously the society removed the children to foster homes until the family could be reunited and parents could again resume their family responsibilities.

Under the new plan homemakers, after training, will move into the children's home to provide guidance and care until the problems are resolved.

A CAS spokesman said foster homes are scarce and the society's receiving home is usually overcrowded.

"Homemakers, trained and available at all times, would be an invaluable addition to the society's staff in a time of emergency," the spokesman said.

The society is to approach both the federal and provincial governments for financial assistance for the training program.

Charter Members

Five charter members of Capital City Temple, No. 35, Pythian Sisters, three of whom were at the first meeting of the temple, 25 years ago, were honored at a recent gathering of members and friends. They were Mrs. H. Atkinson, Mrs. O. Curtis, Mrs. E. Cruickshank, Mrs. L. Keiser and Mrs. E. Glover.

A sixth charter member, Mrs. E. Brown was unable to attend because of illness.

Twenty-five year pins were presented to the honored members with gifts from the temple. Program that followed included a reading by Ceilia Fairhead; dances by Colleen de Corte and a millinery fashion show by temple members. Refreshments were served.

First Step: Do You Have the Shape for Bias-Cut Bodice?

"Dear Eunice:

"I am making a dress with a bias bodice. Patterns do not tell you how you to go about this, and I am wondering about the limiting factors involved."

MRS. K. F.

DEAR Mrs. K. F.:

Any part of your garment you wish to cut on the bias grain, you must follow the arrow indicating the straight of goods or the fold line. These important grain line marks must be laid on the true bias of your fabric.

The limitations depend on the choice of pattern. I think the bias-cut bodice is especially attractive when you are making a blouson bodice and not a bodice that is fitted with darts. Remember that anything cut on the bias will have more give but at the same time it will cling to your body a little more. So, take a good look at your figure and be sure it will be becoming before cutting your fabric.

New Nursing Schools Draw Recruits From Over-30's

TORONTO (UPI)—Ontario today took steps to fight its nursing shortage by drawing from the ranks of women over 30 years of age.

Ontario Hospital Services Commissioner W. Bev Lewis announced yesterday that one of several new schools will recruit students exclusively from the over 30 age group. Graduates will be able to apply for registered nurse certifications, he said.

Three new nursing schools scheduled to open in Toronto and Hamilton this fall, said Lewis, will be part of a proposed system of regional institutions.

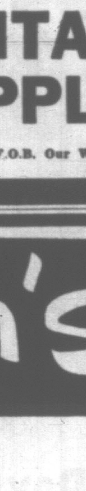

Each will operate under its own board of directors but will consolidate administrative and instructional staff to utilize a number of hospital and clinical facilities in their area, he said.

Lewis said the "over-30" plan was for mature women who wanted a new career after raising a family or for women who wished to change careers.

OAKS SPLIT TRAFFIC moving off Cedar Hill Cross Road onto Cadboro Bay Road. Big oak trees determined placing of traffic islands to route cars at intersection.

Every Island Has Its Oak In Oak Bay

Tree-conscious Oak Bay pushed through new traffic routes at the north end of the municipality but didn't push over the gnarled English oaks to do it.

Traffic travelling east on Cedar Hill Cross Road now has three exits on to Cadboro Bay Road, each around a treed island.

There are separate exits for cars turning north or south along Cadboro Bay Road or crossing over to Upper Terrace Road.

The section of Cadboro Bay Road between Cedar Hill Cross Road and Beach Drive opened to traffic this week. Paving is to be completed by the end of March.

Works superintendent Ralph Futcher said Oak Bay is very tree conscious and the islands had been designed to preserve the trees while at the same time provide improved traffic routes.

The three islands have been curbed and later soil will be moved in and seeded.

Island MLAs Ask Ferry Fare Cut

Vancouver Island MLAs Wednesday pressed for increased service and lower fares on Vancouver Island ferries, but the admiral of the fleet had no changes to announce.

"I have no answers to give a this time," Premier W. A. C. Bennett told the legislature.

"Well, that's encouraging, at least he hasn't said no," said David Stupich (NDP—Nanaimo).

John Squire (NDP—Alberni) said Vancouver Islanders have two complaints about the ferry system: the cost of fares, and inadequate service.

Under private ownership a round trip from Nanaimo to Vancouver cost $3.20. Under government ownership the fare is $4.

Mr. Squire suggested a $5 fare for car and passengers in it. At present each car passenger has to pay an additional $2.

People are discouraged from taking their cars on the ferries at present because of the fares, Mr. Squire said.

Mr. Stupich suggested lower ferry fares in mid-week to avoid weekend traffic jams.

Worth of Uvic Library To Face Test in Five Years

Whether the university library can keep up with curriculum and research demands will be put to the test in the next five years, two University of Victoria department heads said today.

Prof. Roger Bishop, head of the English department, and Dean Halliwell, librarian, were commenting on a Canada Council university capital grants fund gift of $401,824 to help construction of the half-finished $1¼ million building.

The donation, allowed for in financing estimates, pays for about a third of the actual building costs.

But library expansion—meaning books and staff—is paid for out of the annual university budget.

'QUITE REALISTIC'

Prof. Bishop said the board of governors has been "quite realistic in this respect," allotting 15 per cent of the total budget to library needs last year.

This was second only to McMaster University in Canada, and nearly 10 per cent more than the University of B.C. budgeted.

During 1963 the library added 28,000 volumes and by fall, when the new building opens, there should be 150,000 in all.

"Of course, if many of our departments are going into graduate work soon—i.e., in the next five years—this (percentage) will have to be increased," Prof. Bishop said.

"The rapidity of advance in graduate studies depends upon the build-up of library facilities," he said. Books are needed "acutely" in the English studies.

EXPANSION PROGRAM

However, library expansion is still a "bedevilling" problem because there is growing need to produce staff in so many areas, Prof. Bishop said.

Staff can not be supplied at will, he pointed out.

The percentage of total budget applied to the library is likely to diminish, Mr. Halliwell said.

"But we hope it would not sink as low as at UBC, where last year they spent 4¼ per cent on the library."

He suggested a levelling off at about 10 per cent would serve the needs of the university.

"We must keep adding books to maintain pace with the advance of learning and the addition of new courses. There is also honors and graduate work planned, increasing the normal demand," the librarian said.

PLAY GREATER ROLE

The two-year-old Friends of the Library Association is expected to play a greater role in future, he said.

This is not a revenue-producing group, he pointed out, but it can do inestimable work in making public contacts and in lining up private collections that may be purchased or bequeathed to the library.

"I'm sure they will play a much more vital role in library development in the next two years," Mr. Halliwell said.

By 1970, it is hoped the books in circulation will have doubled to 300,000.

Negro Students Boycott Schools

BOSTON (UPI)—Thousands of Negro students boycotted Boston public schools in defiance of state law Wednesday to protest alleged de facto segregation in classrooms.

Negro leaders, hailing the stay-out a success, estimated that between 8,000 and 9,000 students remained home or attended Negro "freedom schools."

CLUB MEMBERS JAILED FOR BINGO CHEATING

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two members of a local Optimist Club were each jailed for two months and three other persons were fined when they altered their pleas to "guilty" Wednesday on a charge they cheated at play during a club-sponsored bingo game.

Douglas Oliver Campbell, 39, and John Bowen, 36, were jailed on the charge, laid following a police raid on a bingo game here Feb. 13.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Valletta Beres, age 13, of Sturat, W. Va., for her question:

What is a dingo?

The dingo is a controversial animal—which means that he has both friends and enemies. The ranchers of Australia have only bad things to say of the wolfish fellow. Scientists point to his good qualities and say that his past history is one of nature's most interesting mysteries.

The wolfish fellow is the only native carnivore in the land of gentle marsupials. The dingo is a wild dog of Australia, and in the rest of the world there is no other wild dog quite like him. He stands two feet tall, and his shaggy body may be four feet long. His soft, loose coat may be red or reddish brown, tawny tan or jet black. His paws and his big, bushy tail are often tipped with white.

Dingo is a handsome dog—if you can forgive the mighty fangs in his pointed jaws, his alert ears and the wolfish expression in his watchful eyes. He hunts alone or with a family party. For ages he fed freely on the high-jumping kangaroo, the frisky wallaby and other peaceable, plant-eating marsupials.

Then the white settlers came, bringing dingo a welcome change of diet. He set about plundering their domestic sheep and cattle. In Queensland, the ranchers had to build 3,500 miles of fencing to protect their stock from his raids. The ranchers became his enemies and declared the native dog dingo an outlaw to be shot on sight.

At this point his friends step forth to defend him. If dingo goes, they say, the ranchers will be sorry. For the settlers, it seems, brought with them a few rabbits from the Old World, and the furry fellows multiplied beyond reason. They stripped the greenery and became a serious plague. Dingo, say his friends, is one of the natural controls on the hungry rabbit population.

Dingo Makes Good Pet

Perhaps dingo's truest friends are the scientists who puzzle over his mysterious past. Fossil bones prove that his ancestors were in Australia 40,000 years ago. But the experts are sure that his family tree did not originate there. Another mystery is the fact that he is the only canine who can live either as a tame dog or as a wild dog.

Experts suspect that the dingo arrived by boat with the earliest human settlers, perhaps from Malay. He was then a tame dog. Later, in his new home, he reverted to the wild. The wolfish fellow still has a shy hankering for the human family. When a wild pup is adopted, he grows up to be as loving and loyal as the tamest of tame dogs. Sometimes he lives in a semi-wild state with the native bushmen. The dog dingo and these half-savage wanderers seem to understand and respect each other.

Hone Mental Teeth On These Puzzlers

By JACK HUTTON

So you're looking forward to examinations in a few weeks and you figure you're a cinch to set the world on fire?

Try cutting your mental teeth on our annual list of brain twisters that appears below. You may recognize one or two old friends—which means you should solve them easily.

I'll admit right now that if you solve half of them, you can impress anyone any time around the kitchen table. Solve every one of them and you're a whiz.

First, an easy one. I'm holding two coins in my hand which add up to 51 cents. What are they if one of them isn't a 50-cent piece?

Old Chestnut

Hah. Ready to give up yet? The answer, of course, is that I've got a 50-cent piece and a penny. One of the coins isn't a 50-cent piece, but that doesn't mean the other isn't.

Remember the old chestnut about the fellow who is carrying three billiard balls home but has to cross a rickety bridge that will only support 140 pounds? Trouble is, he weighs 120 pounds and each billiard ball weighs 10 pounds.

How does he get across in one trip with the entire load?

The answer? It's easy. Our friend simply juggles the billiard balls so that one ball is constantly in the air. (Just try this some time.)

The next is one which you shouldn't answer immediately. Imagine a man looking at the portrait of someone else and saying, "Sisters and brothers I have none, but that man's father is my father's son."

Not Too Fast

What relation is the speaker to the person in the portrait?

Uh-uh, don't be so hasty. The last time I mentioned this in the column, readers insisted for months that an incorrect answer was the correct one. One reader in St. John's, Nfld., still swears that she's right.

The answer is that the man is looking at a picture of his own son. Many still insist he is looking at a picture of himself, but a few moments of study will prove that they're wrong.

Or what about the rabbit chasing the tortoise and cutting the distance between them in half every minute?

If he starts out two miles behind the tortoise, how long will it take him to catch up?

The answer: Never. Our poor rabbit theoretically cuts the distance in half each minute, but never catches up. It means he winds up only a hair behind the tortoise (no pun intended), but he's still behind.

Another Oldtimers

Here's a final one which your mother and father were tackling years before we were born. And I'm going to leave the solution to your family conference.

Three men check into a hotel and pay $10 each or a total of $30 to the manager. The manager decides later that he's overcharged them by $5 and sends this sum upstairs with the bellboy.

But, aha, the bellboy is a dishonest fellow, and pockets $2 for himself, repaying $1 to each of the three men. This means each of the three men has paid $9, which totals $27. Add the bellboy's $2 and we get $29.

What happened to the last dollar?

When I mentioned the British group, the Beatles, in a recent column, I didn't realize how devoted their support is in Canada. Here's what two Winnipeg readers had to say about my mention of the — ah — "haircuts."

Just Jealous

Jackie Lusty wrote: "Your actions seem to me as if you are acting like a jealous two-year-old. If they are as lousy as you make them sound, tell me why they have made $17,000,000."

It was comforting to find somebody else who felt I was older than two years old. This reader, signed A Beatle Fan, declared, "I have no idea how old you are, but by the article you wrote, I would imagine that you are a frustrated middle-aged man.

"The Beatles aren't mopheads," she (or he) continued. "They just have typical English haircuts longified."

If it's any comfort to these two readers, whose comments I welcome, I didn't mind watching the Beatles on TV half as much as I thought I would.

SEEING THE LIGHT—Although it appears that Mrs. Carrol Miller has a head for parties—garden parties—her crazy hat has a more serious note. Mrs. Miller, from Missoula, Mont., and chairman of the Law Observance and Crime Prevention division of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, travels the country promoting the cause for better lighting to reduce purse snatching and muggings.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Fat Jack E. Leonard, the insult king, is giving Broadway some laughs—which it desperately needs these wintry nights. I dropped in at his opening at Basin St. East. He was introducing columnists. He called my name. "If you're here, hold up your right hand," he said. I held up my hand.

"Now hit yourself right in the mouth," he said.

From that brilliant beginning, he discussed domestic affairs as Will Rogers might if he were alive today . . . "Eddie Fisher just recorded a new song entitled, 'I Found a Million Dollar Baby — and I'm Gonna Get Every Damn Cent of It'."

Lyndon B. Johnson, he said, has a Lady Bird—and I've got an Old Bat . . . I'm cutting down smoking to two cigarettes a day—each 32 feet long."

He spoke charmingly of his Basin St. bosses. "One of them," he said, "used to be tail gunner on a beer truck. He majored in English in the Tombs." Jack's from Chicago, famous because one day last week it didn't have a murder for 20 minutes.

Barbra Streisand once more denies from her "Funny Girl" dressing room in Philly that she's expecting. It's just that she's put on six pounds and had some dresses let out . . . Richard Burton's not talking about his offer to go from "Hamlet" to James Bond (in the next thriller, "Thunderball," to be shot in Jamaica in the fall). But some chums say he's already pictured himself in the secret agent raincoat playing the high-living, high-loving, hard-drinking agent 007. Kevin McClory made Burton the offer in Toronto—with Liz Taylor present, of course . . . Cabbie Lazarus Siegel's book about racing will be dedicated to his wife and titled, "All Nags Aren't at the Race Track" . . . Carroll Baker has a scene in "The Carpetbaggers" wearing three feathers and little else which NBC thought too bare-skinned for its March 20 TV, "Inside the Movie Kingdom." But producer Milton Fruchtman repeatedly protested that the feathery Carroll was really decent so it's been OKd.

Popular song writer Harry Ruby of Hollywood has had his name confused with Jack Ruby in newspaper pictures and caption six times since the John F. Kennedy assassination, but he has no plans to sue anybody. Tall and thin, Ruby once inspired the late Alexander Woollcott to say he "looks like a dishonest Abe Lincoln." Groucho Marx said, "Not to listen to Harry Ruby over a luncheon table is a liberal education."

Ruby says: "After character references like those, what could I collect?"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Larry Blyden wants to quit the Bert Lahr musical, "Foxy": he says the producers haven't made some promised script changes . . . Nipsey Russell's huge success at the Eden Roc (in the Dinah Shore show) earned him 12 Ed Sullivan guest shots . . . George Raft may join the Jimmy Durante act, while Peter Lawford's movie-making.

Erle Stanley Gardner, the "Perry Mason" author, is writing a story about the Boston strangling murders. . . .

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The real TV fan is the guy who thinks that dining out means eating in the kitchen instead of the living room.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The vice-presidency is like the last cookie on the plate. Everybody insists he won't take it, but somebody always does. — Don Miner.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Everybody is able to give pleasure in some way. One person may do it by coming into a room, another by going out." —Lady Maude Warrender.

EARL'S PEARLS: Pat Buttram says he doesn't believe in Method acting: "I've noticed the only method most actors use is to be last on the set and first on the pay line."

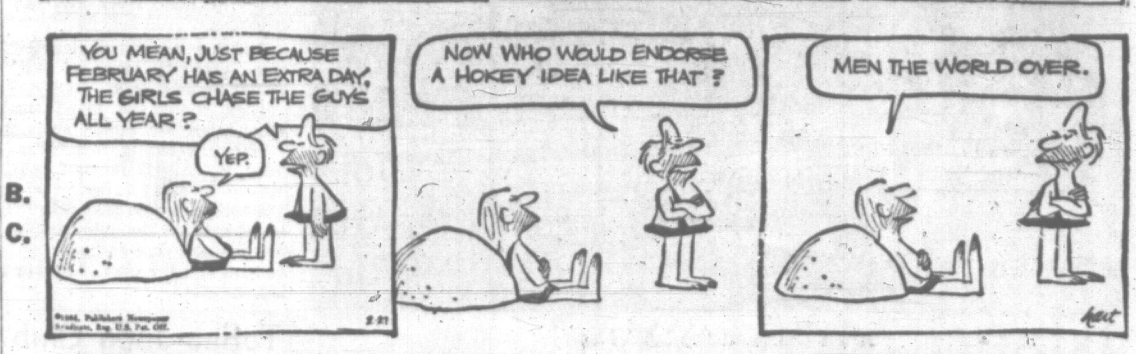

That's earl, brother.

Allan Dias and the 1927 Nash

Young Owner Feels Like King Driving 'Queen of the Road'

A young Duncan mechanic is practically down to his last horseless carriage.

But Alan Dias is hanging on to his 1927 Nash even if his 1929 Graham Paige and his 1929 Model A roadster have to go.

His other Model A and the 1933 Buick have already been driven out of the family by lack of storage space.

But his Nash is something special.

Alan bought it in Chemainus for quite a low sum, but he wouldn't part with it for a large one.

It spent a lot of its life in storage, and emerged needing only a paint job to make it look like a queen of the road again.

Inside—apart from the roll-up blinds on the back windows—it is a model of tasteful simplicity.

The austere wooden dashboard has the minimum of needed instruments on it, the gear shift is in the centre where it works best anyway, and the front seats are divided and comfortable.

The upholstery is the original grey plush, and the car was so little used the furry fabric isn't even worn.

Alan uses the car for stately motoring up and down the island, and has driven it to the mainland ocasionally without any problems.

His family is moving soon, and there will be even less space for automobiles.

The Model A roadster is temporarily safe in Saskatchewan.

The Graham Paige will be sold—all 4,000 pounds of it—as soon as the valves are ground.

But where Alan goes, the Nash goes.

"I'm proud of that car. I wouldn't part with it for anything," he says.

Cowichan to Launch First Science Fair

DUNCAN—A Cowichan School District Science Fair will be sponsored by the Kiwanis Club on April 10, in conjunction with the annual careers night program at the Cowichan Senior Secondary School.

The Science Fair which is being set up for the first time will consist of an exhibition of students' projects, experiments and collections.

The contest is open to any boy or girl in grades eight to 12 in school district 65. Official entry forms must be sent to G. D. Greenwood, Box 626, Duncan, by March 18. Forms can be obtained from Kiwanis members and school principals.

Cash prizes will be awarded in each section.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. Wood

DUNCAN—Well-known local resident Mrs. Sarah Anderson Wood died at Como Lake Private Hospital, Coquitlam, Feb. 25, in her 76th year.

Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, she came to the prairies in 1921. She moved to Duncan in 1927, and had latterly been a resident of Bell-McKinnon Road.

Mrs. Wood is survived by her husband, David; a daughter, Mrs. (Mary) Clarence Mayea, of Duncan; a son, Robert Ramsay Wood, of Vancouver, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from Hirst funeral chapel, Duncan, Friday at 2 p.m., with the Rev. R. B. Knipe officiating. Interment will take place at Mountain View Cemetery, Somenos.

"Th' old school type of foreman never give his crew no credit fer initiative. But I do! Fix it!"

WATERFRONT LAND

'Timber Barons Eluding Taxes'

B.C.'s timber barons are eluding taxes on waterfront property they will later sell for enormous profits, Alberni MLA John Squire charged Wednesday.

He said the holders of Vancouver Island timber licences such as MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River and Rayonier have hundreds of thousands of miles of lake, river and sea frontage.

But they are not paying the same property taxes as individual homeowners.

They should be taxed the same rates, Mr. Squire said.

"We're watching them," Premier W. A. C. Bennett told him.

Mr. Squire also said that he could not see the relationship between the cost and shortage of land and the cost of providing schools.

There had been huge assessment increases in such areas as Long Beach just because a few lots had been subdivided, he said.

William Hartley (NDP — Yale) said that farmers are being taxed off their land.

Mr. Bennett responded that if land taxes were lifted "great landowners" from outside would come in and buy up all the property.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said large groups already control "whole empires."

Mr. Bennett said the government's assessment formula is "averaged out" and appeals are provided.

Ralph Loffmark (SC—Point Grey), described by Liberal leader Ray Perrault as "the shadow minister of finance," helped his premier out.

Assessments must be equal for everyone, he said.

If the NDP could offer a new plan that would relieve the situation and still be fair to all, "the world is waiting for it the way it's waiting for the sunrise tomorrow."

Anti-Dump Campaign Started at Prospect

Residents of the Prospect Lake area have started campaign against conditions at the city-Saanich garbage dump, which they fear is polluting their lake.

About 180 signatures have been collected so far on petitions protesting the dump, and Prospect Lake and District Community Association is considering what action to take.

The operators of the privately-owned dump were given an ultimatum recently about cleaning the place up by the metropolitan board of health.

The dump is located in unorganized territory just outside the Saanich border on Hartland Road.

But complaints are still coming in about near-plagues of rats and seagulls at the dump.

Three petitions are being circulated by housewives in the Prospect Lake area, and two others are on display in general stores.

No decision has been made yet about who the petitions will go to.

Officers Elected By Ganges United

GANGES — Waldo Rogers, A. Angle, Mrs. Irl Bradley and Mrs. J. A. Tomlinson were returned to the board of stewards and J. W. Catto to the session at Ganges United Church annual congregational meeting.

Mrs. J. Fendall was elected secretary and A. G. House will remain as treasurer assisted by L. G. Ramsay. Stanley Wagg was appointed auditor. Miss Mary Corbett will be delegate to the presbytery.

Financial report showed substantial reduction in the manse debt in three years. The congregation voted to make the church an entirely self-sustaining charge.

Reports on youth were given by Robert Bidwell, Mrs. Gordon Scarff and Miss Corbett. Rev. Norah Hughes, DD, presided.

One-Legged Boy Takes to Hockey

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—A determined nine-year-old Saint John boy is breaking in a new hockey outfit this winter, as are a good many other youngsters his age.

But Harold Roberts exhibits an extra measure of courage in playing such rough-and-tumble sports as hockey. He has an artificial leg.

The plucky lad, who says he isn't worried about the future despite his handicap, lost his left leg below the knee two years ago in a train mishap.

Then seven years old, he dragged himself almost two blocks to the home of a practical nurse, mother of a playmate, after he tried to jump on a moving train near his home.

His spirit made a deep impression on the people of Saint John and they established a fund to help pay for his education.

Fitted with an artificial leg at the local veterans' hospital, Harold took only a short time to become accustomed to it before he was out romping, climbing trees and riding a bicycle.

In the winter it was skating and other activities that brought the boy to the attention of officials of War Amputations of Canada. When their annual convention was held here last September, Harold was chosen to symbolize the organization's efforts to help civilians.

The only worry Harold confesses now is how to get into a hockey league for regular play.

DU TEMPLE'S IMPOSSIBLE TASK

Northland Squalor, Boredom Thwart Social Worker's Job

(Jim Bigsby, associate editor of University of Victoria's paper, "The Martlet" (former editor-in-chief), spent last summer working at Cassiar Asbestos plant in northern B.C. Inspired by the recent welfare troubles in the area he describes how he sees conditions there.)

By JIM BIGSBY

What causes a 23-year-old welfare worker to resign in despair?

When Wallace du Temple arrived to see the premier recently he claimed the cause was an overwhelming case load.

In return, welfare department officials decided that it was because du Temple was "young and green."

And in the legislature a Socred MLA from Delta offered his considered opinion that du Temple was "incapable" and "not interested in doing a good job."

No one seemed interested in the job, but only in du Temple. It was known that the area concerned stretched along 1,100 miles of road connecting Fort Nelson and three small towns of Cassiar, Lower Post and Atlin.

It was known that promiscuity and prostitution were problems there, but then these are problems everywhere. What made the north so different?

The difference is intensity. The lives of over half the population of most communities are permeated by squalor, alcoholism, promiscuity and prostitution.

Rot Eats Deep

I worked at Cassiar last summer, and observed how deeply into the communities the rot has eaten.

Cassiar is a model company town with 100 neat family homes, 16 bunkhouses, a bank, a company store, a hospital, a post office, and two churches. The Community Club operates a combination auditorium-library, a coffee shop, a pool hall and a beer parlor.

A small building with the log jail houses the RCMP constable. His primary job is to act as a deterrent; he finds it impossible to crusade against alcoholism or prostitution. To do so he would have to lock up one-third of the area's inhabitants.

Stretching downwind from the company garbage dump is "Squawtown," a scattering of small log cabins chinked with mud and roofed with tar paper. Some are neatly kept up, but the majority are shacks with yards filled with junked cars and poorly clothed Indian children.

The Indians here, as elsewhere, are the greatest sufferers from alcoholism, promiscuity and poverty. Attracted by the money in Cassiar, the Indians have come up from Telegraph Creek on the Stikine River to work in the mine and in the wood camps.

The Ingredients

These are the ingredients: a respectable middle-class community; 200 hard-cased men with money and time but with few activities and no female companionship; 200 Indians living for the most part a squalid and monotonous existence.

Mix these ingredients and add an eight-month winter with 20 feet of snow and a sun that never appears above the mountains, and you have a simmering pot of boredom which boils over regularly.

Beer at 50 cents a bottle is expensive, but the pub is well patronized by town-dwellers and Indians alike.

Hard liquor is shipped up from Dawson Creek when privately ordered, or can be purchased in the Yukon 80 miles away. In the Yukon one can buy "Opie"—overproof rum of scarring strength. It makes for a cheap drunk and is a favorite among the Indians; bringing it back into B.C. is illegal but there's nothing to stop you.

Drinking parties go on nearly every night in the bunkhouses and Squawtown. When the liquor is gone, there are several bootleggers—the price is $10 a bottle.

Children Suffer

The greatest sufferers from alcohol are the children. They see it and its results constantly—there can be no separation in a small town—and are prone to accept the resulting conditions as normal.

Old Jack, a likeable, hard-working laborer who worked with me often, told me he spent $75 on liquor over the Dominion Day weekend.

"But ah only spen' hunna dollas a yeah, Jim," he would say in that musical speech of the northern Indian. "Ah got sev'n kids still at home, y'know."

He was a better father than most—a good one in fact—but on several nights I saw him in town looking for a bootlegger. He probably spent several hundred on alcohol, and the dress of his schildren must have suffered accordingly.

Alcohol plays a prominent part in promiscuity too, but we will come to that later.

The men in the bunkhouses would not profit from a social worker; they only contribute to his case load, either directly or indirectly.

Restlessness

Children coming into contact with the hard-living miners (and it is impossible to avoid contact with the miners and their life in a town of that size) come to accept their way of life as normal. Add to this the boredom of a northern community and the result is restlessness dangerously directed.

In June a young boy, bright but bitter, was sent to reform school after committing a minor burglary—he had made no attempt to cover his tracks.

This boy, in spite of having the best parents any child could have, already had a long record of minor crimes and defiance.

Promiscuity and prostitution? The dividing line is thin.

Most of the trouble follows a pattern: a sex-hungry miner plus a bottle of liquor plus an Indian girl, although female employees have been known to indulge in private practice the night before leaving town.

Last year a drunken Indian girl accepted numerous men outside the coffee shop. This year another drunken Indian woman was passed from room to room in a bunkhouse.

'Girls' Well Known

two Indian prostitutes within 20 miles of Cassiar. Both are well known. One has about half a dozen children, some of whom are now under welfare supervision. Another of her children—nine years old—drowned this summer when he slipped off a raft in the nearby lake.

A corollary to promiscuity and prostitution is venereal disease. One week the hospital treated over 40 cases—the result of three women.

Lower Post, another of Wallace du Temple's responsibilities. We drove 130 miles over dusty, bone-shattering gravel road one night, arriving in the dusk of a northern midnight.

Looming in the darkness was a large Indian school surrounded by a few blocks of the usual grey-brown shacks. At the roadside sat the glowing, laughing centre of activity, the hotel and its beer parlor.

We passed through the knot of young Indians gathered outside, through the lobby with two drunks and a "painted lady," and into the coffee shop.

The teen-aged Indian girl came in and sat next to us. Her eyes were lifeless and there were several sores breaking out on her face.

"She's pretty well gone," said one of the engineers with us. "Let's get out of here."

Mother Drunk

We hitch-hiked out to a nearby lake one Sunday, and the story of this journey could well serve as a composite illustration of the situation up north.

Vince picked us up in his run-down Ford. Next to him in the front seat was his wife with her baby; in the back was an old squaw and young Joe with a baby in his arms.

Throughout the ride the old squaw talked loudly to herself.

"Don't mind her," said Vince. "She's drunk."

They were on their way to a day-long holiday at Telegraph Creek and were taking the baby in back along because "its mother's back in Cassiar, drunk and still drinking."

I asked Vince if he spent a lot of money on alcohol.

"Yeah, too much. I wish you could tell me how to stop.

"Up here you drink to forget you're in Cassiar."

In the back seat, Joe talked quietly with my fellow hitch-hiker. A sober young man, Joe plans to attend UBC and become an accountant. He is an exceptional case—there seemed a general lack of ambition among Indian youths—but it may be a start. One other boy from the area has begun taking classes at the vocational training school in Whitehorse.

(Just for the record, the Indians we encountered were exceptionally hard-working and resourceful, but the majority displayed little ambition to train themselves for better work.)

Visit to Betty

Soon after leaving Vince at the turnoff we were picked up by two men who had been in Cassiar for about two years. They were on their way to visit Betty, the Indian prostitute at Airplane Lake near the highway department camp. (It was Betty whose son drowned this summer . . . about a week before the incident here described.)

At Airplane Lake we left our benefactors to their pleasure and were soon given a ride the rest of the way by the Catholic priest from Cassiar.

He does what he can for his parishioners and is particularly active among the Indians of the area, but his work is glaringly insufficient for the problems he must meet. The Anglican minister is too old to undertake social work of any degree.

This paints a partial picture of what a young social worker, Wallace du Temple, was supposed to counteract.

It was his job to improve the depressing social condition in the many small communities isolated along 1,100 miles of car-shaking gravel highway in a land where winter lasts eight months of the year and there is often nothing to do but drink and debauch.

Schools Unite For Education 'Open House'

An open-house type of program showing educational educational trends will be presented jointly by Royal Oak and Claremont schools as an education week feature Monday night.

Parents of children in grades eight to 13 are invited to be at Royal Oak Junior Secondary at 7.45, assembling in the gymnasium.

They will be divided into classrooms to hear from their children's teachers.

At 9 school buses will take them to Claremont Senior for a similar briefing, after which buses will return visitors to Royal Oak.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Boxing on television has about as much appeal as an old grapefruit rind on a dirty beach.

There are those who say the Tuesday night heavyweight match between Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay on closed-circuit television at the Memorial Arena was a great thing if you sat within inches of the tiny screen. They were in the minority. Others, not only in Victoria but elsewhere, say they would not pay a nickel, much less $5, to see the pair go at it again.

Stephen

UPI television critic Rick Du Brow asked: "Is it possible that Tuesday night's fight was an end-of-the-line landmark for boxing?"

Frankly, boxing has been decelerating at a great rate for many years. The main interest in Tuesday's fight stemmed more from curiosity as to whether the brash Louisville Lip could dethrone the Bear than from anything else.

Gone are the days of Bill the bartender, his suds pitch, the must-see Wednesday night TV fights featuring classy name boxers. They fought in front of small crowds in gyms across the country before television created a national following. But the years didn't produce enough fodder to feed the voracious appetite of the rabid television boxing fan.

Network television boxing bows off ABC-TV this season. Since it seems boxing really interests only the participants, no one is going to miss it.

* * *

ABC-TV's new comedy-western series, Destry, beat its competition, International Showtime and The Great Adventure, in the ratings in its Valentine's Day debut. The second show, by the way, was no better than the dull and unimaginative first one.

NBC-TV's Suspense Theatre anthology is reported officially renewed for the coming season, with Perry Como's specials intermingled again . . . the same network now is said to be counting pretty firmly on a one-hour Daniel Boone series, starring Fess Parker, for the fall.

Bing Crosby, who couldn't come to terms with CBS-TV for a situation comedy, seems to be having better luck with ABC-TV. He is reported nearing completion of a deal with the latter network to star in a half-hour situation comedy next season.

NBC-TV's announced documentary on the tragedy-plagued high-wire troupe, the Wallenda family, airs March 22. The troupe will perform this Saturday on the Hollywood Palace.

SECLUDED ESTATE
Trees, trees, and more trees. A delightful orchard of some 25 fruit trees. Towering stately shade trees, shrubbery galore—some of it rare specimens, bulbs, flowers. A little fish pond. A little barn for the horse.
The four-bedroom family home is definitely of older vintage but a considerable amount of money has been spent in modernizing work. The spacious living room has brand new wall-to-wall carpets. There is a new Oil-O-Matic heating system, new wiring and copper piping. This home is in spotless condition and in every way presentable.
1.6 acres of level cleared land with sea view.
PRICE $17,900

Hydro PRO To Join Distillery

B.C. Hydro's top public relations man is resigning to take a post with a distillery.

Victoria native Edward F. Fox is resigning as head of the Crown's agency information division March 31.

He will join the House of Seagram as a western Canada representative.

Mr. Fox, 49, was born in Victoria and joined the Daily Colonist after matriculation from Victoria High School.

He later moved to the Times, where he worked until joining the Royal Canadian Navy at the start of the Second World War.

Mr. Fox served in the navy for five years, including convoy duty in the North Atlantic, attaining the rank of lieutenant.

In 1945 he joined the B.C. Electric Co.'s information division.

Later transferred to Vancouver, he became head of the division after government takeover of the BCE.

Yield Signs May Replace Some Stops

City traffic committee Wednesday recommended replacing stop signs with "yield right-of-way" signs wherever possible, Ald. Cecil Parrott said after a closed meeting.

The suggestion came from Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow who said the yield signs had improved traffic flow in other cities.

But the committee turned down another suggestion by Ald. Edgelow that a temporary one-way system be instituted for the morning rush hours only on Rose Street between Topaz and Hillside to funnel southbound cars more smoothly onto the permanent one-way section of Rose between Hillside and Blanshard.

Family Service Assistant Named

Executive director of Family and Children's Service, Gordon Wright, announced today the appointment of Arthur Rippon to the position of assistant executive director.

Mr. Rippon, presently employed as a casework supervisor at the Provincial Mental Hospital, Essondale, will commence his duties in March.

The position was vacated last year by Mrs. Elva Campbell.

NURSE QUOTES MD

Surgeon 'Didn't Know What He Was Doing'

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP)—An operating-room nurse testified today that during an operation on Patricia Morgan last Oct. 18 one of the doctors present whispered to another that the surgeon in charge "doesn't know what he's doing."

Irene Wagenaar, 23, a scrub nurse, told a coroner's jury that the words were spoken by Dr. Anthony Varga, chief resident doctor in surgery at Toronto East General Hospital, about Dr. Kenneth A. Brown, who was operating on Miss Morgan for an intestinal blockage.

The procedure was stopped in mid - operation by Dr. Burns Plewes, the hospital's chief of surgery, when excessive bleeding developed. Miss Morgan died Nov. 4 and an autopsy revealed the cause of death as a surgical clamp left in her intestines.

BELATED INQUEST

Ontario Attorney - General Fred Cass ordered the belated inquest when relatives of the 32-year-old victim learned the cause of her death, which had not been reported to the coroner's office by the hospital or doctors.

Dr. Varga and senior interne Dr. Paul Takahashi, testified earlier today.

Dr. Varga, a surgical specialist assigned to the operation by the hospital's chief surgeon, Dr. Burns Plewes, described as "untrue" statements made earlier in the hearing by Dr. Brown that he (Dr. Varga) had replaced Dr. Brown involuntarily during the operation.

The senior resident doctor said he had replaced Dr. Brown only after most of a 10-inch incisior in Miss Morgan had been sewn.

Dr. Varga also claimed that during the operation, Dr. Brown had inadvertently damaged the woman's spleen, cut into arteries running between the spleen and stomach, and pierced a section of the upper intestine.

CHECKS CAVITY

Dr. Takahashi said he noticed Dr. Brown checking in the operational cavity before starting to sew up the cut.

"He (Dr. Brown) went through the motions of what a surgeon would do when looking for any foreign bodies such as sponges," said the interne. He said when Dr. Brown turned the suturing job over to Dr. Varga, there was not enough opening for a man to put his hand through.

Dr. Varga also claimed that when he asked for Dr. Plewes' advice on the operation, he did not leave the operating room as Dr. Brown had alleged Tuesday, but notified the chief surgeon through a nurse standing nearby.

Both Dr. Varga and Dr. Takahashi also contradicted Dr. Brown's contention that he had not worked in the intestinal area where the surgical clamps were discovered.

A pathologist's report revealed Miss Morgan's death was attributed to a bowel obstruction caused by a surgical clamp left in her abdomen.

LACKED FAITH

Dr. Plewes maintained in later testimony that Dr. Varga and the senior interne were appointed to assist Dr. Brown in the operation because he had no faith in Dr. Brown's ability.

Although he would not elaborate, the chief surgeon admitted that while it was customary to have one assistant for surgery, he usually added a second for Dr. Brown's cases.

Pressed by Crown attorney John Holliran to account for the tardy report and conditions surrounding the death, Dr. Plewes admitted Miss Morgan's death was a case of misadventure, but added there was no criminal act or intent to harm.

He also denied the report was withheld to protect the hospital's reputation.

Commenting on his alleged discouraging of post-operative x-rays of Miss Morgan which might have exposed the instrument, Dr. Plewes said he had asked Dr. Brown not to operate in the hospital again after the Morgan surgery but had not been consulted about x-rays.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY SONG GREETS PEARKES AT 76

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes received musical honors Wednesday on his 76th birthday.

Delegates to the 15th B.C. Natural Resources Conference sang "Happy birthday, dear guv'nor, happy birthday to you," after he had opened the conference in the Empress Hotel.

He was then presented with a desk set made of natural rock by M. M. Menzies of Noranda Exploration Co. Ltd., Vancouver, and a copy of the new inventory of B.C.'s natural resources.

Born at Watford, England, in 1888, Mr. Pearkes came to Canada in 1906, served in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and won the Victoria Cross in the First World War.

He has been lieutenant-governor of B.C. since Oct. 13, 1960.

BENNETT ON COLUMBIA

Change in Treaty Moved Goal Posts

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday offered an explanation for what the Opposition charged was a change in the goalposts of Columbia River power financing.

The issue was whether or not Mr. Bennett really got a price of over 5 mills per kilowatt hour for downstream benefits sold to the U.S.

Mr. Bennett said he got at least 5.3 mills.

Randolph Harding (NDP-Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature this price included a cash payment of $64,400,000 for flood control benefits.

EXCLUDED

Yet in 1961, he recalled the government instructed the B.C. Energy Board to exclude flood control in its calculations of the cost of the Columbia compared with the Peace River project.

The money was to be held in trust to compensate people who suffered economic hardship.

Without the flood control, the Columbia mill rate would be 4 or 4.4 Mr. Harding said.

"Why do you keep changing the base?"

He suggested the lower price was used in 1961 to make the Peace look more favorable.

The reason for the difference, Mr. Bennett replied, was a change in the over-all plan for the Columbia.

Originally, he said, the Columbia plan was to return the downstream benefits to B.C. This would have meant no power generation at Mica Dam in B.C. because there would be no market for the power.

CREATE BOOM

But now that the benefits are being sold, power will be generated at Mica Creek. This will create a booming economy in the area.

Mr. Bennett said Mica will be developed to its fullest capacity as soon as possible. Any power surplus to the B.C. market will be exported "provided we get the right price," he said.

The premier also assured Mr. Harding that people displaced by Columbia flooding will be "treated fairly" and given a chance to move to other nearby land before outsiders are allowed to buy it.

Columbia Cash Will Aid Hydro

U.S. cash from the Columbia River project will be used to finance B.C. Hydro, which is building the Peace River project, Premier W. A. C. Bennett disclosed Wednesday.

He told the legislature that if the $274,800,000 for Columbia downstream benefits arrives this year:

- It will redeem $36,000,000 worth of Toll Authority parity bonds due this August.
- It will "most likely" pay off $86,000,000 worth of B.C. Hydro parity bonds which come due next year.
- The government will give consideration to calling in an undisclosed amount of old 6½ per cent B.C. Electric bonds

QUESTIONED

Mr. Bennett was answering questions in the legislature from Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) concerning possibility of the Columbia cash being invested in the Peace.

Mr. Bennett replied that issue of new parity bonds for the Peace would depend upon ratification of the Columbia River treaty. B.C. will get the money from the U.S. when this happens.

REDEMPTION DUE

Mr. Bennett said the government did not intend to have more than about $212,000,000 worth of parities at any one time.

With redemption of the Toll Authority bonds and the Hydro bonds due next year, the total would drop to around $100,000,000, Mr. Bennett said.

"There will come a time anyway when financing for the Peace and Columbia will require parity bonds," he said.

He said it was "wise" for the government to pay off parity bonds when they became due while it had a surplus of money such as the Columbia cash.

Skilled Men Needed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said Wednesday the company can't get enough skilled workers for the Peace River power project.

Superb Nootka Canoe Builders Deserve Aid to Keep Art Alive

A trained boat designer advocates government assistance to keep a dying Indian canoe building tradition alive on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

D'O. T. Rochfort, 2970 Rutland, said the craft has a great commercial potential and deserves as much support as that given today for the preservation of totem poles.

"It needs some form of assistance to tide it over until the boat building industry realizes the value of Indian canoe designs," he said. "The day is not too far off when they will appreciate its worth."

Mr. Rochfort, who received training as a naval architect, was commenting on the decline of the Indian (Nootkan) boat building craft on the west coast where only a handful of skilled native builders remain.

The young people are no longer carrying on the tradition and it's now only a matter of time before the craft dies out.

He has made a special study of the Nootkan cedar dugout and he claims it's one of the best-designed crafts of its kind in the world.

"Few people are aware of its seaworthiness and its ingenious lines," he said. "It's only when you get down to studying the design and watching its performance at sea that you realize what a delightful boat it is."

The outstanding feature of the dugout, he said, is its upward flare on its sides. This is to keep the boat dry, thus eliminating the necessity of bailing. It also increases the boat's stability.

Among other features is its bow, designed to split or part the waves in big seas.

Mr. Rochfort envisages the boat building industry in time making fiberglass models of Nootkan canoes.

"Sooner or later they will turn their attention to this canoe," he said. Already some U.S. experts like Bill Durham and Philip Drucker have praised its superb design.

But for the time being the craft should be encouraged, he said. "I'm certain a market can be found these boats."

Action Demanded On Queen Threats

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

★ ★ ★

The 51 men and one lucky woman of our Legislative Assembly are hard-working people. On Wednesday they arranged to spend $47,759,505, a sum which includes Premier Bennett's $17,500 salary and a $400 bite for arrears of dyking assessments on lands, reverted to the Crown.

But lawmakers are also human, and with our unlegislated Victoria spring invading the bloodstream, parliament at time relaxes its decorum to a remarkable degree.

Members, and even ministers, start on a round of deskhopping. They drop in on a friend down the line for a chat.

To illustrate, let us follow the progress of Highways Minister Gaglardi, one of a captive audience listening while red-tie NDP Leo Nimsick expands on the subject of rural electrification.

Mr. Gaglardi slips into the seat vacated for the moment by Public Works Minister Chant, a cabinet member known to keep an iron ration of goodies—the edible kind—in his desk.

Stealthy Paw

Up a cautious few inches rises the desk top, and in steals the Gaglardi paw. It rummages out a cellophane bag of what looks like caramel popcorn, but could be shelled walnuts or crumbled church-bazaar fudge.

Mr. Gaglardi helps himself to a handful. He shares his loot with Socred A. W. Lundell of Revelstoke.

They munch contentedly while Mr. Nimsick lists Kootenay towns forced to depend upon an Idaho power outlet for their electricity.

Presently highways liberates another fistful of public works' popcorn or whatever, and wanders down the government back row to share the treat with facts-and-figures specialist Ralph Loffmark, Vancouver-Point Grey.

"Then there is Grasmere," Mr. Nimsick informs the House, "and also, Yahk . . ."

Back Bench Giggles

Across the way, Mr. Gaglardi starts, swallows, and turns.

"What," he demands, "is the name of that place?"

"Yahk," replies the interrupted member. "Yahk, Yahk . . . and if the minister wishes me to answer his questions, he had better be in his seat!"

That started it: a climate of silliness which set the back benches — always easily amused—to giggling until committee of supply chairman William Speare rapped for order.

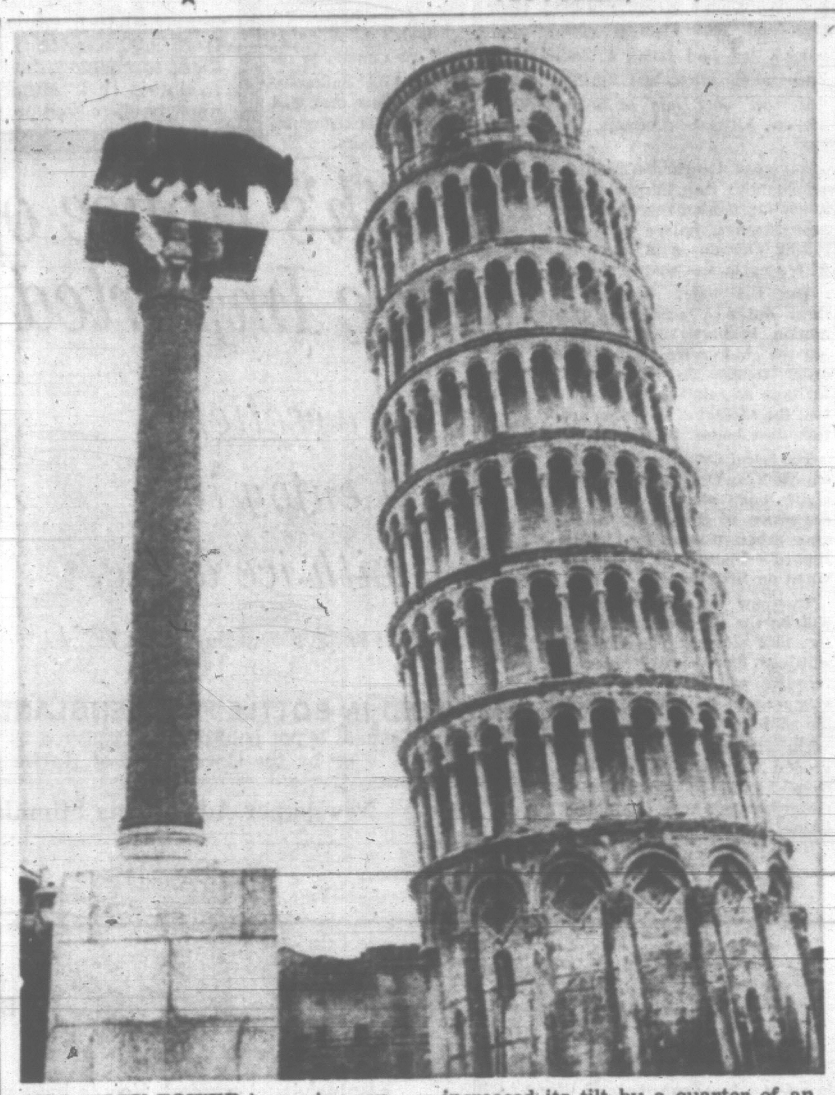

Then on we went, Yahk, Yahk, Yahk, through an afternoon surely strayed from April, to vote Mr. Bennett his salary and office expenses, and to pass finance estimates.

These are good days under parliament's dome. A surprisingly mild and easy session has left tempers so far unfrayed. The formal debate of Throne Speech and budget has given place to the give-and-take of estimates, where a dozen members of all parties may be heard from in half an hour.

Throne Empty

With the House in committee of supply under a chairman, the speaker's throne is empty.

This doesn't mean that Speaker William Murray of Prince Rupert can nap in idleness, though. He is parliament's business manager as well as its referee, and must see that its ponderous wheels run easy.

TOO-TILTY TOWER is causing consternation among the citizens of Pisa, Italy, who have asked the Italian government to spend more than a million dollars to save it. Famed Leaning Tower of Pisa has increased its tilt by a quarter of an inch in last 45 years, and experts say it might not last another 100 years without falling down unless it is pushed back just a little. Herridge Alleges:

U.S. WAS 'DUPED' ON COLUMBIA

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A New Democratic Party MP claims he has evidence showing that the federal and B.C. governments "duped" the U.S. into paying an unrealistically high price for Columbia River downstream benefits.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) says he has a copy of a letter written by Jack Davis, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, which admits to the tactic.

The letter, says Mr. Herridge, was written in reply to Richard Deane, an electrical engineer of Trail. Mr. Deane had queried Mr. Davis concerning cost estimates of High Arrow Dam, one of three dams to be built under the Canada-U.S. Columbia River treaty.

Said Mr. Davis to Mr. Deane, according to the document Mr. Herridge holds:

"You mention a cost estimate of $157 million for the High

Williston Snaps:

'STUPID' STATEMENT WRONG

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

B.C. Resouces Minister Ray Williston today emphatically denied the U.S. was duped into paying too much for Columbia River power.

The charge, made by Kootenay West MP Bert Herridge in Ottawa today is "bad for Canada" and "pretty stupid," Mr. Williston said.

Mr. Herridge produced a letter he said was from Jack Davis, parilamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, to Richard Deane, an engineer for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd., at Trail.

The letter said cost estimates for Columbia dams to be built in B.C. were deliberately inflated to influence negotiations with the U.S.

TWO ESTIMATES

Mr. Herridge said the letter was dated Feb. 4, 1964.

It referred to two cost esti-

WIRE BRIEFS

B.C. Wins Curling

EDMONTON (CP) — The British Columbia rink from Kimberley, skipped by Ina Hansen, clinched its second Canadian women's curling championship in three years today with a 13-8 victory over Manitoba. (See earlier story, Page 15.)

Train Dynamited

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI)—An explosion, apparently triggered by saboteurs, today derailed five diesel locomotives and 27 cars of a freight train operated by the strike-plagued Florida East Coast Railway.

20 Killed on Airliner

TOKYO (AP)—A two-engine, propeller-driven Japanese airliner crashed while coming in for landing at Oita, southern Japan, today killing 20 persons and injuring 22.

IN PARK

Mine Claims Granted

The B.C. cabinet today authorized two mining claims in a Class A provincial park—the first since a new policy to allow industry into the parks was announced in the legislature.

A cabinet order approved a lease on two claims in Kokanee Glacier Park, near Nelson.

It was awarded to two Edmonton men, Garnet Norris and Morris McLeod Stevenson.

Mines and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan could not be immediately reached for an explanation.

However, it was reported the two claims were originally staked before the park was established under crown reserve.

The cabinet order said the claims had reverted to the crown because of non-payment of taxes.

It did not say when the crown took back the claims.

However, it did say mining operation will not "interfere" with use of the park.

Kokanee is a small wilderness park.

Mr. Kiernan earlier announced the government would allow mining and logging in wilderness parks.

He said industry would provide access roads where the public cannot now get into wilderness areas.

OTTAWA KEEPS PARKS PURE

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government feels that the harvesting of resources above or below the surface in national parks is not consistent "at all" with the way in which the parks should be maintained.

With these words, Resources Minister Laing assured the Commons today that Ottawa is sticking with its long-time policy of "maintaining our national parks in a nature state, which means the preservation of the wilderness aspect of the parks."

'Un-Texan' To Convict Jack Ruby?

DALLAS (UPI)—Jack Ruby's lawyers jolted the courtroom today with the suggestion that killing a Communist may not deserve the death penalty.

As the trial entered its 10th day with chances good for the quick filling of the last four places on the jury, defence attorney Joe H. Tonahill put this question to the 99th prospect:

"Would you consider it un-Texan to be a member of the first jury in America to give the death penalty for shooting a Communist?"

Lee Harvey Oswald was an avowed Marxist.

Panelist C. B. Perkins was not allowed to answer. The three prosecutors leaped up with objections and were sustained. Perkins was then removed for having an opinion.

BOGGED DOWN

The effort to complete a jury, bogged down again today when the first six prospective jurors were all disqualified.

The total jury candidates called reached 101 in the first hour of the morning session.

Eight men and women have been chosen as jurors, leaving four to be found.

Courtroom pricipals still believe the jury will be completed by Friday. Testimony could start immediately.

'BOOTLEG FEEDING' REPORTED

Bird Lovers' Feathers Ruffled By Campaign to Curb Pigeons

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A long-standing battle over pigeons and starlings in communities across New York state has ruffled far more feathers among the human population than among the birds.

For their part, the pigeons and starlings seem content to roost on buildings with the inevitable result, exist on handouts, tidbits at dumps and railway sidings. When the enemy appears, they vacate less hospitable locations—for a time at least.

An Associated Press survey revealed that more than a score of urban communities across New York state are aware of or doing something about the so-called "dirty-bird nuisance." However, the pigeons and starlings have powerful allies in humane societies and pigeon fanciers.

Estimates on the cost of cleaning up after pigeons and starlings range into the millions of dollars each year. This does not include the private cleaning bills.

LIVE 35 YEARS

Pigeons raise an average of six to seven broods of two squabs each every year and can attain a life span of 35 years.

Syracuse, urged by the city's newspapers and residents, recently began a full-scale attack on the problem.

The city imposes a $100 fine on persons convicted of feeding pigeons on public property. It sets traps which have snared about 2,000 pigeons and 10,000 starlings.

But there have been reports of secret, "bootleg" feeding of the pigeons and complaints about the trapping operation.

DISAGREEMENT RIFE

Disagreement is rife concerning the "pigeon problem." Health departments in several cities have declared the pigeon a health menace. The birds are given a clean bill of health in other urban areas.

Schemes to eliminate or discourage pigeons and starlings are diverse.

Hunters armed with shotguns are used and traps are set. These methods guarantee the birds won't return. Poison is avoided because of the danger to other wildlife and humans.

In the field of discouraging pigeons man's ingenuity reaches its peak—only to be frustrated by inability to convince the birds of their enduring unpopularity.

Electric wires, gooey chemicals that give the bird a hot foot, stuffed owls and crows, tacks, roofing nails, jagged glass, wire mesh and ash-can drumming have been tried, mostly with limited success.

The birds fly away, roost elsewhere and return when the heat is off.

ASTRONAUT GROUNDED ON BATHROOM RUG

COLUMBUS (AP) — Former astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., whose official entrance into politics may be delayed because of a "mild" concussion, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Grant Hospital.

Attaches said Glenn, injured Wednesday in a fall inside his apartment bathroom, was resting fairly comfortably.

Glenn, who was set to launch his bid for the Ohio Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate on Monday, was injured when he slipped on a bathroom rug. He fell breaking a detached medicine cabinet mirror he had been trying to put back into place—and struck his head on the bathtub.

The marine lieutenant-colonel, scheduled to be released from active duty this weekend, suffered a cut on the forehead and a bruise behind the left ear.

New Storm In House

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Guy Fraveau said today he intends to communicate with Ontario and Quebec attorneys-general once he receives the text of statements by separatist Dr. Marcel Chaput about the fall visit of the Queen.

Mr. Favreau, pressed in the Commons by opposition MPs asking whether charges will be laid against Dr. Chaput, replied that he expected to receive the text of Dr. Chaput's remarks shortly and when he did, he planned to communicate with the provincial authorities.

Opposition MPs, continuing their pressure of the government over Dr. Chaput's Monday night speech in Toronto, again placed on the Commons record these words attributed to the separatist leader:

"Some of my own people are ready to tell her (the Queen) know—and brutally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) described them as clearly "calculated to disturb the tranquility of the state.

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) argued that the words showed a criminal intent on the part of Dr. Chaput and that it was Mr. Favreau's responsibility to take legal steps.

Mr. Nielsen and Mr. Woolliams are lawyers.

SHOUTED PROTESTS

Mr. Nielsen said, over shouted protests from government supporters, that Attorney-General Fred Cass of Ontario has said he does not know whether the question of legal action against Dr. Chaput is within his jurisdiction.

Mr. Favreau replied that Mr. Cass has said he is looking into the matter.

Mr. Nielsen also contended that legal action would have to be taken within six days of the statements being made. That limit would expire Friday. Would the government begin action before then?

Mr. Favreau said he is "well aware" of the limitations and restrictions spelled out in the Criminal Code. His own concern about the matter is "at least as deep" as that of any MP who felt it his duty to raise the question in the Commons.

He intended to discharge his duties as minister in a manner consistent with provincial administration of justice.

DOES NOT REPLY

There was no reply.

Mr. Woolliams ran afoul of the Speaker in pressing Mr. Favreau for legal action and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker challenged Mr. Favreau to say whether he had been in touch with the provincial authorities to suggest action.

Mr. Favreau replied that he still was awaiting the text of Dr. Chaput's remarks. When he received it, he would get in touch with them.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette fired the parting shot, at least for the time being.

He asked why Ontario officials haven't arrested D. Chaput to satisfy the Conservatives in the Commons.

New B.C. Bank Backers Began On Shoestring

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Hungarian-born financiers, who parlayed a capital investment of $500 each into a multi-million-dollar international firm, have announced plans for Canada's third new chartered bank.

Peter Paul Saunders and Andrew Elliot Saxton said Wednesday they have applied to Parliament for a federal charter to form the Laurentide Bank of Canada.

Mr. Saunders is president of Laurentide Financial Corporation and Mr. Saxton vice-president.

Mr. Saunders said the bank will have at least $10,000,000 authorized capital. This compares with the $10,000,000 authorized capital in the proposed Bank of Western Canada. B.C. Premier Bennett said capitalization for the proposed Bank of British Columbia would be "many times more than $50,000,000."

"If our application is accepted, the bank will be national in character with its head office in Vancouver and it will operate across the country," Mr. Saunders said.

It would launch operations simultaneously across Canada in the 85 branch offices of the existing loan company. The bank may function as a subsidiary to the loan company or Laurentide shareholders could be given a preferred opportunity to subscribe the required capital.

The company had about 5,800 shareholders — some 2,000 in B.C.

The Bank of British Columbia is expected to operate within B.C. during initial stages and the Bank of Western Canada in the four western provinces.

Notice of intention of the new bank will appear in the Canada Gazette Friday and for three successive weeks, he said, before the petition naming the bank, its provincial directors and head office location, is filed with Parliament.

Laurentide is the outgrowth of astute manipulation of shares and capital that transformed

New Bank Welcomed, Gov't Plan Unchanged

By FRANK RUTTER

The B.C. government's plan to promote a bank will not be affected by announcement of another new bank by a finance company, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday.

The Laurentide Finance Co. announced it plans a new chartered bank with a capital of $10,000,000 and head offices in Vancouver.

"This is no relation to the Bank of B.C.," the premier told Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in the legislature.

"I've held no talks with them."

Outside the House, Mr. Bennett told reporters he had heard rumors about the Laurentide plan.

But it will not be large enough to take the place of the government's plan, he said.

"It will be a private enterprise bank—so will be the Bank of B.C."

The government plans to buy up to 25 per cent of the Bank of B.C. shares.

Mr. Bennett recalled that Attorney-General Robert Bonner only Tuesday predicted there will be other new banks.

Mr. Bonner declined to answer when asked if he had known then about Laurentide.

However, he said the new venture was "very welcome" and reflected a general move to make western Canada a financial centre.

Gibson: B.C. Can Be Rich Bennett: Tell Me More

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Logging tycoon Gordon Gibson Wednesday offered the B.C. government a plan he said would bring $600,000,000 a year revenue from forests.

Mr. Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, said B.C. timber resources total 2,000 billion feet. At $10 per thousand feet, they are worth $10,000 to every person in the province.

If the timber were properly harvested, he said, the annual cut would be worth $6,000,000,000 a year.

His idea was to persuade 20 companies of the size and efficiency of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River to build conversion plants over the next 10 years at a cost of $3,000,000,000.

These companies would share profits equally with the provincial government, possibly on a 99-year contract.

The government would also take 5 per cent of the end selling price of the timber products as a stumpage fee.

The profits and stumpage would each bring $300,000,000 a year revenue, Mr. Gibson said.

"We would be the richest place in the world."

Last year the B.C. government got only $40,000,000 from the forest industry, Mr. Gibson said. It could have been at least $200,000,000.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the government would consider any plan for forest development.

But he disagreed with Mr. Gibson's proposals for fixed assessments and taxes on a long term basis. The present system of forest management licensing allows annual changes in fees, he said.

The government now collects royalties, a 10 per cent profits tax, and a share of employees' and corporation income taxes.

100,000 Flee Riots In Bengal

NEW DELHI (AP) — More than 100,000 refugees are on the march or huddling in makeshift camps in the crowded east end of the Indian subcontinent.

Officials estimate 30,000 Moslems have been driven out of Indian Bengal by Hindu rioters and 20,000 Hindus have fled East Pakistan in the wake of Moslem rioting.

In the swelling migration northward, about 50,000 tribal people have fled from East Pakistan into the Garo Hills tract of Assam, the Indian government reports. These include large numbers of Christian converts, according to Indian officials.

RICE SHORT

The Indian and Pakistan governments are hard put to find rice for the refugees. There is widespread official anxiety that the stream of human beings could turn into uncontrollable torrents.

Officials also see a danger of new religious rioting as a result of the refugee movement. Jobless, grudge-bearing refugees of earlier years were among the chief arsonists and knife-wielders in last month's riots.

Those riots were put down with troops in both countries.

DISPUTES ABOUND

Preventing mutual solution of the problem is the bitter India-Pakistan quarrel over Kashmir. There also is a dispute over the nationality of several hundred thousand Moslems in the Indian border districts around East Pakistan.

India has been evicting them as Pakistani while Pakistan insists they are rightfully Indians.

Riots in the overpopulated Ganges delta region are an old problem. It was not solved by the separation of British India into Moslem Pakistan and secular, Hindu-dominated India. Big minorities remained in both countries after the 1947 partition.

MONSOON WHIMS

The whole region except for industrial zones at Calcutta and Dacca is underdeveloped, underfertilized and subject to the whims of the southeast monsoon for water.

Though Assam has oil wells and tea plantations, most of the region consists of small rice, jute, or vegetable farms. Malnutrition is common. Millions live as squatters, landless laborers and tenants.

In the riots, hamlets or city neighborhoods full of people of one religion frequently were stirred to flight by rioters of another religion. While religion is the cry, the aim seems often to get land the victims lived on or jobs they held.

Pair Admit Hold-Ups, Found Dead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two University of Miami fraternity brothers under investigation for bank robberies in California were found shot to death Sunday.

They were Avie Celender, son of Indianapolis, Ind., industrialist, and Arthur Tepper, a son of a Scranton, Pa., businessman. Both were 21.

The boys were sprawled on the front seat of Celender's sports car. Both had been shot in the chest. A .38 calibre revolver was found between them.

Police said it was either a case of murder and suicide or a suicide pact. Tests were being made to determine who fired the shots.

In Los Angeles, William G. Simon, FBI agent-in-charge, said that in a telephone conversation from Miami late Saturday night the two men admitted guilt in connection with bank robberies. He said they promised to turn themselves in.

Inventor Sues

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A 74-year-old inventor filed a $50,000,000 damage suit against the owners of Look magazine and a subsidiary of Eastman Kodak Company Tuesday, contending his business intgrests were hurt by publication of an example of three-dimensional photography. Dr. Edgar Fuller of Lacey, Wash., filed suit in U.S. district court, saying he invented and patented a 3-D process in 1938.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1964—PAGE 21

COAST GUARD TOWS CRAFT TO VANCOUVER

A coast guard cutter towed the disabled RCMP vessel Little Bow II into Vancouver Harbor at noon today after she broke down off Texada Island.

The Racer was sent out after Little Bow reported she was shipping water and unable to steer effectively.

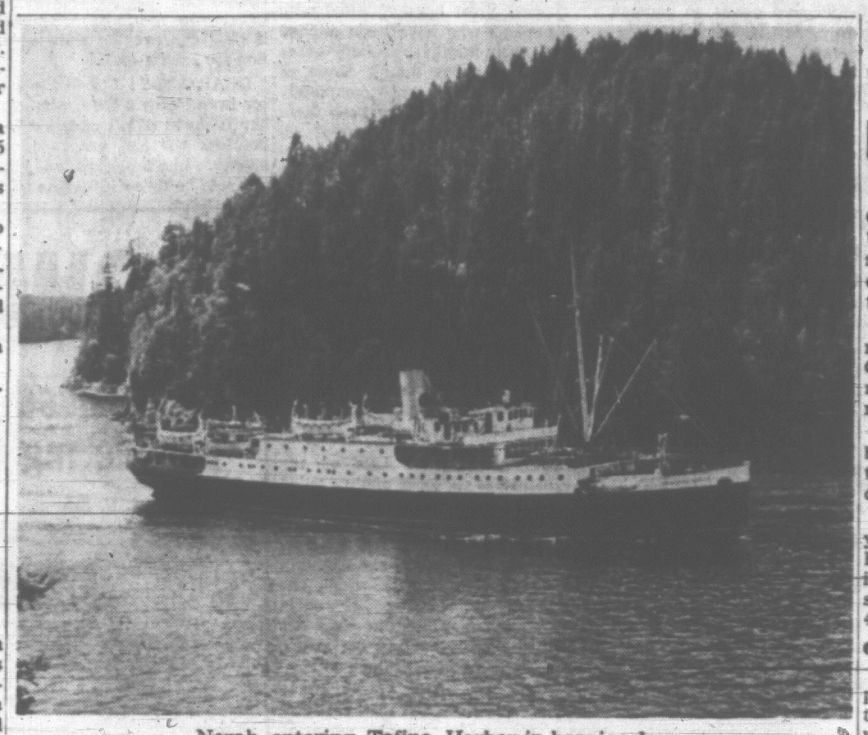

Search and Rescue officials said the boat and her crew were in no danger.

Little Bow reported a damaged rudder at about 5 a.m., and said she was shipping water but her pumps could handle it.

She was on her way to Vancouver, and was in Sabine Chanel near Texada Island when her rudder apparently struck a submerged object.

Little Bow has a four-man crew.

Police Continue Hunt For Youth's Murderer

Chief Hopes To Uncover New Evidence

The George Down murder case file — which contains a repudiated confession by a youth — is still open and police still hope to crack it.

This was indicated by a summary of the case in Police Chief J. F. Gregory's annual report released at a police commission meeting this morning.

"Some useful facts may yet be uncovered which will serve to conclude this matter successfully," the chief wrote.

OVER 100 INTERVIEWS

The chief said more than 100 persons were interviewed by the investigation team in the weeks that followed.

On Sept. 25 an unnamed juvenile "admitted to killing George Down, the motive being robbery of the $26 Down had in his wallet," the chief's report said.

"Every possible means of corroborating the confession was explored. Various articles were submitted to both RCMP and Vancouver Police crime laboratories, all to no avail.

"In the meantime, the youth denies his former statement and professed his innocence.

"This story was changed several times and eventually a lengthy brief was submitted to the city prosecutor who stated that there was insufficient evidence upon which to proceed against the youth."

City Traffic Accidents On Increase

A "staggering" increase in traffic accidents last year has brought an intensive traffic enforcement program, Victoria Police Chief J. F. Gregory said today in his first annual report to the police commission.

The chief also reported that the growing crime rate of recent years was stopped and turned down somewhat in 1963.

Chief Gregory said traffic acidents increased by 15 per cent to a total of 1,536 in which nine persons lost their lives.

The number of injured persons jumped by 11 per cent to 500 and property damage reached "the almost unbelieveable amount" of nearly $500,000.

BIGGER DIVISION

"To combat these staggering figures, I have transferred the command of the motorcycle patrolmen to the traffic division and attached two sergeants to asist in supervision," the chief said.

"A request has been submitted for additional members who are vitally needed to extend the preventive work of this division."

The chief revealed that one out of every three cars stopped in the five road checks conducted during 1963 by city police was mechanically defective in a minor or major degree.

He said the road blocks also had netted a large number of hidden violations such as illegal possession of liquor and driving while licence was suspended.

He promised to step up the road block checks this year "to a marked degree" and suggested that the civil defence auxiliary police should be recruited for helping regular police make traffic checks before the Christmas holidays.

RESCUE CO-ORDINATION STAYS AT VANCOUVER HEADQUARTERS

The RCAF Rescue Co-ordination Centre will remain at its present Vancouver headquarters, it was announced at air force headquarters in Ottawa this morning.

It had been speculated in December that the rescue co-ordination centre was slated for a move to Victoria.

Decision to leave rescue headquarters in Vancouver was recommended by a study group headed by Air Commodore Ralph C. Weston, senior air officer, Pacific Coast.

No details for the change in plans were announced.

Intervention Unlikely In Shipyard Strike

Municipal intervention in a three-week-old major shipyard strike seems unlikely in Victoria and Esquimalt.

"This is not municipal business," declared Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele today when asked if he would join North Vancouver Mayor William Angus in an approach to both parties in the event of negotiating failure next week.

"We are concerned because it affects the community, and we are watching with great interest. But it is not the part of the reeve to interfere in spite of the importance of shipyards to the welfare of the community," Reeve Wurtele said.

He added:

MOSTLY VICTORIA

"Certainly, they affect the economy of the district, but it is mostly Victoria, not so much the surrounding municipalities."

Victoria Machinery Depot's two yards are both in Victoria, while Yarrows Ltd. is the sole yard in Esquimalt.

Mayor R. B. Wilson was hesitant about intervention. Informed of Mayor Angus' proposal, he said:

RELUCTANT

"This is news to me. I would like to think about it before I comment." He implied reluctance to act, but affirmed his concern about the strike situation. He said he thought of it "constantly."

Mayor Angus said if nothing comes of a meeting Wednesday, in which unions put forth reduced contract requests, the city and district may approach the parties "to see if we can expedite matters."

Burrard Drydock Ltd., an associate of Yarrows, is located in North Vancouver.

2,020 IDLE

All told, 2,020 men employed in the four yards are idle while pressing their contract improvements.

Management is expected to reply Monday to the reduced bid, which would provide for a two-year contract, two-15-cent wage hikes on the basic $2.70 an hour, holiday and welfare improvements.

The 22 striking unions' representatives and management delegates met with chief B.C. labor conciliation officer Reg Clements.

Reign Ending For Another CPR Princess

It's the end of the line for another "Princess."

This time it is Ss. Princess Norah, one of the best-known of the CPR's long list of coastal Princesses.

Princess Norah ended her career last year, wearing her third name—Canadian Prince, owned by Northland Navigation Company of Vancouver. A new vessel, Northland Prince, replaced her last summer on the tourist run to Alaska ports.

The Princess Norah was built at Glasgow in 1929, especially designed for the CPR's combination freight and passenger service on the west coast of Vancouver Island. To aid her in navigating the narrow, twisting channels which are common on the west coast, her builders added a bow-thrust propeller.

As it turned out, most of Norah's life was spent on the northern B.C. and Alaska run.

In 1955, at a time when the CPR was gradually easing off the activities of the B.C. Coast Service, she became a two-company ship, operated jointly by the CPR and CNR as the Queen of the North.

Northland Navigation bought the ship in 1959 for the Vancouver-Prince Rupert service. She has been laid up since last October.

Now she's up for sale to the highest bidder, with the scrapheap lurking in the background.

Guilty Driver Fined $350 For Hit-Run

A hit-and-run driver pursued at high speed by his enraged victim was fined $350 in city police court today.

Donald A. Penner pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an acident.

He was chased four miles by his victim, city prosecutor Peter Birkett said this morning, and eventually hit a power pole after a wild flight through narrow streets at speeds up to 60 miles an hour.

Penner was driving south on Douglas at about 2 a.m. Feb. 9 when he sideswiped a car travelling in the same direction, the court was told.

GAVE CHASE

His victim gave chase, following him off Douglas through smaller streets until Penner lost control of his car on Crease Avenue and smashed into a power pole, coming to rest in a front yard at 270 Crease.

He told investigating police he had been "trying to shake off" the car following him.

He said he didn't realize he had been in a collision.

A breathalyzer test indicated his blood alcohol level as .13 per cent, said Mr. Birkett.

There was $250 worth of damage to Penner's car, police estimated, and his victim's car cost $75 to repair.

Magistrate William Ostler fined Penner $150 for careless driving, $200 for failure to remain and suspended his driver's licence.

Driver Returned To Accident, Fined Anyway

A man who came back later to the scene of an accident was fined $145 in city police court this morning for careless driving and failing to remain at an accident.

William Francis Pannel, of Mesachie Lake, pleaded guilty to both charges.

Court was told Pannel sideswiped another car at Begbie and Ash about 1 p.m. Dec. 23.

He said he stopped about 200 feet away and looked for the car he had hit but couldn't see it.

He telephoned the police from the home where he was staying, went back to the scene and admitted to the constable there he had been in an accident.

"It's commendable to have gone back, but you should have stopped at the time," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

"If some one had been injured, you could have saved his life by giving him assistance."

Pannel also had his driver's licence suspended.

Three Victorians Win UBC Awards For Achievement

Three Victoria students will receive achievement awards at University of B.C. Thursday during education week recognition by chancellor Dr. Phyllis Ross.

They are science student Kenneth A. Dawson, forester Bruce Weber and nursing student Margaret Lendrum. Twenty-nine others will also be honored, having been selected as outstanding by deans and the heads of UBC schools.

Topics of the Day

Members of the ivy-covered, old world Union Club Wednesday voted overwhelmingly to put $100,000 worth of improvements into their basement.

The venerable gentleman's club is remodelling the ladies' lounge.

It will expand the area from its present seating capacity of about 30 to 100.

Detailed plans are being drawn up.

The 17-year-old pleaded guilty last week to stealing $1,000 worth of clothes after he broke into Bob Tang's Slack Shop, 787 Fort Street, and to breaking into Hickman, Tye Hardware, 910 View Street.

"It is impossible not to feel a measure of sympathy for you," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

"Nothing can be done but to send you where you can get discipline and training."

SOMETHING NEW AT WAX MUSEUM

Fiction Folk 'Come to Life'

The art of molding wax figures has taken on a lighter touch as a new $25,000 wax fairyland opens in Victoria, Friday.

No longer is the chamber of horrors likely to be the most memorable part of a visit to the wax museum.

Now characters from Grimm's fairytales and Lewis Carroll's idol, as they come to life in the new 750-square-foot fairyland will be the highlight for most trippers to the museum.

On Friday and any day thereafter children will be able to walk through "Fairyland" at the Royal London Wax Museum and see Alice as she peers into the looking glass, Hansel and Gretel as they meet the witch, and Jack as he surveys all from the top of his beanstalk.

For those kiddies ages six to 96 who like to think of fairyland as a slightly dangerous place, there is St. George and the dragon who snorts smoke from his nostrils.

"Fairyland" is the first exhibit of its kind to be shown anywhere in North America and possibly the world.

President of the Museum, W. P. Emman said when the museum opens Friday it is expected to remain open the year-round.

Hours of operation will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays.

Other prominent figures who have been added to the collection include Pope Paul VI, Albert Einstein and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

YM-YW Officials To Consider Seven Tenders

Officials meet today to try to choose a bid for construction of a new YM-YWCA building.

Total cost is estimated at about $1,000,000, including furnishings, and deadline for tenders on the building itself closed Wednesday.

At least seven firms were interested in the job.

Building and fund-raising committees were to discuss the bids with architects. To date, there is $942,000 pledged to the campaign, which could rise to $967,000 with a provincial government grant if planners succeed in erecting a debt-free building.

Q. Will you please tell me the origin and composition of heroin? W.E.S.

A. Heroin is a trade name for diacetylmorphine, a derivative of the drug morphine which is obtained from the opium poppy.

Before it is used commercially, it is dissolved in dilute sulphuric acid and treated with bleaching agents. By this time, morphine has become white, feathery crystals.

Q. Could you please tell me the difference in time between Victoria and New Delhi, India? D. McK.

MINING CLAIMS GRANTED IN PROVINCIAL PARK

First Under New Policy

The B.C. cabinet today authorized two mining claims in a Class A provincial park—the first since a new policy to allow industry into the parks was announced in the legislature.

A cabinet order approved a lease on two claims in Kokanee Glacier Park near Nelson.

It was awarded to two Edmonton men, Garnet Norris and Morris McLeod Stevenson.

Mines and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan could not be immediately reachd for an explanation.

However, it was reported the two claims were originally staked before the park was established under crown reserve.

The cabinet order said the claims had reverted to the crown because of non-payment of taxes.

It did not say when the crown took back the claims.

However, it did say mining operation will not "interfere" with use of the park.

Kokanee is a small wilderness park.

Mr. Kiernan earlier announced the government would allow mining and logging in wilderness parks.

He said industry would provide access roads where the public cannot now get into wilderness areas.

Herridge Alleges:

U.S. WAS 'DUPED' ON COLUMBIA

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A New Democratic Party MP claims he has evidence showing that the federal and B.C. governments "duped" the U.S. into paying an unrealistically high price for Columbia River downstream benefits.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) says he has a copy of a letter written by Jack Davis, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, which admits to the tactic.

The letter, says Mr. Herridge, was written in reply to Richard Deane, an electrical engineer of Trail. Mr. Deane had queried Mr. Davis concerning cost estimates of High Arrow Dam, one of three dams to be built under the Canada-U.S. Columbia River treaty.

Said Mr. Davis to Mr. Deane, according to the document Mr. Herridge holds:

'STUPID' STATEMENT WRONG

By FRANK RUTTER

B.C. Resouces Minister Ray Williston today emphatically denied the U.S. was duped into paying too much for Columbia River power.

The charge, made by Kootenay West MP Bert Herridge in Ottawa today is "bad for Canada" and "pretty stupid," Mr. Williston said.

Mr. Herridge produced a letter he said was from Jack Davis, parilamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, to Richard Deane, an engineer for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd., at Trail.

The letter said cost estimates for Columbia dams to be built in B.C. were deliberately inflated to influence negotiations with the U.S.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The 51 men and one lucky woman of our Legislative Assembly are hard-working people. On Wednesday they arranged to spend $47,759,505, a sum which includes Premier Bennett's $17,500 salary and a $400 bite for arrears of dyking assessments on lands reverted to the Crown.

But lawmakers are also human, and with our unlegislated Victoria spring invading the bloodstream, parliament at times relaxes its decorum to a remarkable degree.

Members, and even ministers, start on a round of deskhopping. They drop in on a friend down the line for a chat.

To illustrate, let us follow the progress of Highways Minister Gaglardi, one of a captive audience listening while red-tie NDP Leo Nimsick expands on the subject of rural electrification.

Mr. Gaglardi slips into the seat vacated for the moment by Public Works Minister Chant, a cabinet member known to keep an iron ration of goodies—the edible kind—in his desk.

Must Keep Defences Up, U.S. Warns

GENEVA (AP)—The United States warned today it must continue building up its own defences as long as there is no agreement on genuine disarmament.

U.S. negotiator William C. Foster delivered the American warning before leaving the deadlocked 17-nation disarmament talks to return to Washington. Earlier he told the conference he and Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin, the conference co-chairmen, had not been able to agree on an agenda for the talks.

Foster appealed to Tsarapkin to help the conference out of the stalemate.

"While we negotiate, the arms race goes on," the American said, adding:

"In the absence of varified disarmament agreements, the United States must continue to develop its defences . . .

"Levels of armaments on both sides are increasing, almost without interruption . . . especially missiles which are capable of delivering nuclear warheads over long ranges."

'Un-Texan' To Convict Jack Ruby?

DALLAS (UPI)—Jack Ruby's lawyers jolted the courtroom today with the suggestion that killing a Communist may not deserve the death penalty.

As the trial entered its 10th day with chances good for the quick filling of the last four places on the jury, defence attorney Joe H. Tonahill put this question to the 99th prospect:

"Would you consider it un-Texan to be a member of the first jury in America to give the death penalty for shooting a Communist?"

Lee Harvey Oswald was an avowed Marxist.

Panelist C. B. Perkins was not allowed to answer. The three prosecutors leaped up with objections and were sustained. Perkins was then removed for having an opinion.

The effort to complete a jury, bogged down again today when the first six prospective jurors were all disqualified.

The total jury candidates called reached 101 in the first hour of the morning session.

Eight men and women have been chosen as jurors, leaving four to be found.

$10 MILLION CAPITAL

B.C. Will Get 2nd New Bank

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Hungarian-born financiers, who parlayed a capital investment of $500 each into a multi-million-dollar international firm, have announced plans for Canada's third new chartered bank.

Peter Paul Saunders and Andrew Elliot Saxton said Wednesday they have applied to Parliament for a federal charter to form the Laurentide Bank of Canada.

Mr. Saunders is president of Laurentide Financial Corporation and Mr. Saxton vice-president.

Mr. Saunders said the bank will have at least $10,000,000 authorized capital. This compares with the $10,000,000 authorized capital in the proposed Bank of Western Canada. B.C. Premier Bennett said capitalization for the proposed Bank of British Columbia would be "many times more than $50,000,000."

"If our application is accepted, the bank will be national in character with its head office in Vancouver and it will operate across the country," Mr. Saunders said.

It would launch operations simultaneously across Canada in the 85 branch offices of the existing loan company. The bank may function as a subsidiary to the loan company or Laurentide shareholders could be given a preferred opportunity to subscribe the required capital.

The company had about 5,800 shareholders — some 2,000 in B.C.

The Bank of British Columbia is expected to operate within B.C. during initial stages and the Bank of Western Canada in the four western provinces.

Notice of intention of the new bank will appear in the Canada Gazette Friday and for three successive weeks, he said, before the petition naming the bank, its provincial directors and head office location, is filed with Parliament.

Laurentide is the outgrowth of astute manipulation of shares and capital that transformed

New Bank Welcomed, Gov't Plan Unchanged

The B.C. government's plan to promote a bank will not be affected by announcement of another new bank by a finance company, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday.

The Laurentide Finance Co. announced it plans a new chartered bank with a capital of $10,000,000 and head offices in Vancouver.

"This is no relation to the Bank of B.C.," the premier told Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in the legislature.

Outside the House, Mr. Bennett told reporters he had heard rumors about the Laurentide plan.

But it will not be large enough to take the place of the government's plan, he said.

"It will be a private enterprise bank—so will be the Bank of B.C."

The government plans to buy up to 25 per cent of the Bank of B.C. shares.

Mr. Bennett recalled that Attorney-General Robert Bonner only Tuesday predicted there will be other new banks.

Mr. Bonner declined to answer when asked if he had known then about Laurentide.

However, he said the new venture was "very welcome" and reflected a general move to make western Canada a financial centre.

Ottawa to Keep Its Parks Pure

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government feels that the harvesting of resources above or below the surface in national parks is not consistent "at all" with the way in which the parks should be maintained.

With these words, Resources Minister Laing assured the Commons today that Ottawa is sticking with its long-time policy of "maintaining our national parks in a nature state, which means the preservation of the wilderness aspect of the parks."

IN COMMONS

Queen Threats Raise New Storm

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Guy Favreau said today he intends to communicate with Ontario and Quebec attorneys-general once he receives the text of statements by separatist Dr. Marcel Chaput about the fall visit of the Queen.

Mr. Favreau, pressed in the Commons by opposition MPs asking whether charges will be laid against Dr. Chaput, replied that he expected to receive the text of Dr. Chaput's remarks shortly and when he did, he planned to communicate with the provincial authorities.

Opposition MPs, continuing their pressure of the government over Dr. Chaput's Monday night speech in Toronto, again placed on the Commons record these words attributed to the separatist leader:

"Some of my own people are ready to let her (the Queen) know—and brutally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) described them as clearly "calculated to disturb the tranquility of the state."

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) argued that the words showed a criminal intent on the part of Dr. Chaput and that it was Mr. Favreau's responsibility to take legal steps.

Mr. Nielsen and Mr. Woolliams are lawyers.

Mr. Nielsen said, over shouted protests from government supporters, that Attorney-General Fred Cass of Ontario has said he does not know whether the

Gibson: B.C. Can Be Rich Bennett: Tell Me More

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Logging tycoon Gordon Gibson Wednesday offered the B.C. government a plan he said would bring $600,000,000 a year revenue from forests.

Mr. Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, said B.C. timber resources total 2,000 billion feet. At $10 per thousand feet, they are worth $10,000 to every person in the province.

If the timber were properly harvested, he said, the annual cut would be worth $6,000,000,000 a year.

His idea was to persuade 20 companies of the size and efficiency of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River to build conversion plants over the next 10 years at a cost of $3,000,000,000.

These companies would share profits equally with the provincial government, possibly on a 99-year contract.

The government would also take 5 per cent of the end selling price of the timber products as a stumpage fee.

The profits and stumpage would each bring $300,000,000 a year revenue, Mr. Gibson said.

"We would be the richest place in the world."

Last year the B.C. government got only $40,000,000 from the forest industry, Mr. Gibson said. It could have been at least $200,000,000.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the government would consider any plan for forest development.

But he disagreed with Mr. Gibson's proposals for fixed assessments and taxes on a long term basis. The present system of forest management licensing allows annual changes in fees, he said.

The government now collects royalties, a 10 per cent profits tax, and a share of employees' and corporation income taxes.

ASTRONAUT GROUNDED ON BATHROOM RUG

COLUMBUS (AP) — Former astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., whose official entrance into politics may be delayed because of a "mild" concussion, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Grant Hospital.

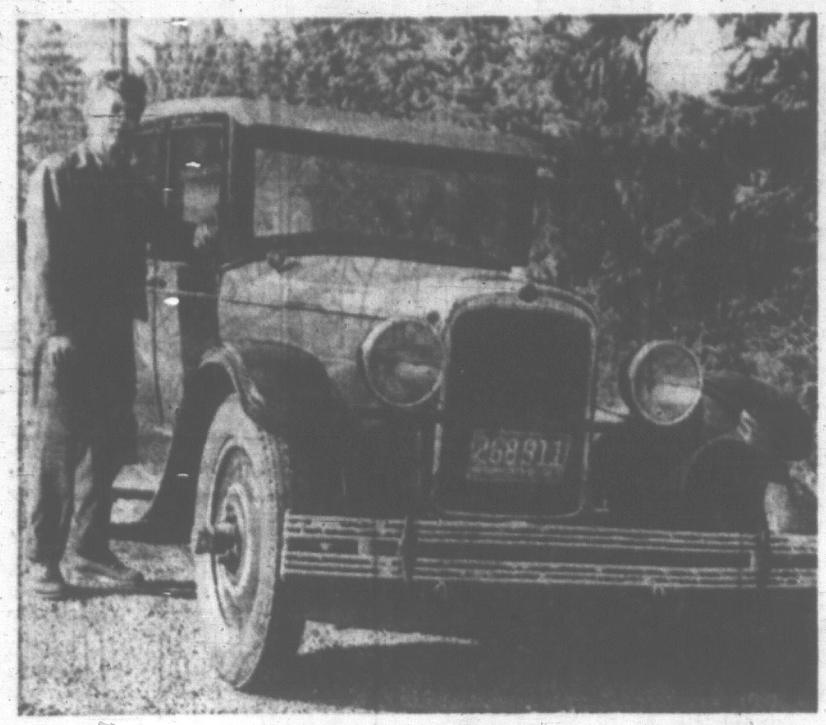

Attaches said Glenn, injured Wednesday in a fall inside his apartment bathroom, was resting fairly comfortably.

Glenn, who was set to launch his bid for the Ohio Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate on Monday, was injured when he slipped on a bathroom rug. He fell—breaking a detached medicine cabinet mirror he had been trying to put back into place—and struck his head on the bathtub.

The marine lieutenant-colonel, scheduled to be released from active duty this weekend, suffered a cut on the forehead and a bruise behind the left ear.

Allan Dias and the 1927 Nash

Young Owner Feels Like King Driving 'Queen of the Road'

A young Duncan mechanic is practically down to his last horseless carriage.

But Alan Dias is hanging on to his 1927 Nash even if his 1929 Graham Paige and his 1929 Model A roadster have to go.

His other Model A and the 1933 Buick have already been driven out of the family by lack of storage space.

But his Nash is something special.

Alan bought it in Chemainus for quite a low sum, but he wouldn't part with it for a large one.

It spent a lot of its life in storage, and emerged needing only a paint job to make it look like a queen of the road again.

Inside apart from the roll-up blinds on the back windows—it is a model of tasteful simplicity.

The austere wooden dashboard has the minimum of needed instruments on it, the gear shift is in the centre where it works best anyway, and the front seats are divided and comfortable.

The upholstery is the original grey plush, and the car was so little used the furry fabric isn't even worn.

Alan uses the car for stately motoring up and down the island, and has driven it to the mainland ocasionally without any problems.

His family is moving soon, and there will be even less space for automobiles.

The Model A roadster is temporarily safe in Saskatchewan.

The Graham Paige will be sold—all 4,000 pounds of it—as soon as the valves are ground.

But where Alan goes, the Nash goes.

"I'm proud of that car. I wouldn't part with it for anything," he says.

dell of Revelstoke.

They munch contentedly while Mr. Nimsick lists Kootenay towns forced to depend upon an Idaho power outlet for their electricity.

Presently highways liberates another fistful of public works; popcorn, or whatever, and wanders down the government back row to share the treat with facts-and-figures specialist Ralph Loffmark, Vancouver-Point Grey.

"Then there is Grasmere," Mr. Nimsick informs the House, "and also, Yahk . . ."

Back Bench Giggles

Across the way, Mr. Gaglardi starts, swallows, and turns.

"What," he demands, "is the name of that place?"

"Yahk," replies the interrupted member. "Yahk, Yahk . . . and if the minister wishes me to answer his questions, he had better be in his seat!"

That started it: a climate of silliness which set the back benches — always easily amused—to giggling until committee of supply chairman William Speare rapped for order.

Then on we went, Yahk, Yahk, Yahk, through an afternoon surely strayed from April, to vote Mr. Bennett his salary and office expenses, and to pass finance estimates.

These are good days under parliament's dome. A surprisingly mild and easy session has left tempers so far unfrayed. The formal debate of Throne Speech and budget has given place to the give-and-take of estimates, where a dozen members of all parties may be heard from in half an hour.

Throne Empty

With the House in committee of supply under a chairman, the speaker's throne is empty.

This doesn't mean that Speaker William Murray of Prince Rupert can nap in idleness, though. He is parliament's business manager as well as its referee, and must see that its ponderous wheels run easy.

question of legal action against Dr. Chaput is within his jurisdiction.

Mr. Favreau replied that Mr. Cass has said he is looking into the matter.

Mr. Nielsen also contended that legal action would have to be taken within six days of the statements being made. That limit would expire Friday. Would the government begin action before then?

Mr. Favreau said he is "well aware" of the limitations and restrictions spelled out in the Criminal Code. His own concern about the matter is "at least as deep" as that of any MP who felt it his duty to raise the question in the Commons.

He intended to discharge his duties as minister in a manner consistent with provincial administration of justice.

DOES NOT REPLY

There was no reply.

Mr. Woolliams ran afoul of the Speaker in pressing Mr. Favreau for legal action and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker challenged Mr. Favreau to say whether he had been in touch with the provincial authorities to suggest action.

Mr. Favreau replied that he still was awaiting the text of Dr. Chaput's remarks. When he received it, he would get in touch with them.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette fired the parting shot, at least for the time being.

He asked why Ontario officials haven't arrested Dr. Chaput to satisfy the Conservatives in the Commons.

WATERFRONT LAND

'Timber Barons Eluding Taxes'

B.C.'s timber barons are eluding taxes on waterfront property they will later sell for enormous profits, Alberni MLA John Squire charged Wednesday.

He said the holders of Vancouver Island timber licences such as MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River and Rayonier have hundreds of thousands of miles of lake, river and sea frontage.

But they are not paying the same property taxes as individual homeowners.

They should be taxed the same rates, Mr. Squire said.

"We're watching them," Premier W. A. C. Bennett told him.

Mr. Squire also said that he could not see the relationship between the cost and shortage of land and the cost of providing schools.

There had been huge assessment increases in such areas as Long Beach just because a few lots had been subdivided, he said.

William Hartley (NDP—Yale) said that farmers are being taxed off their land.

Mr. Bennett responded that if land taxes were lifted "great landowners" from outside would come in and buy up all the property.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said large groups already control "whole empires."

Mr. Bennett said the government's assessment formula is "averaged out" and appeals are provided.

Ralph Loffmark (SC—Point Grey), described by Liberal leader Ray Perrault as "the shadow minister of finance," helped his premier out

Assessments must be equal for everyone, he said.

If the NDP could offer a new plan that would relieve the situation and still be fair to all, "the world is waiting for it the way it's waiting for the sunrise tomorrow."

Downtown Building Booming

The man mainly responsible for the drive of the Victoria Downtown Business Association to prevent the "core of the city" from suffering the decay which has beset many other cities, is Archie H. Wills, the managing-secretary, generally regarded as "Mr. Downtown."

Success of his activity can be seen in the proposal to build a new 15-storey building at Douglas and Courtney Streets and in the continuing faith of trust companies and outside investors as demonstrated by their willingness to buy downtown property. Latest example of this is the recent sale of the YWCA and YMCA buildings as soon as they were on the market.

"Victoria, despite her alleged reputation for lack of initiative and a desire for quiet and rest, was, as usual, alert and ready for action when the first signs of competition showed on the city limits in the form of shopping centres," says Mr. Wills.

"For six years we have labored, often frustrated, but always determined to have the downtown prepared for any competition. Today we feel we have accomplished much. If we had not acted and the city had slept on, we shudder to think of what might have happened to downtown.

UNCLUTTERED

"We have a downtown we can be proud of. We have wide, uncluttered streets, no distracting poles and wires. We have a mountain at the south end of every north-south street. We have fine stores. Our new carparks have solved some of our parking problems and our traffic control is under constant scrutiny.

"The fact that these problems remain bothersome at times, simply means that we are constantly growing, which is something we all desire. Another 20,000 people will be living in our area within a few years," Mr. Wills said.

"Other cities, which have failed to act and face up to the changing pattern, are in difficulty. Victoria is better off and maybe that is the reason that shoppers in the downtown area are unusually courteous, even before the bargain counters. 'That's what makes Victoria different."
